Dear Michael: When Your a Professional Publicist and Professional Fund Raiser. You have Trade Secrets. You use The Name Of The American Ambassdor for each Country and You ask How to Pronounce The Military Chief or General in Charge. They All Coordinate and usually The nearest one does The Strastegic Resue or Pick Up. You never should do that Alone there Always in a Team. Ironically There All celebrating Everyone Who has Made The Northpole at The base of Katmandu with The Sherpa's. I used that knowledge so it was a Matter of We Don't Want this Explorer getting Picked Up by The Wrong Party, That way they wanted Him Alive and Believed He has Valuable Information. Hi Doc...yeah, Drudge does seem to find the dirt that others can't. Most of the information I find on corporate malfeasance comes right out of the Wall Street Journal, CNNMoney, BusinessWeek, etc. They all have a good handle on what is going on and are great resources.

Dear Michael: Hello, OK this is the Most important thing. Look for Film Commissions Near Roumania Castle Film Studios , that Have Money. We are going to make a Super Natural Thriller Feature Film and Go Directly to a Television Series. Just Like "Buffy The Vampire Slayer" It had 1 Feature Film did About $16 Mil Usd USA Box Office . It had a 5 Year Fantastic Run on TV, They sell The Box set for each year around $60.00 Usd and $65 Pounds in Foreign. It's been syndicated and is a Huge cash cow. The Main Actress got Married and wants to have Babies in real Life. We want to Fill that Timeslot on TV. Were Looking for seed capital, equity financial players. This is what We Most Need. The Budget is about $7 Mil Usd. But will need more. For Special Effects, SoundTrack and Prints

Hollywood's man in D.C. to talk succession Monday

WASHINGTON (Hollywood Reporter) - Hollywood's top lobbyist, Jack Valenti, will meet Monday with top studio executives to discuss a succession plam.

Valenti, 81, has hinted that he is contemplating stepping down as president and CEO of the Motion Picture Assn. of America, and has held discussions with studio executives for some time about planning for an orderly changing of the guard.

When asked last week at a going away party for Hilary Rosen, who is leaving the helm of the Recording Industry Association of America, when this would happen for him, Valenti said flatly: "The job's not open."

While he may still be in control, and there is no set timetable for his departure, he has told people privately that he would like to have a succession plan in place by the end of the year. Valenti has run the MPAA since 1966.

It was unclear what exactly would occur in Sunday's meeting. While there have been reports that the studios are expected to recommend names, Valenti has said that that isn't true. Sources with knowledge about the meeting said a likely outcome is that the studios will decide how to find a replacement.

"It as much to let them know he's really serious," said one industry source. "They need to get started on working on it. He wants them to know he's not going to do this job forever."

Selecting Valenti's replacement is likely to be problematic as the heads of all seven major studios that comprise the MPAA have to agree.

"We can hardly get those guys to agree on one line in a piece of legislation, how easy do you think it's going to be to get them to agree on someone to replace Jack," said one Washington-based industry executive.

The names of possible successors have included Sherry Lansing, who heads the motion picture group of Viacom Inc.'s Paramount Pictures, to President Clinton.

The most frequently mentioned name recently is Rep. Billy Tauzin, R-La., chairman of the House Energy and Commerce Committee, but Tauzin declared earlier this week that he planned to run for re-election in 2004, denying interest in Valenti's job.

"We're not going anywhere," said Tauzin spokesman Ken Johnson.

Rep. David Dreier, R-Calif, chairman of the House Rules Committee, has also been mentioned, as have actor and former Republican senator Fred Thompson, who has returned to TV on "Law Copyright Reuters Ltd. VOTE FOR TOTAL HUNT BAN MPs in the House of Commons have voted in favour of an outright ban on fox hunting in England and Wales.

Those in favour numbered 362, compared to 154 hunting supporters.

The majority was a total of 208 people in favour after a passionate five-and-a-half hour debate.

The news came minutes after ministers decided not to persist with demands for a limited ban on hunting with dogs.

It proved another damaging setback for Prime Minister Tony Blair, who did not take part in the debate and did not vote.

The Bill is certain to face stiff opposition from pro-hunt peers in the Lords.

It will have to be re-committed to a standing committee for "tidying up" before the summer recess but anti-hunt MPs are confident that despite the delay the Bill can still be forced through the Upper House using the Parliament Act.

The result was greeted by loud cheers in the Commons gallery but despair among pro-hunt supporters who had demonstrated noisily outside Parliament all day.

Over the weekend, Environment Secretary Margaret Beckett had urged MPs not to "wreck" the Bill by voting for the total ban on fox hunting.

The Prime Minister's spokesman made clear that Mr Blair supported the Bill as it stood, without amendment.

Discovery ups odds that Earth has twin Distant planet's orbit provides hint
Los Angeles Times

Another planet has been added to the list of 100 or so worlds that astronomers have discovered around distant stars -- but unlike all those other planets, this one is in a solar system that may be capable of supporting another Earth.

The discovery, which was announced recently at a conference in Paris and is to be published in an upcoming issue of the Astrophysical Journal, marks the first time that the search for extrasolar worlds has produced a planet orbiting in a system so strikingly similar to our own.

"This planet and its orbit are quite reminiscent of Jupiter," said Brad Carter, an astronomer at the University of Southern Queensland and lead author of the upcoming Astrophysical Journal article.

The planet, which is a gas giant about twice the size of Jupiter, travels around a star very much like our own sun in a nearly circular orbit about three-fifths the size of that of our solar system's resident giant.

Located 90 light years from Earth in the southern sky constellation Puppis, this planet circles its sun, known as HD70642, every six years.

What is most interesting about this system, though, is what the astronomers didn't find.

Unlike other systems with Jupiter-like planets orbiting at Jupiter-like distances, this system does not have any other gas giants closer to its sun in the region where liquid water could exist -- the so-called habitable zone. The finding suggests that this void could be filled by smaller, rocky planets.

"If we see a big empty gap," said astronomer Debra A. Fischer, co-author of the Astrophysical Journal article, "we have to wonder if it's really empty."

Because the Jupiter-like planet is in a stable circular orbit, it's a good indication that smaller, more Earth-like planets could also be in stable orbits.

The vast majority of the 100 or so extrasolar planets that astronomers have discovered are in somewhat chaotic orbits, making it unlikely that a tiny rocky planet could remain in the habitable zone long enough for advanced life forms to evolve. The larger gas giants would most likely kick them out.

The technique that astronomers used to discover this planet, along with the majority of the other planets found over the last decade, will not reveal any "Earths," which would be too small to detect.

The method, which Carnegie Institution of Washington astronomer Paul Butler pioneered with Geoff Marcy, a University of California at Berkeley astronomer, is known as the Doppler Wobble technique. True to its name, this technique detects the slight "wobble" that stars exhibit when their large planets tug on them. The larger the planet, the more the stars wobble, making it much easier to detect huge gas giants than tiny rocky worlds.

"It doesn't seem possible that we can detect Earth-like worlds in Earth-like orbits using ground-based technology," Carter said, referring to the 4-meter Anglo-Australian Telescope used to detect the newest extrasolar planet. "What we're doing is laying the groundwork for future missions."

Even though this latest find doesn't give direct evidence that another Earth exists, Carter added: "It improves the chances that there are Earth-like worlds and life out there among the stars."

NASA has a trio of spacecraft missions in the works to aid the search for planets like our own. Kepler, due for launch in 2007, will be the first of the missions to pick up where ground-based telescopes leave off.

generation of applications from Macromedia, Creature House and Adobe have introduced creative tools that finally make it possible to draw outside the lines (or paths or polygons or Bezigons) while maintaining the advantages of vector-based graphics applications--editability and resolution independence.

15 splatter and displacement effects
by David Nagel
Synthetik Studio Artist 2.0 has the capability to generate a wide range of paint effects with its built-in paint synthesizer, including brushes that not only apply paint and texture to the canvas, but that also flow like liquids, spreading out and blending and displacing the paint that's already on the canvas. This week we offer variations on this liquid brush feature in the form of 15 Paint Patch presets designed to smear, blend and and otherwise distort your image. Read on for download and installation instructions.

Extensis PhotoFrame 2.5
Border and edge effects for Adobe Photoshop
by David Nagel
Frame and border creation tools are nothing new for graphic designers. They come in all varieties, from edge effects to mattes to simple overlays of photographically produced frames. Many of these are easy enough to produce yourself, assuming you have a lot of time on your hands and don't need to produce them very often. But for those who need high-quality borders and want to save some time, a plugin package like Extensis PhotoFrame 2.5 is the way to go.

Classified Section of Sept. 11 Report Faults Saudi Rulers

By DAVID JOHNSTON

ASHINGTON, July 25 — Senior officials of Saudi Arabia have funneled hundreds of millions of dollars to charitable groups and other organizations that may have helped finance the September 2001 attacks, a still-classified section of a Congressional report on the hijackings says, according to people who have read it.

The 28-page section of the report was deleted from the nearly 900-page declassified version released on Thursday by a joint committee of the House and Senate intelligence committees. The chapter focuses on the role foreign governments played in the hijackings, but centers almost entirely on Saudi Arabia, the people who saw the section said.

The Bush administration's refusal to allow the committee to disclose the contents of the chapter has stirred resentment in Congress, where some lawmakers have said the administration's desire to protect the ruling Saudi family had prevented the American public from learning crucial facts about the attacks. The report has been denounced by the Saudi ambassador to the United States, and some American officials questioned whether the committee had made a conclusive case linking Saudi funding to the hijackings.

The public report concluded that the F.B.I. and C.I.A. had known for years that Al Qaeda sought to strike inside the United States, but focused their attention on the possibility of attacks overseas.

The declassified section of the report discloses the testimony of several unidentified officials who criticized the Saudi government for being uncooperative in terrorism investigations, but makes no reference to Riyadh's financing of groups that supported terror.

Some people who have read the classified chapter said it represented a searing indictment of how Saudi Arabia's ruling elite have, under the guise of support for Islamic charities, distributed millions of dollars to terrorists through an informal network of Saudi nationals, including some in the United States.

But other officials said the stricken chapter retraces Saudi Arabia's well-documented support for Islamic charitable groups and said the report asserts without convincing evidence that Saudi officials knew that recipient groups used the money to finance terror.

The public version of the report identified Omar al-Bayoumi, a Saudi student who befriended and helped finance two Saudi men who later turned out to be hijackers.

Mr. Bayoumi helped pay the expenses for the men, Khalid Almidhar and Nawaq Alhazmi. Mr. Bayoumi, the report said, "had access to seemingly unlimited funding from Saudi Arabia." The report said Mr. Bayoumi was employed by the Saudi civil aviation authority and left open his motivations for supporting the two men.

The Saudi ambassador to the United States has angrily denied that his country had failed to cooperate with the F.B.I. and C.I.A. in fighting terrorism and dismissed accusations that it helped finance two of the hijackers as "outrageous."

Prince Bandar bin Sultan, the Saudi ambassador, said in a statement after the report was released on Thursday that his country "has been one of the most active partners in the war on terrorism, as the president and other administration officials have repeatedly and publicly attested."

Prince Bandar dismissed the report's assertions about Saudi involvement in the hijackings.

"The idea that the Saudi government funded, organized or even knew about Sept. 11 is malicious and blatantly false," Prince Bandar said. "There is something wrong with the basic logic of those who spread these spurious charges. Al Qaeda is a cult that is seeking to destroy Saudi Arabia as well as the United States. By what logic would we support a cult that is trying to kill us?"

He added: "In a 900-page report, 28 blanked-out pages are being used by some to malign our country and our people. Rumors, innuendos and untruths have become, when it comes to the kingdom, the order of the day."

Asked to comment on the report today, a Saudi Embassy representative said Prince Bandar was out of town and could not be reached.

Today, a senior Democratic senator wrote to President Bush asking for the White House to demand that the Saudis turn over Mr. Bayoumi, who is believed to be residing in the kingdom.

"The link between al-Bayoumi and the hijackers is the best evidence yet that part of official Saudi Arabia might have been involved in the attacks," said Senator Charles E. Schumer of New York. "If the Saudi royal family is as committed to fighting terrorism as it claims, it will turn this guy over to U.S. officials immediately so that we can finally get to the bottom of his role in the attacks and his links to Al Qaeda."

Behind the immediate issue of whether Saudi Arabia played any role in terrorism are a complex web of political, military and economic connections between the two countries. Successive Republican and Democratic administrations have aggressively sought to maintain the relationship with a huge producer of oil and an ally in the Arab world.

One section of the report took issue with Louis J. Freeh, the former F.B.I. director, who testified to the joint committee that the bureau "was able to forge an effective working relationship with the Saudi police and Interior Ministry."

The report quoted several senior government officials, who were not identified, expressing contradictory views. One government official told the panel "that he believed the U.S. government's hope of eventually obtaining Saudi cooperation was unrealistic because Saudi assistance to the U.S. is contrary to Saudi national interests."

Another official said: "For the most part it was a very troubled relationship where the Saudis were not providing us quickly or very vigorously with response to it. Sometimes they did, many times they didn't. It was just very slow in coming."

Subject: GOOD NEWS FOR DOC SINDA

Dear Joey

Good News

You might be able to write off all or part of your debts because of some recent consumer legislation in the Californian Courts

Basically your case is that it was very irresponsible of all these credit card companies to lend you money in the first place because they knew you would never be able to pay it back

Your references are

American Bar Association Section of Business Law
The Business Lawyer Journal pages 1229 -- 1231 Volume 58 May 2003

Prohibitions

With respect to covered loans , the California statute prohibits : lending without regard to the borrower's ability to repay (with such ability presumed if the borrowers debt-to-income ratio does not exceed fifty-five percent) , prepayment fees (except under limited circumstances during the first thirty-six months) , balloon loans of five years or less , negative amortization (except , subject to certain conditions and disclosures , on first lien loans) , steering borrowers to loans of lower grade than those for which they could qualify , increasing the interest rate as a result of default , financing more than $1000 , or six percent of the principal amount of the loan not including points and fees , whichever is the greater , recommending or encouraging default on an existing loan when refinancing it with a covered loan , paying loan proceeds directly to a home improvement contractor via a one-party check , and not providing a prescribed cautionary notice to the borrower before closing .

So there you are
You might not have to pay any of it back and what is even better is you are allowed to counter claim damages off all the credit card companies

Kind Regards
Yours Sincerely

Dear Joey

GOOD NEWS

I have at long long last carved out a little niche for myself here

I was reading a local lawyers website and discovered if anyone out there wants to open a local business in Jersey they are mandated by law to employ at least a majority number of locals ie someone like me

Thus if Warner Brothers wanted to open for business here I could help fill their '' local '' quota of '' local '' people here

Like it ?

I think it is great

Kind Regards

The Secret Saudi Flight on 9-13 Could be the Key to the Bush-Saudi-Al Qaeda Connection

By Catherine Arnie

About a month after the September 11th attacks, I read an article in the Tampa Tribune by Kathy Steele entitled " Phantom Flight From Florida ." The intriguing report told the tale of a flight out of Florida that allegedly took place on September 13 - a day when ALL civilian air traffic in the United States was grounded.

"This was out of a Tom Clancy movie," according to a retired homicide detective who was hired for the flight. Its mission was to spirit the son of a Saudi prince, the son of a Saudi army commander, and another unidentified Saudi from Florida to Kentucky, because "there was a perceived threat, and the family of the person wanted him home right away."

The "person" in danger was the son of Prince Sultan bin Abdul Aziz, who is no minor figure in the Saudi Royal family. Rather, Prince Sultan is the kingdom's minister of defense, the third-ranking position in the Saudi Government, whose powers exceed those of even America's super-powerful Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld.

Dan Grossi and Manuel Perez were the two Floridians who were hired to serve as private bodyguards on the flight.

According to the article in the Tampa Tribune, Dan Grossi is a retired Tampa cop who worked in internal affairs and homicide. Perez is a retired FBI man whose experience was in counter-terrorism and bomb-making. Perez now runs a detective agency and the two men provided security for the National Football League at Raymond James Stadium in September of 2001.

The article reported that shortly after the September 11 attack, Lexington police Lt. Mark Barnard received a request from a prominent Saudi Kingdom official for the protection of three young Saudi men in Florida, at least one of whom - Prince Sultan's son - had been studying English at the University of Tampa for three weeks. (Tampa police records listed Sultan Bin Fahad as the individual who specifically requested protection for the three men. That is probably Prince Sultan Bin Fahad, head of the Saudi General Presidency of Youth Welfare. In family-run Saudi Arabia, there is apparently a whole Ministry devoted to keeping Royal youth out of trouble - something the Bush family elders no doubt dream of copying.)

Apparently Barnard then contacted the Tampa police department and two "off-duty" Tampa intelligence detectives were assigned to watch the three Saudis for their protection. At around 11:00 AM on September 13, Dan Grossi received a phone call from the Tampa police detectives who needed help with a problem: escorting the Saudi men they were protecting on a flight to Kentucky.

Grossi and Perez evidently felt they were up to the task, and at 2:30 PM Grossi was contacted by the Tampa Police Department with specific instructions. And by 4:35 PM a plane carrying Grossi, Perez, Prince Sultan's son, the son of an unidentified Saudi military commander, and third unidentified Saudi, was in the air and en route to Kentucky. The private Lear jet flew from Ft. Lauderdale to Tampa, where it parked at Raytheon Airport Services, which owns a private hangar on the outskirts of the Tampa International airport.

(Tampa, of course, is home to General Tommy Franks and the Pentagon's Central Command (CentCom), which now rules Afghanistan and Iraq directly, and indirectly rules the entire oil-rich Middle East and Central Asia through its growing network of Halliburton-supplied military bases. Raytheon, of course, is the massive arms manufacturer that supplied many of the high-tech weapons used in Afghanistan and Iraq. Tampa is also near Venice FL, where Mad Cow Morning News has exposed numerous secrets about the training of 9-11 pilots Mohamed Atta and Marwan Al-Shehhi at shadowy local flight schools. And Tampa is in Florida, where Gov. Jeb Bush stole the 2000 election for his brother George, and where Jeb issued Executive Order 2001-261 to prepare the FL National Guard for a terrorist attack on 9-7-01.)

Their destination, according to the two bodyguards, was the Blue Grass Airport in Lexington, Kentucky, where the three Saudis were to link up with relatives who were in Kentucky to purchase race horses.

Grossi and Perez further stated that upon landing they saw several 747's parked on the tarmac with Arabic writing. The article suggests that at least one of these 747's flew back to Saudi Arabia with the boys, although their Floridian chaperones appear to have left the airport before that occurred. If true, the flight of these 747's would validate at least part of the Michael Moore story about powerful Saudis being allowed to fly out of the U.S. on the second day of the prohibition of all civilian flights.

Perez stated that he was unaware of who their charges were until they landed. Both men told of what a strange feeling it was to fly in an almost empty sky, and Perez recalls asking the pilot, "We're not going to get shot down are we?" - a legitimate fear, given the fact that fighter jets were urgently patrolling the skies looking for any more terrorists.

Regarding the curious fact that the flight had taken place when all other air traffic was still grounded, Dan Grossi said "he was told that clearance for the flight had come from the White House after the Prince's family pulled a favor from former President Bush."

If so, this was no ordinary ex-Presidential favor. In debunking a Michael Moore-inspired Internet rumor about a secret flight of relatives of Osama Bin Laden, Snopes.com describes exactly how restricted the skies were that day:
The Federal Aviation Administration ordered all flights in the United States grounded immediately following the terrorist attacks, and that ban stayed in effect until September 13. (Even then, for that first day commercial carriers were either completing the interrupted flights of September 11 or were repositioning empty aircraft in anticipation of the resumption of full service. New passenger flights did not resume until the 14th.) During that two-day period of full lock-down, only the military and specially FAA-authorized flights that delivered life-saving medical necessities were in the air. The enforcement of the empty skies directive was so stringent that even after the United Network for Organ Sharing sought and gained FAA clearance to use charter aircraft on September 12 to effect time-critical deliveries of organs for transplant, one of its flights carrying a human heart was forced to the ground in Bellingham, Washington, 80 miles short of its Seattle destination, by two Navy F/A-18 fighters. (The organ completed its journey after being transferred to a helicopter.)

After reading the Tampa Tribune article, I distinctly remember blinking and checking the URL to see if I had accidentally clicked on a link to one of those "publications" that spots Elvis, or reports that ninety year old women have just given birth to Bigfoot's baby. But no, this was indeed the Tampa Tribune.

I remember wondering how on earth our government could have authorized a flight out of the country before they even knew who the perpetrators of the attacks were?

And further, why did the families of the young men "perceive a threat" when it wasn't yet clear on the 13th of September exactly WHO had attacked America or where they were from?

According to a transcript on the State Departments website of a statement given by a " Senior White House Official " on September 13 at 5:22 PM it had not yet been announced that Bin Laden was behind the attacks when protection was requested for the three young men.

When this "Senior White House official" was asked if Osama Bin Laden had perpetrated the attacks against the US at 5:22 PM on September 13th, to which he replied: "I think that right now what we need to do is -- as I said, again, this happened 60 hours ago. We don't want to be premature, not because we don't want to name or finger someone, but because we want to make sure that we understand all the connections, not just a connection."

Was Prince Sultan a psychic who somehow mysteriously predicted that 15 of the 19 hijackers would turn out to be Saudi nationals? Or did he perhaps know who was behind the attacks since he was funding charities linked to Al Qaeda?

Now fast forward about a year and a half and imagine my surprise last week when I read a " Newsweek web exclusive " that reported that Prince Sultan bin Abdul Aziz - THE VERY SAME defense minister of Saudi Arabia - is being sued on the behalf of the victims of 9-11 for his alleged role in the financing of groups suspected to have links to the terrorist attacks of 9-11!

"Wow," I thought, "wasn't this the SAME Prince Sultan bin Abdul Aziz who had the kid on the Phantom flight?"

After further checking, I discovered that - yes, my friends - they are one and the same!

According to the Newsweek article, when three attorneys from the "prestigious Houston firm" that represents Sultan bin Abdul Aziz filed a motion in court in the Prince's defense, they also inadvertently provided evidence in the form of "stacks of affidavits and canceled checks" that indicated that the Prince had personally authorized the funneling of millions of dollars on the behalf of Saudi Arabian government to organizations that the US has identified and raided as terrorist front operations sympathetic to Osama Bin Laden.

But perhaps what is just as shocking to me is the allegation that the son of this SAME Prince Sultan bin Abdul Aziz was reportedly flown out of the United States when all other planes were grounded following the special orders of Bush's own father!

Moreover, the entire 9-13 mission of the Lear jet is shrouded in mystery. That mission began in Ft. Lauderdale, stopped in Tampa and Lexington, and returned to Tampa to bring Grossi and Perez home. But then the jet flew to New Orleans "to pick up someone who needed a ride to New York." So this plane made AT LEAST 5 flights on 9-13, but the FAA told the Tampa Tribune, "it's not in our logs... it didn't occur." The White House, the State Department, and the National Security Council all refused to answer the Tribune's questions.

Now the Bush administration is refusing to make public an 800-page Congressional report on the attacks of 9-11. In fact, this administration is so hell-bent on keeping the report from the public that they are even "re-classifying" information that was already a part of the public record!

According to a new Newsweek bombshell by Michael Isikoff ,

Among the portions of the report the administration refuses to declassify, sources say, are chapters dealing with two politically and diplomatically sensitive issues: the details of daily intelligence briefings given to Bush in the summer of 2001 and evidence pointing to Saudi government ties to Al Qaeda. Bush officials have taken such a hard line, sources say, that they are refusing to permit the release of matters already in the public domain -- including the existence of intelligence documents referred to on the CIA Web site.

As average citizens struggle to carry on their daily business and keep their blood pressure in check in the midst of a new "orange alert," Mr. Bush & Co. are still busy protecting their buddies in Saudi Arabia and lying to the American public.

Why can't we know the truth about who our enemies are, Mr. Bush?

One has to wonder when George W. said, "You're either with us or against us" - just exactly who he meant by "us." "Us" is beginning to look like a Bush-Saudi-Al Qaeda conspiracy, especially when one includes the well-known business ties between George H. W. Bush, James Baker, and the Bin Laden family through the infamous Carlyle Group .

In a scandal this potentially huge - one implicating the President's close family and family lawyer - shouldn't a Special Prosecutor be appointed? If the President was Bill Clinton, the family member was Hillary Clinton, and the family lawyer was Webster Hubbell, the media - not to mention the Republican Party - would be demanding a Special Prosecutor at the top of their lungs 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. Even though the post-Watergate Special Prosecutor law was repealed after Ken Starr's legal lynching of President Clinton, pre-Watergate-style Special Prosecutors can still be appointed by the Attorney General.

were repositioning empty aircraft in anticipation of the resumption of full= service. New passenger flights did not resume until the 14th.) During that=20= two-day period of full lock-down, only the military and specially FAA-author= ized flights that delivered life-saving medical necessities were in the air.=
The enforcement of the empty skies directive was so stringent that even aft= er the United Network for Organ Sharing sought and gained FAA clearance to u= se charter aircraft on September 12 to effect time-critical deliveries of or= gans for transplant, one of its flights carrying a human heart was forced to= the ground in Bellingham, Washington, 80 miles short of its Seattle destina= tion, by two Navy F/A-18 fighters. (The organ completed its journey after be= ing transferred to a helicopter.)

After reading the Tampa Tribune article, I distinctly remember blinking and=20= checking the URL to see if I had accidentally clicked on a link to one of th= ose "publications" that spots Elvis, or reports that ninety year o= ld women have just given birth to Bigfoot's baby. But no, this was indeed th= e Tampa Tribune.

I remember wondering how on earth our government could have authorized a fli= ght out of the country before they even knew who the perpetrators of the att= acks were?

And further, why did the families of the young men "perceive a threat&q= uot; when it wasn't yet clear on the 13th of September exactly WHO had attac= ked America or where they were from?

According to a transcript on the State Departments website of a statement gi= ven by a " <FONT COLOR=3D"#0000FF">Senior White House Official </FONT>&= quot; on September 13 at 5:22 PM it had not yet been announced that Bin Lade= n was behind the attacks when protection was requested for the three young m= en.

When this "Senior White House official" was asked if Osama Bin Lad= en had perpetrated the attacks against the US at 5:22 PM on September 13th,=20= to which he replied: "I think that right now what we need to do is -- a= s I said, again, this happened 60 hours ago. We don't want to be premature,=20= not because we don't want to name or finger someone, but because we want to=20= make sure that we understand all the connections, not just a connection.&quo= t;

Was Prince Sultan a psychic who somehow mysteriously predicted that 15 of th= e 19 hijackers would turn out to be Saudi nationals? Or did he perhaps know=20= who was behind the attacks since he was funding charities linked to Al Qaeda=

Now fast forward about a year and a half and imagine my surprise last week w= hen I read a " <FONT COLOR=3D"#0000FF">Newsweek web exclusive </F= ONT>" that reported that Prince Sultan bin Abdul Aziz - THE VERY SAME d= efense minister of Saudi Arabia - is being sued on the behalf of the victims= of 9-11 for his alleged role in the financing of groups suspected to have l= inks to the terrorist attacks of 9-11!

"Wow," I thought, "wasn't this the SAME Prince Sultan bin Abd= ul Aziz who had the kid on the Phantom flight?"

After further checking, I discovered that - yes, my friends - they are one a= nd the same!

According to the Newsweek article, when three attorneys from the "prest= igious Houston firm" that represents Sultan bin Abdul Aziz filed a moti= on in court in the Prince's defense, they also inadvertently provided eviden= ce in the form of "stacks of affidavits and canceled checks" that=20= indicated that the Prince had personally authorized the funneling of million= s of dollars on the behalf of Saudi Arabian government to organizations that= the US has identified and raided as terrorist front operations sympathetic=20= to Osama Bin Laden.

But perhaps what is just as shocking to me is the allegation that the son of= this SAME Prince Sultan bin Abdul Aziz was reportedly flown out of the Unit= ed States when all other planes were grounded following the special orders o= f Bush's own father!

Moreover, the entire 9-13 mission of the Lear jet is shrouded in mystery. Th= at mission began in Ft. Lauderdale, stopped in Tampa and Lexington, and retu= rned to Tampa to bring Grossi and Perez home. But then the jet flew to New O= rleans "to pick up someone who needed a ride to New York." So this= plane made AT LEAST 5 flights on 9-13, but the FAA told the Tampa Tribune,=20=
"it's not in our logs... it didn't occur." The White House, the St= ate Department, and the National Security Council all refused to answer the=20= Tribune's questions.

Now the Bush administration is refusing to make public an 800-page Congressi= onal report on the attacks of 9-11. In fact, this administration is so hell-= bent on keeping the report from the public that they are even "re-class= ifying" information that was already a part of the public record!

According to <FONT COLOR=3D"#0000FF">a new Newsweek bombshell by Michael Isi= koff </FONT>,

Among the portions of the report the administration refuses to declassify, s= ources say, are chapters dealing with two politically and diplomatically sen= sitive issues: the details of daily intelligence briefings given to Bush in=20= the summer of 2001 and evidence pointing to Saudi government ties to Al Qaed= a. Bush officials have taken such a hard line, sources say, that they are re= fusing to permit the release of matters already in the public domain -- &nbs= p;including the existence of intelligence documents referred to on the CIA W= eb site.

As average citizens struggle to carry on their daily business and keep their= blood pressure in check in the midst of a new "orange alert," Mr.=
 Bush & Co. are still busy protecting their buddies in Saudi Arabia and=20= lying to the American public.

Why can't we know the truth about who our enemies are, Mr. Bush?

One has to wonder when George W. said, "You're either with us or agains= t us" - just exactly who he meant by "us." "Us&quo= t; is beginning to look like a Bush-Saudi-Al Qaeda conspiracy, especially wh= en one includes the well-known business ties between George H. W. Bush, Jame= s Baker, and the Bin Laden family through the infamous <FONT COLOR=3D"#0000F= F">Carlyle Group </FONT>.

In a scandal this potentially huge - one implicating the President's close f= amily and family lawyer - shouldn't a Special Prosecutor be appointed? If th= e President was Bill Clinton, the family member was Hillary Clinton, and the= family lawyer was Webster Hubbell, the media - not to mention the Republica= n Party - would be demanding a Special Prosecutor at the top of their lungs=20= 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. Even though the post-Watergate Special Prosec= utor law was repealed after Ken Starr's legal lynching of President Clinton,= pre-Watergate-style Special Prosecutors can still be appointed by the Attor= ney General.

Drunk on Power

August 16, 2003
By BILL RICHARDSON

SANTA FE, N.M.

Thursday's blackout shouldn't have come as a surprise. In 2001, the general counsel of the North American Electric Reliability Council declared, "The question is not whether, but when, the next major failure of the grid will occur." Indeed, as energy secretary I held a series of electricity reliability meetings around the country in 2000 in an effort to bring industry representatives, government regulators and citizens together to tackle this looming problem. Unfortunately, as a nation, we sometimes wait for a crisis before taking much-needed action.

The fact is that as our demand for electricity has increased, our infrastructure - primarily the electrical grid that connects homes and businesses to power plants across North America - has not kept pace. Investments by utility companies have been inadequate; they have not built enough transmission lines. As wholesale electric markets evolve, utility companies and other electric generators have greater incentive to stretch the grid to its limits to gain a competitive advantage. At the same time, state and federal officials continue to quarrel over who will be responsible for regulating the interstate grid.

We can and must do better. There are moves we need to make quickly to ease the crisis facing our electric transmission system. First, we must establish mandatory reliability rules. In 1998, President Bill Clinton proposed legislation that would have required utility companies to protect and promote grid reliability. Utilities now operate under voluntary guidelines developed by the reliability council, which in practice means no one has to comply. An almost identical measure is pending before a House-Senate conference committee. Congress needs to stop delaying and pass this legislation.

Second, we need to outline basic rules of the road for utilities. For some time, the industry has been caught between the old paradigm of vertically integrated monopolies and the more modern approach of competitive wholesale markets. During this transition to competition, utilities have been reluctant to make investments in the transmission grid until they know what the rules will be and how they will benefit by them. Congress is considering legislation supported by utility monopolies in the Southeast that would further delay efforts by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission to develop and enforce such rules. Congress must defeat this measure and, instead, promote the commission's efforts to modernize the grid.

Next, we should create regional transmission organizations to provide much-needed oversight. We learned from the 1996 blackout in the West that operators of the transmission grid need to communicate better. Such coordination can be best achieved if a single operator, independent of utilities controlling power plants, is established to control the grid for a region. Such organizations can also help a region accommodate the additional need for power within the grid.

Finally, federal and state governments need to set aside their differences and work together. Over the last decade, as the nation has moved toward a more competitive electric marketplace, the tension between the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission and state regulators has increased substantially. Before the 1990's, the lines of regulatory responsibility were clearly drawn. Since then the states and the commission have been at odds (egged on at times by utilities seeking to protect their monopoly status) over their regulatory roles. As a governor, I am sensitive to states' need to protect their citizens. Nevertheless, as the blackout demonstrated, we are all dependent on an interstate and multinational transmission grid.

States must recognize that the regulatory commission has an important role to play in ensuring the well-being of the grid and all electricity consumers. Both state regulators and the federal government (as well as the Canadian government) must cooperate to ensure that our electric grid is performing as well as possible.

We will soon know what specifically went wrong from an engineering perspective to cause the blackout this week. I hope that this time we will heed the warnings. Action is needed to bring our electric grid into the 21st century. As the events of the last couple of days have demonstrated, electricity is too important to our quality of life to do nothing.

Bill Richardson, governor of New Mexico, was secretary of energy from 1998 to 2001.

Closing V.A. Hospitals Has Congress Squirming

August 16, 2003
By CARL HULSE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15 - The Department of Veterans Affairs is relearning a truism about Congress the hard way: Nothing gets a lawmaker riled up faster than a plan to shut something down.

Always available for a ribbon cutting, members of Congress have a pathological fear of seeing the doors shut to any federal facility back home, whether it be a military base, Social Security office, or in the relevant example, a veterans hospital.

So it is no surprise that the department's new proposal to close seven hospitals and change the services available at dozens of others landed with a thud on Capitol Hill this month, even though the plan called for spending billions of dollars to build new centers and open scores of outpatient clinics in areas where veterans have migrated.

Senators and representatives fired off angry letters, vowing to fight any closings. Emergency community meetings were convened. Advocacy groups were mobilized.

"There is a lot of unhappiness," said Senator Ron Wyden, Democrat of Oregon, who noted that a potential cutback at three sites in his state ranked right up there with the economy as he held town meetings in the past week. "You are talking about a huge veterans population, and they basically have no place to turn."

In New York, the Congressional delegation is fuming about the department's plan to close or eliminate inpatient care at three hospitals - Canandaigua, Montrose and Manhattan. Lawmakers are also upset in California, Kentucky, Mississippi, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Texas and other states with hospitals on the block.

Peter Gaytan, a deputy director at the American Legion headquarters, said, "We don't see how closing a hospital can solve any problem when we have 100,000 veterans standing in line waiting for appointments."

Given the hopeful acronym of Cares (Capital Asset Realignment for Enhanced Services), the plan is the department's most ambitious effort to date in its struggle to put its services where the veterans are and catch up to the shift of medicine to outpatient care.

It is also an effort to get a grip on what has been an embarrassing problem - vacant and underutilized veterans centers built in the Northeast and Midwest decades ago when veterans were clustered there before they retired to the Sunbelt. The object of the plan is to save $45 million a year over the next 20 years by reducing the department's vacant and little used space by more than 40 percent - to 4.9 million by 2022 from 8.5 million square feet in 2001.

"Bottom line - the draft plan will allow us to avoid imbalances between the size and location of health care facilities and veterans' demand for care tomorrow," said Dr. Robert H. Roswell, the department's undersecretary for health.

The agency's report concedes that closing hospitals is touchy in the extreme. "Disposition of capital assets traditionally has been a difficult process in the federal sector in general, and in the V.A. in particular," it says with bureaucratic understatement.

Many lawmakers would acknowledge that some veterans facilities should have been mothballed long ago or transformed into something other than 1950's-style hospitals. But they also know their communities expect them to put up a fight. More is at stake than providing care. In some towns, the veterans center is the major employer. Losing jobs is as painful as losing health care.

In a letter to the department secretary, Anthony J. Principi, Mr. Wyden the economic consequences of closing a rehabilitation center in White City, Ore. "In all of White City, there are 2,152 residents with jobs," he wrote. "The domiciliary alone employs 400 people."

Congress has conceded in the past that it is almost incapable of closing down anything. To cut the number of military bases, lawmakers established a special commission to recommend the targets. Then - in their best "stop us before we spend again" mode - they limited themselves to a straight up or down vote, knowing that was the only way they would get anywhere.

But some lawmakers are now summoning the nerve to shut down one thing - there is a move afoot to eliminate the next round of base closings in 2005.

Dear Joey

I have tied in all of the domain names to a nominal website now so it is all easier to think of

There are three rotating pages on it all tied into paypal

www.film.love

www.cash.love

www.cinema.love

www.credit.love

www.ok.love

and all the others

So it is all fully functional and at least the domain names lead somewhere

JBO - Night Sky in August

The Night Sky

August 2003
This page, updated monthly, will let you know some of the things that you can look out for in the night sky. It lists the phases of the moon, where you will see the naked-eye planets and some of the prominent constellations in the night sky during the month.

Highlights of the Month
This month we have the closest approach of Mars for many thousands of years - a great reason for buying a small telescope to view it!

Advice on buying a telescope.

Mars is getting close! We now have the exciting prospect of 2 months when Mars will give us its best show for many years. On August 27th it will be at its closest since 57,617 BC! It will then show a disk 25 arc seconds across. With a small telescope it should thus be possible to see as much detail as one can looking at the Moon with the unaided eye. The south polar cap should be particularly obvious as the southern hemisphere is tilted towards us. Many of the darker markings should also be visible, particularly Syrtis Major, seen as a dark triangular patch against the reddish hued surface.

In early August Mars' angular diameter exceeds 22 arc seconds, so details on the surface should be easily visible.

On August 1st, Mars rises at 10:30 BST in the East-Southeast. By midnight it will be in the South-East and have rise to an elevation of more than 10 degrees. At 3:30 BST it will be due South and highest in the sky with an elevation of 24 degrees. As the month progresses it rises earlier so on:

On the 14th of August it rises at 21:49 BST, reaches 10 degrees elevation by 22:30 and is due south about 02:30 with an elevation of 23 degrees and an angular size of 24.30 arc seconds. It will lie just below and to the right of the Moon, just two day after full, so the moonlight will reduce the contrast of the markings that we see in the surface of Mars.

On the 27th of August at closest approach, it rises at 21:00 BST, reaches 10 degrees elevation by 22:30 and is due south about 01:30 with an elevation of 21 degrees and its maximum (ever!) angular size of 25.11 arc seconds. (Incidently the light is taking 3 minutes to reach us!)

Four views of Mars. JPL / Nasa

Mars rotates on its axis once every 24hours and 37 minutes, so the face that we will see will vary dependant on the time that we observe it. The NASA images above show the four faces of Mars, with the caption for each indicating the area central in the image. For example, The top left image shows the dark region Syrtis Major in the centre of the disc. These images have been rotated so that Mars appears as seen through an astronomical telescope. The South Pole is to the top. During this apparition, the souther hemisphere is tilted towards the Sun. Compare these images with the map shown above which also shows the south pole to the top. It is very helpful to know the central longitude, and hence what you should be able to see when you observe.

Mars showing Syrtis Major and the south polar cap. Taken 12 hours before the closest approach of Mars on August 27th 2003 by the Hubble Space Telescope. JPL / Nasa

Sky and Telescope have produced a script to give you the central longitude and a map for any time of observations.

Find Mars' central longitude

See the International Space Station.

The International Space Station

Use the link below to find when the space station will be visible in the next few days. In general, the space station can be seen either in the hour or so before dawn or the hour or so after sunset - this is because it is dark and yet the Sun is not too far below the horizon so that it can light up the space station. As the orbit only just gets up the the latitude of the UK it will usually be seen to the south, and is only visible for a minute or so at each sighting. Note that as it is in low-earth orbit the sighting details vary quite considerably across the UK. The NASA website linked to below gives details for several cities in the UK. (Across the world too for foreign visitors to this web page.)

See where the space station is now: Current position

The Planets

A montage of the Solar System. JPL / Nasa

A montage of Jupiter and its moons. Nasa

Jupiter is too close to the Sun in position to be visible this month.

The planet Saturn. Nasa

Saturn has now become a morning object, rising about 2 hours or so before before the Sun. It will be seen rising in the East-Northeast, then moving round to the East at sunrise. On 23rd August it will lie just below and to the right of the waning crescent Moon. It has an angular size of ~17 arc seconds and, with its open rings extending ~45 arcseconds, presents a beautiful sight.

Mariner 10 composite image of Mercury. Nasa

Mercury reaches its greatest angular seperation from the Sun on August 14th, but will only lie a little above the horizon for UK observers - probably best to wait until the autumn!

Venus showing some cloud structure

Venus , like Jupiter is too close to the Sun's position to be seen this month.

The Stars

The constellation Ursa Major

Ursa Major

The stars of the Plough, shown linked by the thicker lines in the chart above, form one of the most recognised star patterns in the sky. Also called the Big Dipper, after the soup ladles used by farmer's wives in America to serve soup to the farm workers at lunchtime, it forms part of the Great Bear constellation - not quite so easy to make out! The stars Merak and Dubhe form the pointers which will lead you to the Pole Star, and hence find North. The stars Alcor and Mizar form a naked eye double which repays observation in a small telescope as Mizar is then shown to be an easily resolved double star. A fainter reddish star forms a triangle with Alcor and Mizar. Ursa Major contains many interesting "deep sky" objects. The brightest, listed in Messier's Catalogue, are shown on the chart, but there are many fainter galaxies in the region too. In the upper right of the constellation are a pair of interacting galaxies M81 and M82 shown in the image below. M82 is undergoing a major burst of star formation and hence called a "starburst galaxy". They can be seen together using a low power eyepiece on a small telescope.

M81 and M82

Another, and very beautiful, galaxy is M101 which looks rather like a pinwheel firework, hence its other name the Pinwheel Galaxy. It was discovered in1781 and was a late entry to Messier's calalogue of nebulous objects. It is a type Sc spiral galaxy seen face on which is at a distance of about 24 million light years. Type Sc galaxies have a relativly small nucleus and open spiral arms. With an overall diameter of 170,000 light it is one of the largest spirals known (the Milky Way has a diameter of ~ 130,000 light years).

M101 - The Ursa Major Pinwheel Galaxy

Though just outside the constellation boundary, M51 lies close to Alkaid, the leftmost star of the Plough. Also called the Whirlpool Galaxy it is being deformed by the passage of the smaller galaxy on the left. This is now gravitationally captured by M51 and the two will eventually merge. M51 lies at a distance of about 37 million light years and was the first galaxy in which spiral arms were seen. It was discovered by Charles Messier in 1773 and the spiral structure was observed by Lord Rosse in 1845 using the 72" reflector at Birr Castle in Ireland - for many years the largest telescope in the world.

M51 - The Whirlpool Galaxy

Lying close to Merak is the planetary nebula M97 which is usually called the Owl Nebula due to its resemblance to an owl's face with two large eyes. It was first called this by Lord Rosse who drew it in 1848 - as shown in the image below right. Planetary nebulae ar the remnants of stars similar in size to our Sun. When all possible nuclear fusion processes are complete, the central core collpses down into a "white dwarf" star and the the outer parts of the star are blown off to form the surrounding nebula.

The constellation Virgo

Virgo

Virgo is not one of the most prominent constellations, containing only one bright star, Spica, but is one of the largest and is very rewarding for those with "rich field" telescopes capable of seeing the many galaxies that lie within its boundaries. Spica is, in fact, an exceedingly close double star with the two B type stars orbiting each other every 4 days. Their total luminosity is 2000 times that of our Sun. In the upper right hand quadrant of Virgo lies the centre of the Virgo Cluster of galaxies. There are 13 galaxies in the Messier catalogue in this region, all of which can be seen with a small telescope. The brightest is the giant elliptical galaxy, M87, with a jet extending from its centre where there is almost certainly a massive black hole into which dust and gas are falling. This releases great amounts of energy which powers particles to reach speeds close to the speed of light forming the jet we see. M87 is also called VIRGO A as it is a very strong radio source.

M104 - The Sombrero Galaxy

Below Porrima and to the right of Spica lies M104, an 8th magnitude spiral galaxy about 30 million light years away from us. Its spiral arms are edge on to us so in a small telescope it appears as an elliptical galaxy. It is also known as the Sombrero Galaxy as it looks like a wide brimmed hat in long exposure photographs.

The constellation Bootes

Bootes

Above the constellation Virgo, and to the left of the "plough" in Ursa Major lies the large constellation of Bootes. Its brightest star is Arcturus, which at magnitude -0.04 is the fourth brightest star in the sky. It has a noticable orange tint when viewed through binoculars and is called a Red Giant. It appears orange in colour as it has a relativly cool surface temperature, 2/3 that of our Sun. It is 27 times larger than the Sun, gives out around 100 times more light and is 36 light years away from us. As twilight ends Arcturus is seen high in the south-eastern sky with Mars, even brighter, below. Spica, somewhat outshone in this company, lies to the right of Mars. Arcturus, which has a similar mass to our Sun, is nearing the end of its life and give us a fortaste of what our Sun will be like in a few thousand million years as it too swells up in size to become a Red Giant star.

The constellation Hercules

Hercules

Between the constellation Bootes and the bright star Vega in Lyra lies the constellation Hercules.The Red Giant star Alpha Herculis or Ras Algethi, its arabic name, is one of the largest stars known, with a diameter of around 500 times that of our Sun. In common with most giant stars it varies its size, changing in brightness as it does so from 3rd to 4th magnitude. Lying along one side of the "keystone" lies one of the wonders of the skies, the great globular cluster, M13. Just visible to the unaided eye on a dark clear night, it is easily seen through binoculars as a small ball of cotten wool about 1/3 the diameter of the full Moon. The brightness increases towards the centre where the concentration of stars is greatest. It is a most beautiful sight in a small telescope. It contains around 300,000 stars in a region of space 100 light years across, and is the brightest globular cluster that can be seen in the northern hemisphere.

The Night Sky

August 2003 This page, updated monthly, will let you know some of the things that you can look out for in the night sky. It lists the phases of the moon, where you will see the naked-eye planets and some of the prominent constellations in the night sky during the month.

Highlights of the Month

This month we have the closest approach of Mars for many thousands of years - a great reason for buying a small telescope to view it!

Advice on buying a telescope.

Mars is getting close! We now have the exciting prospect of 2 months when Mars will give us its best show for many years. On August 27th it will be at its closest since 57,617 BC! It will then show a disk 25 arc seconds across. With a small telescope it should thus be possible to see as much detail as one can looking at the Moon with the unaided eye. The south polar cap should be particularly obvious as the southern hemisphere is tilted towards us. Many of the darker markings should also be visible, particularly Syrtis Major, seen as a dark triangular patch against the reddish hued surface.

In early August Mars' angular diameter exceeds 22 arc seconds, so details on the surface should be easily visible.

On August 1st, Mars rises at 10:30 BST in the East-Southeast. By midnight it will be in the South-East and have rise to an elevation of more than 10 degrees. At 3:30 BST it will be due South and highest in the sky with an elevation of 24 degrees. As the month progresses it rises earlier so on:

On the 14th of August it rises at 21:49 BST, reaches 10 degrees elevation by 22:30 and is due south about 02:30 with an elevation of 23 degrees and an angular size of 24.30 arc seconds. It will lie just below and to the right of the Moon, just two day after full, so the moonlight will reduce the contrast of the markings that we see in the surface of Mars.

On the 27th of August at closest approach, it rises at 21:00 BST, reaches 10 degrees elevation by 22:30 and is due south about 01:30 with an elevation of 21 degrees and its maximum (ever!) angular size of 25.11 arc seconds. (Incidently the light is taking 3 minutes to reach us!)

Four views of Mars. JPL / Nasa

Mars rotates on its axis once every 24hours and 37 minutes, so the face that we will see will vary dependant on the time that we observe it. The NASA images above show the four faces of Mars, with the caption for each indicating the area central in the image. For example, The top left image shows the dark region Syrtis Major in the centre of the disc. These images have been rotated so that Mars appears as seen through an astronomical telescope. The South Pole is to the top. During this apparition, the souther hemisphere is tilted towards the Sun. Compare these images with the map shown above which also shows the south pole to the top. It is very helpful to know the central longitude, and hence what you should be able to see when you observe.

Mars showing Syrtis Major and the south polar cap. Taken 12 hours before the closest approach of Mars on August 27th 2003 by the Hubble Space Telescope. JPL / Nasa

Sky and Telescope have produced a script to give you the central longitude and a map for any time of observations.

Find Mars' central longitude

See the International Space Station.

The International Space Station

Use the link below to find when the space station will be visible in the next few days. In general, the space station can be seen either in the hour or so before dawn or the hour or so after sunset - this is because it is dark and yet the Sun is not too far below the horizon so that it can light up the space station. As the orbit only just gets up the the latitude of the UK it will usually be seen to the south, and is only visible for a minute or so at each sighting. Note that as it is in low-earth orbit the sighting details vary quite considerably across the UK. The NASA website linked to below gives details for several cities in the UK. (Across the world too for foreign visitors to this web page.)

The Planets

A montage of the Solar System. JPL / Nasa

A montage of Jupiter and its moons. Nasa

Jupiter is too close to the Sun in position to be visible this month.

The planet Saturn. Nasa

Saturn has now become a morning object, rising about 2 hours or so before before the Sun. It will be seen rising in the East-Northeast, then moving round to the East at sunrise. On 23rd August it will lie just below and to the right of the waning crescent Moon. It has an angular size of ~17 arc seconds and, with its open rings extending ~45 arcseconds, presents a beautiful sight.

Mariner 10 composite image of Mercury. Nasa

Mercury reaches its greatest angular seperation from the Sun on August 14th, but will only lie a little above the horizon for UK observers - probably best to wait until the autumn!

The Stars

Ursa Major

The stars of the Plough, shown linked by the thicker lines in the chart above, form one of the most recognised star patterns in the sky. Also called the Big Dipper , after the soup ladles used by farmer's wives in America to serve soup to the farm workers at lunchtime, it forms part of the Great Bear constellation - not quite so easy to make out! The stars Merak and Dubhe form the pointers which will lead you to the Pole Star, and hence find North. The stars Alcor and Mizar form a naked eye double which repays observation in a small telescope as Mizar is then shown to be an easily resolved double star. A fainter reddish star forms a triangle with Alcor and Mizar. Ursa Major contains many interesting "deep sky" objects. The brightest, listed in Messier's Catalogue, are shown on the chart, but there are many fainter galaxies in the region too. In the upper right of the constellation are a pair of interacting galaxies M81 and M82 shown in the image below. M82 is undergoing a major burst of star formation and hence called a "starburst galaxy". They can be seen together using a low power eyepiece on a small telescope.

M81 and M82

Another, and very beautiful, galaxy is M101 which looks rather like a pinwheel firework, hence its other name the Pinwheel Galaxy . It was discovered in1781 and was a late entry to Messier's calalogue of nebulous objects. It is a type Sc spiral galaxy seen face on which is at a distance of about 24 million light years. Type Sc galaxies have a relativly small nucleus and open spiral arms. With an overall diameter of 170,000 light it is one of the largest spirals known (the Milky Way has a diameter of ~ 130,000 light years).

M101 - The Ursa Major Pinwheel Galaxy

Though just outside the constellation boundary, M51 lies close to Alkaid, the leftmost star of the Plough. Also called the Whirlpool Galaxy it is being deformed by the passage of the smaller galaxy on the left. This is now gravitationally captured by M51 and the two will eventually merge. M51 lies at a distance of about 37 million light years and was the first galaxy in which spiral arms were seen. It was discovered by Charles Messier in 1773 and the spiral structure was observed by Lord Rosse in 1845 using the 72" reflector at Birr Castle in Ireland - for many years the largest telescope in the world.

M51 - The Whirlpool Galaxy

Lying close to Merak is the planetary nebula M97 which is usually called the Owl Nebula due to its resemblance to an owl's face with two large eyes. It was first called this by Lord Rosse who drew it in 1848 - as shown in the image below right. Planetary nebulae ar the remnants of stars similar in size to our Sun. When all possible nuclear fusion processes are complete, the central core collpses down into a "white dwarf" star and the the outer parts of the star are blown off to form the surrounding nebula.

M97 - The Owl Planetary Nebula Lord Rosse's 1848 drawing of the Owl Nebula

Dear Joey

I am now useing a natural food based fluid with my smokes that you drip onto the filter that soaks up tar and nicotine

They say one droplet on each cigarette reduces tar and nicotine intake by 33%

Two droplets on each cigarrette eliminates up to 66%

And three droplets on each smoke after three weeks wipes out an incredible 99% of all my tar and nicotine intake

Following the instructions I am now on one drop per smoke for the time being eliminating 33% of my tar and nicotine intake for the first week

Kind Regards
Yours Sincerely
Mike

GOOD LUCK TO ALL!!

Subject: I want this back!

This may sound nuts, but Dennis got this the other day and sent it off. About 10 minutes later a really good financial windfall happened for his son Sean who he had sent it too as well. One of the people he sent it to was responsible for the windfall.

AN IRISH FRIENDSHIP WISH

You had better send this back!!!!
Good Luck!!
I hope it works...

May there always be work for your hands to do;
May your purse always hold a coin or two;
May the sun always shine on your windowpane;
May a rainbow be certain to follow each rain;
May the hand of a friend always be near you;
May God fill your heart with gladness to cheer you.

OK, this is what you have to do....
Send this to all of your friends! But - you HAVE to send this within 1 hour from when you open it!

Now.................Make A wish!!!!!!

I hope you made your wish! Now then, if you send to:
1 person --- your wish will be granted in 1 year
3 people --- 6 months
5 people --- 3 months
6 people --- 1 month
7 people --- 2 weeks
8 people --- 1 week
9 people --- 5 days
10 people --- 3 days
12 people --- 2 days
15 people --- 1 day
20 people --- 3 hours

OK then I will stick with this email address now

www.geocities.com/twentydollarholidays was a site I picked up off ebay in a job lot for £3 and then downloaded unzipped with winzip then uploaded into a free geocities site

I know they say that things that are too good to be true normally are but still when you read it all it seems to add up

Then again they allso say you cannot cheat an honest man

Worth a look anyway just on the chance it is Kosher

Kind Regards

We have a clean deal for them to evaluate the iVue PRO internally and with their clients.

Until they see the "real deal" (ie. Prototype), it will be hard to press them for any kind of contract.

Remember, they didn't build Rome in a day.

Best wishes,

They said they thought my theories were unfounded and took names and phone numbers of all my Doctors and Family

Former White House counter-terrorism tsar Richard Clarke said the Bush=20

"Somebody brought to us for approval the decision to let an aeroplane filled=

Mr Clarke said he checked with FBI officials, who gave the go ahead. "So I=20

He first asked the bureau to check that no-one "inappropriate" was leaving.=20

The plane is believed to have landed in ten US cities picking up passengers,=

Tom Kinton, director of aviation at Boston=E2=80=99s Logan Airport, said: "W=

Prince Bandar bin Sultan, the Saudi ambassador to the US who is said to have=

Subject: Tomorrows Crocodile Shit

Dear Joey

They got my email address and probably yours
They came around when I was having a snooze and I had to get dressed before seeing them
I had to let them downstairs into the basement while I put some clothes on and when I came downstairs I saw them both examining the computer

I told them that it was all because I had had a big arguement with my Dad

The toilet had gone wrong and he did not want to pay for a new one

Allso I have had nicotine withdrawl symptoms after cutting back heavily on nicotine with the new www.nicobloc.com medicine

So you are right about it being the new medicine but it was not my tranquillizers but just the www.nicobloc.com medicine

I imagine they might be monitoring me now on computer for a few weeks to check me out a bit probably by intercepting emails and phone calls

Like you said this Stealth Gang seem to be completely above all local and international laws and they have a mandate to do what they want now useing 9/11 as a sort of justification

But anyone who gets in the way just ends up as tomorrows crocodile shit

Kind Regards
Rest Easy

Dear Joey

I did not get a reply either
I now think it is one of those funny hand shake behind the scenes deals
They just had to advertise it to comply with law to say it had been advertised somewhere

My email to the vendor got rejected saying their email address was invalid
This makes it seem even more '' fishy ''

They did not send details when I asked for them
And they will not do the deal through ebay which would give us some buyer protection

Kind Regards
Yours Sincerely
Mike

Hello:

This letter is to inform you of the silent auction we are having on the radar base located in central SD. For those of you that would like to look at the property the nearest airport would be Pierre SD about 60 miles from Gettysburg, where the property is located just north of town.

The place has been vacant for 14 years with no upkeep in that time. The buildingsare sound but need some work on doors and windows. There has been some weather damage. There as been some vandalism in that time but very minor for the time that it has set vacant.

We have set an opening bid price of $25,000.00. Of course we do reserve the right to reject any or all bids. Will close on Oct. 1st 12 noon or 1 hour after last bid. In case of telephone or computer failure will be extended as needed.

Here is a list of the buildings on this 40 acre parcel:

90 x 110 clear span all concrete building with one 20' opening on east side

32 x 80 motor pool has 4 garage doors on south side

32 x 100 multi purpose building with attached gymnasium the building that we lived in when we lived there

24 x 144 metal barracks there are 2 of these metal buildings

24 x 96 metal barracks that has one side open where it was attached to another building

24 x 48 metal barracks

there are 5 flat roof buildings different sizes: hobby shop, water treament, communications, and misc.

approximately 17 buildings total.

There is an underground tunnel that we built to connect the house to the shop.

There is a large underground water storage system and a well that is very deep but not

useable due to someone dropping the pump in the well.

There is rural water in the area now. The water system on this property would need some work. There is no working heat system in any of the buildings. There is a lagoon for the waste system.

Most of these buildings have been used for something else since the goverment sold the property to us. We used alot of them for storage of parts. There is some cleanup that needs to be done to make this property useable.

We tried to send some pictures to everyone but so many came back. We will just send the letter this time. If you want the pictures please let me know. The taxes are about $800.00 per year and are current with no liens against the property.

Hello:

This letter is to inform you of the silent auction we are having on the radar base located in central SD. For those of you that would like to look at the property the nearest airport would be Pierre SD about 60 miles from Gettysburg, where the property is located just north of town.

The place has been vacant for 14 years with no upkeep in that time. The buildingsare sound but need some work on doors and windows. There has been some weather damage. There as been some vandalism in that time but very minor for the time that it has set vacant.

We have set an opening bid price of $25,000.00. Of course we do reserve the right to reject any or all bids. Will close on Oct. 1st 12 noon or 1 hour after last bid. In case of telephone or computer failure will be extended as needed.

Here is a list of the buildings on this 40 acre parcel:

90 x 110 clear span all concrete building with one 20' opening on east side

32 x 80 motor pool has 4 garage doors on south side

32 x 100 multi purpose building with attached gymnasium the building that we lived in when we lived there

24 x 144 metal barracks there are 2 of these metal buildings

24 x 96 metal barracks that has one side open where it was attached to another building

24 x 48 metal barracks

there are 5 flat roof buildings different sizes: hobby shop, water treament, communications, and misc.

approximately 17 buildings total.

There is an underground tunnel that we built to connect the house to the shop.

There is a large underground water storage system and a well that is very deep but not

useable due to someone dropping the pump in the well.

There is rural water in the area now. The water system on this property would need some work. There is no working heat system in any of the buildings. There is a lagoon for the waste system.

Most of these buildings have been used for something else since the goverment sold the property to us. We used alot of them for storage of parts. There is some cleanup that needs to be done to make this property useable.

We tried to send some pictures to everyone but so many came back. We will just send the letter this time. If you want the pictures please let me know. The taxes are about $800.00 per year and are current with no liens against the property.

BANKRUPTCY
Filing & Exemptions

Who May File Bankruptcy?

1. Chapter 7.
Anyone (with a few minor exceptions) may file under Chapter 7. BUT only individuals (i.e., real people) can get a discharge in Chapter 7. This means that corporations or partnerships that need bankruptcy protection but which hope to survive bankruptcy must usually file under Chapter 11.
2. Chapter 13.
Only real people with primarily consumer debts of not more than $250,000 unsecured nor more than $750,000 secured, and who have a regular income, may file under Chapter 13.
Understanding Exemptions.
When an individual files a Chapter 7 or Chapter 13 bankruptcy, he/she is entitled to certain exemptions under California law (which is recognized in the bankruptcy proceeding [BC §522]), which means that those assets will not be taken by the trustee in bankruptcy. There are two sets of exemptions in California, those set out in California Code of Civil Procedure §703.140 and those set forth in CCP §§704.010 et seq. It is important to note that a debtor may not "mix and match" exemptions from one set and the other. The debtor much choose which set he/she elects (this includes the spouse in joint filings) and is limited to the exemptions available in that set. The Trustee or any creditor may object to the claim of exemption but must file his/her objection within 30 days of the conclusion of the First Meeting of Creditors.
1. The "Bankruptcy Code Exemptions," CCP §703.140.

These exemptions, which were last modified effective July 31, 1995, effectively mirror the exemptions provided by BC §522. A. Homestead exemption, CCP §703.140 (b)(1) — Equity of $15,000.
B. Motor vehicles, CCP §703.140 (b)(2) — Equity of $2,400.
C. Household furnishings, wearing apparel, books, animals, crops or musical instruments, CCP §703.140 (b)(3) — Equity of $400 per item.
D. "Wildcard" exemption, applicable to any asset, CCP §703.140 (b)(5) — $15,800.
E Tools of trade, CCP §703.140 (b)(6) — $1,500.
F. Cash surrender value of life insurance, CCP §703.140 (b)(8) — $8,000.
G. Benefit payments and retirement plans, CCP §703.140 (b)(10).

i. The following items are completely exempt:
a. Social security benefits.
b. Unemployment compensation.

c. Public assistance payments.
d. Veteran's benefits.
e. Disability, illness or unemployment benefits.

ii. The following are exempt "to the extent necessary for the support of the debtor and any dependent of the debtor."
a. Alimony, support or separate maintenance payments.
b. Most qualified retirement, stock bonus, pension, profit-sharing, annuity or similar plans. There are, however, several significant exceptions to this, most notably (i) plans established by an insider of the debtor, and (ii) IRA's, which are not exempt.
H. Life insurance payments and awards for damages, CCP §703.140 (b)(11).

i. Crime victim's reparation payments — 100%.

ii. Personal injury awards — $15,000.

iii. The following are exempt "to the extent necessary for the support of the debtor and any dependent of the debtor."
a. A payment under a life insurance policy on the life of a person of whom the debtor was a dependent at the time of the individual's death. Note, however, that any such policies owned by the debtor are completely exempt under CCP §703.140 (b)(7) if the insured has not died.
b. Payments on account of the wrongful death of a person of whom the debtor was a dependent.
c. Payments for lost future earnings of the debtor, a dependent, or someone of whom the debtor is a dependent.
2. The "California Exemptions," CCP §§ 704.010 et seq.

A. Homestead, CCP §§704.710-704.995 — $50,000 to $100,000 in equity.
i. The debtor must be living in the property at the time of the filing of the bankruptcy.
ii. "Dwelling" can include a house, condo, community apartment project, a mobile home, motor home or boat, CCP §704.710.
iii. Exemption amount is $50,000 for an individual.
iv. Exemption amount is $75,000 for a head of household [debtor plus: (a) spouse; (b) minor child or grandchild; (c) minor brother or sister; (d) parents or parents in law; or (e) incapacitated relative].
v. Exemption amount is $100,000 for those over 65, those over 55 with gross annual income of less than $15,000, or the disabled.
vi. The debtor need not file a declaration of homestead in order to receive the homestead exemption; however, if the house will be sold prior to filing, a declaration of homestead must be filed before the sale and the sales proceeds segregated in order to exempt the proceeds of the sale (the bankruptcy must be filed within 6 months of the sale), CCP §704.960.

B. Motor Vehicles, CCP §704.010 — $1,900.

C. Household furnishings, wearing apparel and other personal effects, CCP §704.020 — "ordinarily and reasonably necessary to" and used by the debtor/spouse.

D. Jewelry, heirlooms & works of art, CCP §704.040 — $5,000.

E. Tools of trade, CCP §704.060 — $5,000 per spouse.

F. Personal earnings (earned pre-bankruptcy), CCP §704.070 — 75%.

G. Life insurance policies, CCP §704.100.
i. Unmatured policies are exempt, except cash surrender or loan value, which is exempt up to $8,000.
ii. Matured life insurance policies — to the extent reasonably necessary for the support of the judgment debtor/spouse and dependents.

H. Public retirement benefits are entirely exempt, CCP §704.110.

I. Vacation credits are entirely exempt. CCP §704.113.

J. Private Retirement Plans (except IRA's) are completely exempt, CCP §704.115. IRA's are exempt only to the extent necessary for the support of the debtor at the time of anticipated retirement.

K. Unemployment insurance and compensation, [CCP §704.120], disability and health insurance payments, [CCP §704.130], worker's compensation claims and awards [CCP §704.160], and welfare payments [CCP §704.170], are exempt.

L. Personal injury and wrongful death causes of action are exempt; after payment of an award or settlement, they are exempt to the extent reasonably necessary for support, CCP §§704.140, 704.150.

M. Cemetery plots (unless held for resale) are exempt, CCP §104.200.
3. Property that is not property of the bankruptcy estate, BC §541.

A. Property in which the debtor holds a legal interest but no equitable interest, §541(d).
B. Trusts containing "a restriction on the transfer of a beneficial interest ... enforceable under applicable nonbankruptcy law . . . ." §541(c)(2). This provision applies to enforceable spendthrift clauses in trusts and has been determined to apply to ERISA-qualified pension plans, which must include anti-alienation language in order to qualify. Patterson v. Shumate, 112 S.Ct. 2242 (1992).
4. Issues in finding and claiming exemptions.

A. Exemption planning.
It is well established that standing alone, conversion of nonexempt assets into exempt assets on the eve of bankruptcy, even if the debtor is insolvent, is not sufficient to deprive the debtor of the exemption. However, where there is extrinsic evidence of actual intent by the debtor to defraud his creditors (which usually means an egregious fact situation), the discharge in bankruptcy may be denied under BC §727. For the average debtor, who does not have nonexempt property of great value, there is usually little to no risk in converting assets to exempt assets, and in fact failing to do so might lead to a claim of malpractice. For a good discussion of cases in this area, see In re Whitney, 107 B.R. 645 (Bkrtcy. D. Minn. 1989).
B. Valuing exempt property.
This issue figures rarely in case law, at least in this Circuit, except for significant assets (usually real estate). A good faith valuation of actual (not replacement) value will usually stand (and in fact, except on significant assets, will rarely be challenged). Fraudulently misrepresenting value is a bankruptcy crime. We normally advise our clients to estimate a realistic liquidation value. On motor vehicles, we list the low Blue Book value. When in doubt, it may be wise to suggest that the client have the item valued by someone in the business of buying and selling items such as those being claimed exempt (this can be especially helpful with items such a jewelry, where the actual value is often far less than what the debtor thinks it's worth). For real estate, recent sales of similar homes or a good faith estimate by a broker will usually suffice for the Trustee, although if the issue is litigated (as in a Motion to Modify the Automatic Stay), the local Bankruptcy Judge requires an appraisal by a certified appraiser.

LII: Law about...Bankruptcy

bankruptcy: an overview

Bankruptcy law provides for the development of a plan that allows a debtor, who is unable to pay his creditors, to resolve his debts through the division of his assets among his creditors. This supervised division also allows the interests of all creditors to be treated with some measure of equality. Certain bankruptcy proceedings allow a debtor to stay in business and use revenue generated to resolve his or her debts. An additional purpose of bankruptcy law is to allow certain debtors to free themselves (to be discharged) of the financial obligations they have accumulated, after their assets are distributed, even if their debts have not been paid in full.

Bankruptcy law is federal statutory law contained in Title 11 of the United States Code. Congress passed the Bankruptcy Code under its Constitutional grant of authority to "establish. . . uniform laws on the subject of Bankruptcy throughout the United States." See U.S. Constitution Article I, Section 8. States may not regulate bankruptcy though they may pass laws that govern other aspects of the debtor-creditor relationship. See Debtor-Creditor. A number of sections of Title 11 incorporate the debtor-creditor law of the individual states.

Bankruptcy proceedings are supervised by and litigated in the United States Bankruptcy Courts. These courts are a part of the District Courts of The United States. The United States Trustees were established by Congress to handle many of the supervisory and administrative duties of bankruptcy proceedings. Proceedings in bankruptcy courts are governed by the Bankruptcy Rules which were promulgated by the Supreme Court under the authority of Congress.

There are two basic types of Bankruptcy proceedings. A filing under Chapter 7 is called liquidation. It is the most common type of bankruptcy proceeding. Liquidation involves the appointment of a trustee who collects the non-exempt property of the debtor, sells it and distributes the proceeds to the creditors. Bankruptcy proceedings under Chapters 11, 12, and 13 involves the rehabilitation of the debtor to allow him or her to use future earnings to pay off creditors. Under Chapter 7, 12, 13, and some 11 proceedings, a trustee is appointed to supervise the assets of the debtor. A bankruptcy proceeding can either be entered into voluntarily by a debtor or initiated by creditors. After a bankruptcy proceeding is filed, creditors, for the most part, may not seek to collect their debts outside of the proceeding. The debtor is not allowed to transfer property that has been declared part of the estate subject to proceedings. Furthermore, certain pre-proceeding transfers of property, secured interests, and liens may be delayed or invalidated. Various provisions of the Bankruptcy Code also establish the priority of creditors' interests.

Credit and Debt
Bankruptcy
What is bankruptcy?
Bankruptcy is a legal court process that gives debtors a fresh financial start. Through bankruptcy, debts may be eliminated or a debtor may be given additional time to repay debts. Certain debts are not forgiven through bankruptcy. For example, child support, spousal support and some student loans are not forgiven. Bankruptcy proceedings may be begun by either a debtor (voluntary bankruptcy) or by a creditor (involuntary bankruptcy).

a.. What are the advantages and disadvantages of filing for bankruptcy?
b.. What is Chapter 7 bankruptcy?
c.. What is Chapter 13 bankruptcy?
d.. What is the process of filing for bankruptcy?
e.. What are the long-term consequences of filing for bankruptcy?

What are the advantages and disadvantages of filing for bankruptcy?
Filing for bankruptcy does have some advantages. Once bankruptcy is filed, most debt collection must stopped at least temporarily, and further collection efforts are allowed only if the bankruptcy court gives permission. In addition, a debtor who goes through bankruptcy is given a fresh financial start. The debtor will be able to keep some assets, depending on state law.

However, filing bankruptcy also has disadvantages. Information regarding bankruptcy stays on your credit report for ten (10) years. Someone who has filed bankruptcy may have difficulty getting credit or may be offered unfavorable terms. In addition, someone who has filed for bankruptcy may have difficulty renting an apartment.

What is Chapter 7 bankruptcy?
Chapter 7 bankruptcy (straight bankruptcy) is one type of personal bankruptcy. In a Chapter 7 bankruptcy, your "non-exempt" assets are collected and sold and the money is given to your creditors. Federal and state law determine which assets you can keep (exempt assets) and which assets may be sold (non-exempt assets). Exempt assets may include a home, auto, personal possessions, and a small amount of cash. If your home is subject to a mortgage, it is unlikely that you will be able to get rid of the mortgage.

What is Chapter 13 bankruptcy?
Chapter 13 bankruptcy is another type of personal bankruptcy. Chapter 13 is typically used by debtors who have a fairly regular income but are trying to save their homes from foreclosure. In this type of bankruptcy, the debtor submits a repayment plan explaining how all or some of the debts will be repaid in three to five years. If the debtor violates this plan, the bankruptcy may be changed to a Chapter 7 bankruptcy and the debtor's non-exempt assets may be sold.

What is the process of filing for bankruptcy?
Before filing bankruptcy, you must decide which type of bankruptcy is appropriate. Typically, you will choose between Chapter 7 and Chapter 13. Then, you file a petition with the U.S. Bankruptcy Court. The petition includes basic information about you, including your financial status. Once the petition is filed, most debt collection practices must stop. A bankruptcy trustee will then be appointed to oversee the bankruptcy process. A bankruptcy judge may reject a filing if he or she decides that bankruptcy is not justified.

What are the long-term consequences of filing for bankruptcy?

Information regarding bankruptcy stays in a consumer's credit report for ten years. Someone who has filed for bankruptcy may have difficulty obtaining credit or may be offered unfavorable credit terms. A consumer who is considering filing bankruptcy should carefully consider these serious consequences.

Filing & Exemptions

Who May File Bankruptcy?

1. Chapter 7.
Anyone (with a few minor exceptions) may file under Chapter 7. BUT only individuals (i.e., real people) can get a discharge in Chapter 7. This means that corporations or partnerships that need bankruptcy protection but which hope to survive bankruptcy must usually file under Chapter 11.

2. Chapter 13.
Only real people with primarily consumer debts of not more than $250,000 unsecured nor more than $750,000 secured, and who have a regular income, may file under Chapter 13.

Understanding Exemptions.
When an individual files a Chapter 7 or Chapter 13 bankruptcy, he/she is entitled to certain exemptions under California law (which is recognized in the bankruptcy proceeding [BC §522]), which means that those assets will not be taken by the trustee in bankruptcy. There are two sets of exemptions in California, those set out in California Code of Civil Procedure §703.140 and those set forth in CCP §§704.010 et seq. It is important to note that a debtor may not "mix and match" exemptions from one set and the other. The debtor much choose which set he/she elects (this includes the spouse in joint filings) and is limited to the exemptions available in that set. The Trustee or any creditor may object to the claim of exemption but must file his/her objection within 30 days of the conclusion of the First Meeting of Creditors.

1. The "Bankruptcy Code Exemptions," CCP §703.140.

These exemptions, which were last modified effective July 31, 1995, effectively mirror the exemptions provided by BC §522. A. Homestead exemption, CCP §703.140 (b)(1) — Equity of $15,000.

B. Motor vehicles, CCP §703.140 (b)(2) — Equity of $2,400.

C. Household furnishings, wearing apparel, books, animals, crops or musical instruments, CCP §703.140 (b)(3) — Equity of $400 per item.

D. "Wildcard" exemption, applicable to any asset, CCP §703.140 (b)(5) — $15,800.

E Tools of trade, CCP §703.140 (b)(6) — $1,500.

F. Cash surrender value of life insurance, CCP §703.140 (b)(8) — $8,000.

G. Benefit payments and retirement plans, CCP §703.140 (b)(10).

i. The following items are completely exempt:
a. Social security benefits.
b. Unemployment compensation.
c. Public assistance payments.
d. Veteran's benefits.
e. Disability, illness or unemployment benefits.

ii. The following are exempt "to the extent necessary for the support of the debtor and any dependent of the debtor."
a. Alimony, support or separate maintenance payments.
b. Most qualified retirement, stock bonus, pension, profit-sharing, annuity or similar plans. There are, however, several significant exceptions to this, most notably (i) plans established by an insider of the debtor, and (ii) IRA's, which are not exempt.
H. Life insurance payments and awards for damages, CCP §703.140 (b)(11).

i. Crime victim's reparation payments — 100%.

ii. Personal injury awards — $15,000.

iii. The following are exempt "to the extent necessary for the support of the debtor and any dependent of the debtor."
a. A payment under a life insurance policy on the life of a person of whom the debtor was a dependent at the time of the individual's death. Note, however, that any such policies owned by the debtor are completely exempt under CCP

§703.140 (b)(7) if the insured has not died.
b. Payments on account of the wrongful death of a person of whom the debtor was a dependent.
c. Payments for lost future earnings of the debtor, a dependent, or someone of whom the debtor is a dependent.
2. The "California Exemptions," CCP §§ 704.010 et seq.

A. Homestead, CCP §§704.710-704.995 — $50,000 to $100,000 in equity.
i. The debtor must be living in the property at the time of the filing of the bankruptcy.
ii. "Dwelling" can include a house, condo, community apartment project, a mobile home, motor home or boat, CCP §704.710.
iii. Exemption amount is $50,000 for an individual.
iv. Exemption amount is $75,000 for a head of household [debtor plus: (a) spouse; (b) minor child or grandchild; (c) minor brother or sister; (d) parents or parents in law; or (e) incapacitated relative].
v. Exemption amount is $100,000 for those over 65, those over 55 with gross annual income of less than $15,000, or the disabled.
vi. The debtor need not file a declaration of homestead in order to receive the homestead exemption; however, if the house will be sold prior to filing, a declaration of homestead must be filed before the sale and the sales proceeds segregated in order to exempt the proceeds of the sale (the bankruptcy must be filed within 6 months of the sale), CCP §704.960.

B. Motor Vehicles, CCP §704.010 — $1,900.

C. Household furnishings, wearing apparel and other personal effects, CCP §704.020 — "ordinarily and reasonably necessary to" and used by the debtor/spouse.

D. Jewelry, heirlooms & works of art, CCP §704.040 — $5,000.

E. Tools of trade, CCP §704.060 — $5,000 per spouse.

F. Personal earnings (earned pre-bankruptcy), CCP §704.070 — 75%.

G. Life insurance policies, CCP §704.100.
i. Unmatured policies are exempt, except cash surrender or loan value, which is exempt up to $8,000.
ii. Matured life insurance policies — to the extent reasonably necessary for the support of the judgment debtor/spouse and dependents.

H. Public retirement benefits are entirely exempt, CCP §704.110.

I. Vacation credits are entirely exempt. CCP §704.113.

J. Private Retirement Plans (except IRA's) are completely exempt, CCP §704.115. IRA's are exempt only to the extent necessary for the support of the debtor at the time of anticipated retirement.

K. Unemployment insurance and compensation, [CCP §704.120], disability and health insurance payments, [CCP §704.130], worker's compensation claims and awards [CCP §704.160], and welfare payments [CCP §704.170], are exempt.

L. Personal injury and wrongful death causes of action are exempt; after payment of an award or settlement, they are exempt to the extent reasonably necessary for support, CCP §§704.140, 704.150.

M. Cemetery plots (unless held for resale) are exempt, CCP §104.200.

3. Property that is not property of the bankruptcy estate, BC §541.

A. Property in which the debtor holds a legal interest but no equitable interest, §541(d).
B. Trusts containing "a restriction on the transfer of a beneficial interest ... enforceable under applicable nonbankruptcy law . . . ." §541(c)(2). This provision applies to enforceable spendthrift clauses in trusts and has been determined to apply to ERISA-qualified pension plans, which must include anti-alienation language in order to qualify. Patterson v. Shumate, 112 S.Ct. 2242 (1992).

4. Issues in finding and claiming exemptions.

A. Exemption planning.
It is well established that standing alone, conversion of nonexempt assets into exempt assets on the eve of bankruptcy, even if the debtor is insolvent, is not sufficient to deprive the debtor of the exemption. However, where there is extrinsic evidence of actual intent by the debtor to defraud his creditors (which usually means an egregious fact situation), the discharge in bankruptcy may be denied under BC §727. For the average debtor, who does not have nonexempt property of great value, there is usually little to no risk in converting assets to exempt assets, and in fact failing to do so might lead to a claim of malpractice. For a good discussion of cases in this area, see In re Whitney, 107 B.R. 645 (Bkrtcy. D. Minn. 1989).

B. Valuing exempt property.
This issue figures rarely in case law, at least in this Circuit, except for significant assets (usually real estate). A good faith valuation of actual (not replacement) value will usually stand (and in fact, except on significant assets, will rarely be challenged). Fraudulently misrepresenting value is a bankruptcy crime. We normally advise our clients to estimate a realistic liquidation value. On motor vehicles, we list the low Blue Book value. When in doubt, it may be wise to suggest that the client have the item valued by someone in the business of buying and selling items such as those being claimed exempt (this can be especially helpful with items such a jewelry, where the actual value is often far less than what the debtor thinks it's worth). For real estate, recent sales of similar homes or a good faith estimate by a broker will usually suffice for the Trustee, although if the issue is litigated (as in a Motion to Modify the Automatic Stay), the local Bankruptcy Judge requires an appraisal by a certified appraiser.

ii. The following are exempt "to the extent necessary for the support of the debtor and any dependent of the debtor."
a. Alimony, support or separate maintenance payments.

b. Payments on account of the wrongful death of a person of whom the debtor was a dependent.

c. Payments for lost future earnings of the debtor, a dependent, or someone of whom the debtor is a dependent.

2. The "California Exemptions," CCP §§ 704.010 et seq.

A. Homestead, CCP §§704.710-704.995 — $50,000 to $100,000 in equity.
i. The debtor must be living in the property at the time of the filing of the bankruptcy.
ii. "Dwelling" can include a house, condo, community apartment project, a mobile home, motor home or boat, CCP §704.710.
iii. Exemption amount is $50,000 for an individual.
iv. Exemption amount is $75,000 for a head of household [debtor plus: (a) spouse; (b) minor child or grandchild; (c) minor brother or sister; (d) parents or parents in law; or (e) incapacitated relative].
v. Exemption amount is $100,000 for those over 65, those over 55 with gross annual income of less than $15,000, or the disabled.
vi. The debtor need not file a declaration of homestead in order to receive the homestead exemption; however, if the house will be sold prior to filing, a declaration of homestead must be filed before the sale and the sales proceeds segregated in order to exempt the proceeds of the sale (the bankruptcy must be filed within 6 months of the sale), CCP §704.960.

B. Motor Vehicles, CCP §704.010 — $1,900.

C. Household furnishings, wearing apparel and other personal effects, CCP §704.020 — "ordinarily and reasonably necessary to" and used by the debtor/spouse.

D. Jewelry, heirlooms & works of art, CCP §704.040 — $5,000.

E. Tools of trade, CCP §704.060 — $5,000 per spouse.

F. Personal earnings (earned pre-bankruptcy), CCP §704.070 — 75%.

G. Life insurance policies, CCP §704.100.
i. Unmatured policies are exempt, except cash surrender or loan value, which is exempt up to $8,000.
ii. Matured life insurance policies — to the extent reasonably necessary for the support of the judgment debtor/spouse and dependents.

H. Public retirement benefits are entirely exempt, CCP §704.110.

I. Vacation credits are entirely exempt. CCP §704.113.

J. Private Retirement Plans (except IRA's) are completely exempt, CCP §704.115. IRA's are exempt only to the extent necessary for the support of the debtor at the time of anticipated retirement.

K. Unemployment insurance and compensation, [CCP §704.120], disability and health insurance payments, [CCP §704.130], worker's compensation claims and awards [CCP §704.160], and welfare payments [CCP §704.170], are exempt.

L. Personal injury and wrongful death causes of action are exempt; after payment of an award or settlement, they are exempt to the extent reasonably necessary for support, CCP §§704.140, 704.150.

M. Cemetery plots (unless held for resale) are exempt, CCP §104.200.

3. Property that is not property of the bankruptcy estate, BC §541.

A. Property in which the debtor holds a legal interest but no equitable interest, §541(d).
B. Trusts containing "a restriction on the transfer of a beneficial interest ... enforceable under applicable nonbankruptcy law . . . ." §541(c)(2). This provision applies to enforceable spendthrift clauses in trusts and has been determined to apply to ERISA-qualified pension plans, which must include anti-alienation language in order to qualify. Patterson v. Shumate, 112 S.Ct. 2242 (1992).

4. Issues in finding and claiming exemptions.

A. Exemption planning.
It is well established that standing alone, conversion of nonexempt assets into exempt assets on the eve of bankruptcy, even if the debtor is insolvent, is not sufficient to deprive the debtor of the exemption. However, where there is extrinsic evidence of actual intent by the debtor to defraud his creditors (which usually means an egregious fact situation), the discharge in bankruptcy may be denied under BC §727. For the average debtor, who does not have nonexempt property of great value, there is usually little to no risk in converting assets to exempt assets, and in fact failing to do so might lead to a claim of malpractice. For a good discussion of cases in this area, see In re Whitney, 107 B.R. 645 (Bkrtcy. D. Minn. 1989).

B. Valuing exempt property.
This issue figures rarely in case law, at least in this Circuit, except for significant assets (usually real estate). A good faith valuation of actual (not replacement) value will usually stand (and in fact, except on significant assets, will rarely be challenged). Fraudulently misrepresenting value is a bankruptcy crime. We normally advise our clients to estimate a realistic liquidation value. On motor vehicles, we list the low Blue Book value. When in doubt, it may be wise to suggest that the client have the item valued by someone in the business of buying and selling items such as those being claimed exempt (this can be especially helpful with items such a jewelry, where the actual value is often far less than what the debtor thinks it's worth). For real estate, recent sales of similar homes or a good faith estimate by a broker will usually suffice for the Trustee, although if the issue is litigated (as in a Motion to Modify the Automatic Stay), the local Bankruptcy Judge requires an appraisal by a certified appraiser.

You have the complete freedom to choose whichever set is best for you

BANKRUPTCY
Filing & Exemptions

Who May File Bankruptcy?

1. Chapter 7.
Anyone (with a few minor exceptions) may file under Chapter 7. BUT only individuals (i.e., real people) can get a discharge in Chapter 7. This means that corporations or partnerships that need bankruptcy protection but which hope to survive bankruptcy must usually file under Chapter 11.

2. Chapter 13.
Only real people with primarily consumer debts of not more than $250,000 unsecured nor more than $750,000 secured, and who have a regular income, may file under Chapter 13.

Understanding Exemptions.
When an individual files a Chapter 7 or Chapter 13 bankruptcy, he/she is entitled to certain exemptions under California law (which is recognized in the bankruptcy proceeding [BC §522]), which means that those assets will not be taken by the trustee in bankruptcy. There are two sets of exemptions in California, those set out in California Code of Civil Procedure §703.140 and those set forth in CCP §§704.010 et seq. It is important to note that a debtor may not "mix and match" exemptions from one set and the other. The debtor much choose which set he/she elects (this includes the spouse in joint filings) and is limited to the exemptions available in that set. The Trustee or any creditor may object to the claim of exemption but must file his/her objection within 30 days of the conclusion of the First Meeting of Creditors.

1. The "Bankruptcy Code Exemptions," CCP §703.140.

These exemptions, which were last modified effective July 31, 1995, effectively mirror the exemptions provided by BC §522. A. Homestead exemption, CCP §703.140 (b)(1) - Equity of $15,000.

B. Motor vehicles, CCP §703.140 (b)(2) - Equity of $2,400.

C. Household furnishings, wearing apparel, books, animals, crops or musical instruments, CCP §703.140 (b)(3) - Equity of $400 per item.

D. "Wildcard" exemption, applicable to any asset, CCP §703.140 (b)(5) - $15,800.

E Tools of trade, CCP §703.140 (b)(6) - $1,500.

F. Cash surrender value of life insurance, CCP §703.140 (b)(8) - $8,000.

G. Benefit payments and retirement plans, CCP §703.140 (b)(10).

i. The following items are completely exempt:
a. Social security benefits.
b. Unemployment compensation.
c. Public assistance payments.
d. Veteran's benefits.
e. Disability, illness or unemployment benefits.

ii. The following are exempt "to the extent necessary for the support of the debtor and any dependent of the debtor."

The Trustee or any creditor may object to the claim of exemption but must file his/her objection within 30 days of the conclusion of the First Meeting of Creditors.

1. The "Bankruptcy Code Exemptions," CCP §703.140.

These exemptions, which were last modified effective July 31, 1995, effectively mirror the exemptions provided by BC §522. A. Homestead exemption, CCP §703.140 (b)(1) — Equity of $15,000.

B. Motor vehicles, CCP §703.140 (b)(2) — Equity of $2,400.

C. Household furnishings, wearing apparel, books, animals, crops or musical instruments, CCP §703.140 (b)(3) — Equity of $400 per item.

D. "Wildcard" exemption, applicable to any asset, CCP §703.140 (b)(5) — $15,800.

E Tools of trade, CCP §703.140 (b)(6) — $1,500.

F. Cash surrender value of life insurance, CCP §703.140 (b)(8) — $8,000.

G. Benefit payments and retirement plans, CCP §703.140 (b)(10).
i. The following items are completely exempt:
a. Social security benefits.
b. Unemployment compensation.
c. Public assistance payments.
d. Veteran's benefits.
e. Disability, illness or unemployment benefits.

ii. The following are exempt "to the extent necessary for the support of the debtor and any dependent of the debtor."
a. Alimony, support or separate maintenance payments.
b. Most qualified retirement, stock bonus, pension, profit-sharing, annuity or similar plans. There are, however, several significant exceptions to this, most notably (i) plans established by an insider of the debtor, and (ii) IRA's, which are not exempt.

H. Life insurance payments and awards for damages, CCP §703.140 (b)(11).
i. Crime victim's reparation payments — 100%.
ii. Personal injury awards — $15,000.
iii. The following are exempt "to the extent necessary for the support of the debtor and any dependent of the debtor."
a. A payment under a life insurance policy on the life of a person of whom the debtor was a dependent at the time of the individual's death. Note, however, that any such policies owned by the debtor are completely exempt under CCP §703.140 (b)(7) if the insured has not died.
b. Payments on account of the wrongful death of a person of whom the debtor was a dependent.
c. Payments for lost future earnings of the debtor, a dependent, or someone of whom the debtor is a dependent.

2. The "California Exemptions," CCP §§ 704.010 et seq.

A. Homestead, CCP §§704.710-704.995 — $50,000 to $100,000 in equity.
i. The debtor must be living in the property at the time of the filing of the bankruptcy.
ii. "Dwelling" can include a house, condo, community apartment project, a mobile home, motor home or boat, CCP §704.710.
iii. Exemption amount is $50,000 for an individual.

iv. Exemption amount is $75,000 for a head of household [debtor plus: (a) spouse; (b) minor child or grandchild; (c) minor brother or sister; (d) parents or parents in law; or (e) incapacitated relative].
v. Exemption amount is $100,000 for those over 65, those over 55 with gross annual income of less than $15,000, or the disabled.
vi. The debtor need not file a declaration of homestead in order to receive the homestead exemption; however, if the house will be sold prior to filing, a declaration of homestead must be filed before the sale and the sales proceeds segregated in order to exempt the proceeds of the sale (the bankruptcy must be filed within 6 months of the sale), CCP §704.960.

B. Motor Vehicles, CCP §704.010 — $1,900.

C. Household furnishings, wearing apparel and other personal effects, CCP §704.020 — "ordinarily and reasonably necessary to" and used by the debtor/spouse.

D. Jewelry, heirlooms & works of art, CCP §704.040 — $5,000.

E. Tools of trade, CCP §704.060 — $5,000 per spouse.

F. Personal earnings (earned pre-bankruptcy), CCP §704.070 — 75%.

G. Life insurance policies, CCP §704.100.
i. Unmatured policies are exempt, except cash surrender or loan value, which is exempt up to $8,000.
ii. Matured life insurance policies — to the extent reasonably necessary for the support of the judgment debtor/spouse and dependents.

H. Public retirement benefits are entirely exempt, CCP §704.110.

I. Vacation credits are entirely exempt. CCP §704.113.

J. Private Retirement Plans (except IRA's) are completely exempt, CCP §704.115. IRA's are exempt only to the extent necessary for the support of the debtor at the time of anticipated retirement.

K. Unemployment insurance and compensation, [CCP §704.120], disability and health insurance payments, [CCP §704.130], worker's compensation claims and awards [CCP §704.160], and welfare payments [CCP §704.170], are exempt.

L. Personal injury and wrongful death causes of action are exempt; after payment of an award or settlement, they are exempt to the extent reasonably necessary for support, CCP §§704.140, 704.150.

M. Cemetery plots (unless held for resale) are exempt, CCP §104.200.

3. Property that is not property of the bankruptcy estate, BC §541.

A. Property in which the debtor holds a legal interest but no equitable interest, §541(d).
B. Trusts containing "a restriction on the transfer of a beneficial interest ... enforceable under applicable nonbankruptcy law . . . ." §541(c)(2). This provision applies to enforceable spendthrift clauses in trusts and has been determined to apply to ERISA-qualified pension plans, which must include anti-alienation language in order to qualify. Patterson v. Shumate, 112 S.Ct. 2242

4. Issues in finding and claiming exemptions.

A. Exemption planning.
It is well established that standing alone, conversion of nonexempt assets into exempt assets on the eve of bankruptcy, even if the debtor is insolvent, is not sufficient to deprive the debtor of the exemption. However, where there is extrinsic evidence of actual intent by the debtor to defraud his creditors (which usually means an egregious fact situation), the discharge in bankruptcy may be denied under BC §727. For the average debtor, who does not have nonexempt property of great value, there is usually little to no risk in converting assets to exempt assets, and in fact failing to do so might lead to a claim of malpractice. For a good discussion of cases in this area, see In re Whitney, 107 B.R. 645 (Bkrtcy. D. Minn. 1989).

B. Valuing exempt property.
This issue figures rarely in case law, at least in this Circuit, except for significant assets (usually real estate). A good faith valuation of actual (not replacement) value will usually stand (and in fact, except on significant assets, will rarely be challenged). Fraudulently misrepresenting value is a bankruptcy crime. We normally advise our clients to estimate a realistic liquidation value. On motor vehicles, we list the low Blue Book value. When in doubt, it may be wise to suggest that the client have the item valued by someone in the business of buying and selling items such as those being claimed exempt (this can be especially helpful with items such a jewelry, where the actual value is often far less than what the debtor thinks it's worth). For real estate, recent sales of similar homes or a good faith estimate by a broker will usually suffice for the Trustee, although if the issue is litigated (as in a Motion to Modify the Automatic Stay), the local Bankruptcy Judge requires an appraisal by a certified appraiser.

Dear J

The basic problem at the moment is that I do not actually know the type of home you live in

Whatever it is though please consult the 704.710 and let me know if you are covered with the homestead exemptions

We might need to look up some engineering definitions of the various types of structures but with the American Society of Civil Engineers that should not be too much of a problem

Kind Regards
Yours Sincerely
M

Dear J

'' 704.710 (a) (2) A mobilehome together with the outbuildings and the land upon which they are situated ''

You own the tenancy rights to the land
Those rights are worth having

What you are saying is that because you do not actually own the land you have not got a homestead

Well that is like saying just because you have not got any outbuildings it is not a homestead

What you are saying is that you need a mobilehome + land + outbuildings to qualify as a homestead

And I think that is logically inconsistent

Might be worth checking with Mike Frankel for the interpretation of the words '' together '' and '' and ''

Personally I think it just means if you have got them they are yours
I do not think you need to have all three to qualify as a homestead

Kind Regards
Yours Sincerely
M

The day after Isabel's swipe through the Washington region revealed a landscape trash-strewn and damaged: More than 1 million people in Northern Virginia were without reliable drinking water. Floodwaters were knee-deep in Annapolis's downtown market. More than 300 trees blew down in the District alone.

Hello:

This letter is to inform you of the silent auction we are having on the radar base located in central SD. For those of you that would like to look at the property the nearest airport would be Pierre SD about 60 miles from Gettysburg, where the property is located just north of town.

The place has been vacant for 14 years with no upkeep in that time. The buildingsare sound but need some work on doors and windows. There has been some weather damage. There as been some vandalism in that time but very minor for the time that it has set vacant.

We have set an opening bid price of $25,000.00. Of course we do reserve the right to reject any or all bids. Will close on Oct. 1st 12 noon or 1 hour after last bid. In case of telephone or computer failure will be extended as needed.

Here is a list of the buildings on this 40 acre parcel:

90 x 110 clear span all concrete building with one 20' opening on east side

32 x 80 motor pool has 4 garage doors on south side

24 x 144 metal barracks there are 2 of these metal buildings

24 x 96 metal barracks that has one side open where it was attached to another building

24 x 48 metal barracks

there are 5 flat roof buildings different sizes: hobby shop, water treament, communications, and misc.

approximately 17 buildings total.

There is an underground tunnel that we built to connect the house to the shop.

There is a large underground water storage system and a well that is very deep but not

useable due to someone dropping the pump in the well.

There is rural water in the area now. The water system on this property would need some work. There is no working heat system in any of the buildings. There is a lagoon for the waste system.

Most of these buildings have been used for something else since the goverment sold the property to us. We used alot of them for storage of parts. There is some cleanup that needs to be done to make this property useable.

We tried to send some pictures to everyone but so many came back. We will just send the letter this time. If you want the pictures please let me know. The taxes are about $800.00 per year and are current with no liens against the property.

Hello:

This letter is to inform you of the silent auction we are having on the radar base located in central SD. For those of you that would like to look at the property the nearest airport would be Pierre SD about 60 miles from Gettysburg, where the property is located just north of town.

The place has been vacant for 14 years with no upkeep in that time. The buildingsare sound but need some work on doors and windows. There has been some weather damage. There as been some vandalism in that time but very minor for the time that it has set vacant.

We have set an opening bid price of $25,000.00. Of course we do reserve the right to reject any or all bids. Will close on Oct. 1st 12 noon or 1 hour after last bid. In case of telephone or computer failure will be extended as needed.

Here is a list of the buildings on this 40 acre parcel:

90 x 110 clear span all concrete building with one 20' opening on east side

32 x 80 motor pool has 4 garage doors on south side

24 x 144 metal barracks there are 2 of these metal buildings

24 x 96 metal barracks that has one side open where it was attached to another building

24 x 48 metal barracks

there are 5 flat roof buildings different sizes: hobby shop, water treament, communications, and misc.

approximately 17 buildings total.

There is an underground tunnel that we built to connect the house to the shop.

There is a large underground water storage system and a well that is very deep but not

useable due to someone dropping the pump in the well.

There is rural water in the area now. The water system on this property would need some work. There is no working heat system in any of the buildings. There is a lagoon for the waste system.

Most of these buildings have been used for something else since the goverment sold the property to us. We used alot of them for storage of parts. There is some cleanup that needs to be done to make this property useable.

We tried to send some pictures to everyone but so many came back. We will just send the letter this time. If you want the pictures please let me know. The taxes are about $800.00 per year and are current with no liens against the property.

Hi
The financing would be 50% down with the terms negotable depending on credit. As for the high bid we will not give that info until we have a $100 deposit in from you.

The World is Mine

Today, upon a bus, I saw a very beautiful woman.
And wished I were as beautiful.
When suddenly she rose to leave,
I saw her hobble down the aisle.
She had one leg and used a crutch.
But as she passed, she passed a smile.

Oh, God, forgive me when I whine.
I have two legs; the world is mine.

I stopped to buy some candy.
The lad who sold it had such charm.
I talked with him, he seemed so glad.
If I were late, it'd do no harm.
And as I left, he said to me, "I thank you, you've been so kind.
It's nice to talk with folks like you.
You see," he said, "I'm blind."
Oh, God, forgive me when I whine.
I have two eyes; the world is mine.

Later while walking down the street,
I saw a child I knew.
He stood and watched the others play,
but he did not know what to do.
I stopped a moment and then I said,
"Why don't you join them dear?"
He looked ahead without a word.
I forgot, he couldn't hear.
Oh, God, forgive me when I whine.
I have two ears; the world is mine.

With feet to take me where I'd go.
With eyes to see the sunset's glow.
With ears to hear what I'd know.
Oh, God, forgive me when I whine.

I've been blessed indeed, the world is mine.

If this poem makes you feel thankful, just forward it to your friends.

After all, it's just a simple reminder that we have so much to be thankful for!

90 x 110 clear span all concrete building with one 20' opening on east side

32 x 80 motor pool has 4 garage doors on south side

32 x 100 multi purpose building with attached gymnasium the building that we lived in when we lived there

there are 5 flat roof buildings different sizes: hobby shop, water treament, communications, and misc.

approximately 17 buildings total.

There is an underground tunnel that we built to connect the house to the shop.

There is a large underground water storage system and a well that is very deep but not

useable due to someone dropping the pump in the well.

There is rural water in the area now. The water system on this property would need some work. There is no working heat system in any of the buildings. There is a lagoon for the waste system.

Most of these buildings have been used for something else since the goverment sold the property to us. We used alot of them for storage of parts. There is

There is rural water in the area now. The water system on this property would need some work. There is no working heat system in any of the buildings. There is a lagoon for the waste system.

Most of these buildings have been used for something else since the goverment sold the property to us. We used alot of them for storage of parts. There is some cleanup that needs to be done to make this property useable.

We tried to send some pictures to everyone but so many came back. We will just send the letter this time. If you want the pictures please let me know. The taxes are about $800.00 per year and are current with no liens against the property.

Take Action: Kenny Richey - A Scot On Death Row In Ohio
 Kenny Richey
In 1987, Kenny Richey, a British national, was arrested and later convicted of arson and the aggravated murder of two year old Cynthia Collins. Despite the fact that new evidence presented to the court in 1997 establishes that Kenny is almost certainly an innocent man, he remains on death row in Ohio and could have a date for execution some time this year.

Prosecutor Dan Gershutz said: "Even though this new evidence may establish Mr. Richey's innocence, the Ohio and United States constitution nonetheless allows him to be executed because the prosecution did not know that the scientific testimony offered at the trial was false and unreliabl"'. Amnesty International has called it "one of the most compelling cases of innocence human rights campaigners have ever seen".

Kenny has just had his final appeal heard in May. We will not know the outcome of this appeal for another 2 months, but there are still ways to take action now.

The Case
Two-year-old Cynthia Collins died of smoke inhalation after a fire broke out at her mother's flat. Hope Collins, Cynthia's mother and a friend of Kenny Richey's, later claimed that she had left him in charge of the child whilst she went out for the evening. Kenny has always maintained his innocence and claimed that he had refused to baby-sit for Cynthia because he was too drunk.

During the trial, the prosecution claimed that the murder was premeditated, and proposed that Kenny had stolen cans of petrol from the greenhouse, climbed onto the shed roof and through the window into the flat. He had then disabled the smoke alarm, splashed the flammables onto the carpets and then set the flat alight before fleeing. His alleged motive was to harm his ex girlfriend and her partner who lived in the flat below.

Back to Top

Facts that Undermine the Original Conviction

a.. The prosecution was unable to present any evidence that Kenny had disabled the smoke alarm, despite the fact that this was the evidence that made the crime 'premeditated'. In fact one of Hope's friends reported that the smoke alarm had been disconnected earlier that evening

b.. There were no traces of flammable materials found on Kenny's trousers or boots despite the assertion he had splashed such materials over the carpet

c.. The defence was not told that the local fire chief had been called to the flat on three separate occasions in the preceding weeks to investigate the mysterious appearance of smoke in the flat. Cynthia Collins had started fires in the flat on previous occasions

d.. Kenny had broken his hand a week earlier and it was in a plaster cast. A witness also saw him collapse in bushes drunk. It would have been almost impossible for him to climb onto a shed and then into the flat holding petrol cans without making any noise. His ex girlfriend and her new boyfriend claimed to be light sleepers but heard nothing

e.. Fire Marshall Cryer who investigated the fire declared that the fire had started accidentally and authorised the building owner to gut the flat. Had he suspected arson, the flat would have had to be sealed off for investigation. Instead, vital evidence was removed first to the dump and then to the local sheriff's forecourt and placed near a petrol pump.

Back to Top

The Lawyer

Kenny's court appointed lawyer, William Kluge had only been practising for a couple of years and this was his first capital case. He failed Kenny on several counts by not questioning prosecution evidence, hiring experts or allowing Kenny to testify.

Back to Top

New Evidence
In March 1997, new evidence that could establish Kenny Richey's innocence was presented to the court but it was not admissible, since it should have been brought up at previous appeals.

a.. The forensic tests that had initially been carried out on the carpet were proved to be wholly unreliable

b.. New tests performed by America's leading scientists showed that the carpet didn't contain any ignitable substances at all, and also that the characteristics left by the fire in the flat were not consistent with arson but with an accident.

Take Action Now
Write to the US Embassy

It is important the US Embassy is aware of the level of concern and interest in the case. The Embassy has to let the relevant authorities in the US know how many people have contacted them and how much coverage the case is getting in the UK.

Write a letter to the US Ambassador. Let him know you are aware of the case of Kenny Richey. Pick two or three points from the briefing that cause you concern about the case - whether it's the new evidence that has not been taken into consideration, or the fact that the fire department had been called to the flat three times in the previous two weeks, for example. Your letter doesn't have to be detailed, and the more individual they are the better. You can conclude by saying that you hope justice will be done and that the new evidence in Kenny Richey's case will be properly considered.

TV these days. With fierce competition from all angles, programming execs are looking for execution that stands out from the pack, and showrunners are hiring talent with the chops to make it happen. The competition just gets tougher — big-screen directors working in TV this year include Mark Pellington, Phillip Noyce, Peter Medak, Jeremy Podeswa and Rodrigo Garcia. Melding solid storytelling with technology breakthroughs, directors, editors, DPs and visual-

Membership

Welcome to our membership information page

How can you join WineShare?
You can rent a row of 50 (or more) vines. Select one our special gift packages. Purchase our presentation box containing 2 bottles of wine with your special wording on the label accompanying a lease for a year's membership and a video. Or extend the membership to further years as part of the gift. Alternatively our range of gift packs includes 6-12 bottles of wine delivered with a lease for an annual subscription.

So what are the benefits of joining WineShare?
By renting vines you get to drink the wine from your vineyard. The wine made from your grapes is blended with the wine of other row owners. It may be red, white or rosé. You may also buy wine with your own personalised label if you wish. (Wedding or Anniversary wine is very popular) So buy someone a unique present: his or her own row of vines, numbered and clearly identified in a quality vineyard.

To be member of WineShare you rent a row of 50 vines for just £70.00 a year. The price is fixed for 10 years thus ensuring your WineShare membership becomes better value every year. Should, by chance, there be a poor harvest we will guarantee to provide you with up to 10 cases from your vineyard or refund your membership for that year. Members may order as many or as few cases, as often as they wish, at any time throughout the membership year.

Where are the vineyards?
Château Constantin-Chevalier in Provence, Domaine du Grand Mayne, Côtes de Duras in the Dordogne, Château de Pizay in Beaujolais and Castello Vicchiomaggio in Tuscany. Whichever vineyard you choose, you have the security of knowing that you are investing in an award-winner that we personally manage or oversee. The vineyards are equipped with the latest technology, every aspect of the grape’s life, from pruning and tending the vines to making the actual wine, is fastidiously controlled.

The award winning wines
Our total commitment to quality has been rewarded by top awards for our wines, both in England, France and Italy. For two years running we have scooped the ultimate accolade in the French wine-buyer’s bible, the Guide Hachette, winning their top recommendation, a Coup de Coeur, and John Matta of Castello Vicchiomaggio was awarded the Italian Wine Maker of the Year Trophy in 2002.

How WineShare works
Whichever option you choose, your rent is fully refundable for 28 days from receipt of the gift, should you have a change of heart. Membership may be surrendered at any time.

You join WineShare for the enjoyment of drinking your wine, meeting other members and having fun at wine related events that we stage in both England, France and Italy. We do the work; you enjoy yourself!

How you order wine and what it costs
Once you receive your subscriber number you may immediately order wine and continue to do so throughout the year. Three times a year you will receive an order form detailing the wines available and a full-colour newsletter giving the dates and descriptions of the activities and events that are such a vital and enjoyable part of the WineShare year. All members are welcome to bring guests to any of our activities and events.

If you collect your wine from our warehouse in Calais or from your vineyard in France or Italy, your wine will always be a bargain. Under the Single European Act if the wine is for personal consumption and import, no UK duty or shipping costs are payable, thus saving you nearly £2 per bottle.

This year the cost of wine collected from France is:
Domaine du Grand Mayne from €4.15 - £2.96 per bottle
Château de Pizay from €4.50 - £3.21 per bottle
Château Constantin-Chevalier from €5.75 - £4.11 per bottle
Castello Vicchiomaggio from €4.99 - £3.56 per bottle

Should you prefer the convenience of having your wine delivered, duty (£14.28 per case) and shipping costs are then payable. The delivery charge to your door is £5.50 per case, free if you order more than 5 cases. Shippers charge extra for deliveries outside mainland UK.

The UK price of wine in 2003 is:
Domaine du Grand Mayne from £4.65 per bottle
Château de Pizay from £4.85 per bottle
Château Constantin-Chevalier from £5.75 per bottle
Castello Vicchiomaggio from £5.85 per bottle

Excellent value for a single vineyard domaine bottled wine.

Why not try our wines before you join?
We think WineShare membership is excellent value for money. However, should you wish to try a few of our wines before you join us, you may order individual bottles from our selection of 18 wines from the three vineyards. We also offer aSpecial Tasting cases from (12 bottles, £70 delivered), which has a selection of current and older vintages, again from all four vineyards. Why not view a copy of our video for the full flavour of involvement with WineShare? The cost is just £5, and your money is refunded when you decide to join or return the video to us in good condition.

Visiting the vineyards and the WineShare activities
Hundreds of WineShare subscribers have visited the vineyards during the vintage in September and helped to pick the grapes, taste the newly fermenting wine and enjoy a weekend of traditional French lunches and dinners. Slightly nearer home there are tastings, dinners and other functions in the UK. However, you don't have to wait for the trips or special days to visit your vines. Any time you are nearby, you may taste the wine and have a personal tour of the vineyard. We will willingly advise on local hotels, or you may wish to rent the luxury 5-bedroom house at the Grand Mayne vineyard for a holiday, with its spacious grounds and a welcoming swimming pool; it is only available to WineShare members.

Why I hear you ask ?

Because you only need to contact 630403@clicktopromote.co.uk once to get a return stream of one email every day advertising my websites for 12 days

And it all has an '' unsubscribe '' option too so it cannot be considered spam itself

The trouble is I cannot find a way of generating huge flows of email to the program email address

All suggestions greatfully received

Dear Joey

Thanks for the card

Believe it or not I am now in the buisness of actually wanting to attract as much spam as possible

But not to my normal email address here

Instead I want as much spam as possible to hit my autoresponder at 630403@clicktopromote.co.uk

Why I hear you ask ?

Because you only need to contact 630403@clicktopromote.co.uk once to get a return stream of one email every day advertising my websites for 12 days

And it all has an '' unsubscribe '' option too so it cannot be considered spam itself

The trouble is I cannot find a way of generating huge flows of email to the program email address

All suggestions greatfully received

Kind Regards
Yours Sincerely
Mike

Because you only need to contact 630403@clicktopromote.co.uk once to get a return stream of one email every day advertising my websites for 12 days And it all has an '' unsubscribe '' option too so it cannot be considered spam itself The trouble is I cannot find a way of generating huge flows of email to the program email address All suggestions greatfully received Kind Regards Yours Sincerely Mike

Where there is hope there is life
Please do not use the 630403@clicktopromote.co.uk

It does not do any of the links in HTML

I found a better one with less ads and more functions that I hope to have up and running soon

Watch this space

The toilet is still not 100% but better
We need to replace an inlet valve but the tank is in the roof and we need to get into the neighbours flat during their lunch break glad you are interested. There is no security fence.

Joel
I am seriously interested
But please can you advise me if the 40 acre base is surrounded by any security ?
By security I mean fences or walls as in any active security base

Hello:

This letter is to inform you of the silent auction we are having on the radar base located in central SD. For those of you that would like to look at the property the nearest airport would be Pierre SD about 60 miles from Gettysburg, where the property is located just north of town.

The place has been vacant for 14 years with no upkeep in that time. The buildingsare sound but need some work on doors and windows. There has been some weather damage. There as been some vandalism in that time but very minor for the time that it has set vacant.

We have set an opening bid price of $25,000.00. Of course we do reserve the right to reject any or all bids. Will close on Oct. 1st 12 noon or 1 hour after last bid. In case of telephone or computer failure will be extended as needed.

Here is a list of the buildings on this 40 acre parcel:

90 x 110 clear span all concrete building with one 20' opening on east side

32 x 80 motor pool has 4 garage doors on south side

24 x 144 metal barracks there are 2 of these metal buildings

24 x 96 metal barracks that has one side open where it was attached to another building

24 x 48 metal barracks

there are 5 flat roof buildings different sizes: hobby shop, water treament, communications, and misc.

approximately 17 buildings total.

There is an underground tunnel that we built to connect the house to the shop.

There is a large underground water storage system and a well that is very deep but not

useable due to someone dropping the pump in the well.

There is rural water in the area now. The water system on this property would need some work. There is no working heat system in any of the buildings. There is a lagoon for the waste system.

Most of these buildings have been used for something else since the goverment sold the property to us. We used alot of them for storage of parts. There is some cleanup that needs to be done to make this property useable.

We tried to send some pictures to everyone but so many came back. We will just send the letter this time. If you want the pictures please let me know. The taxes are about $800.00 per year and are current with no liens against the property.

Hello:

This letter is to inform you of the silent auction we are having on the radar base located in central SD. For those of you that would like to look at the property the nearest airport would be Pierre SD about 60 miles from Gettysburg, where the property is located just north of town.

The place has been vacant for 14 years with no upkeep in that time. The buildingsare sound but need some work on doors and windows. There has been some weather damage. There as been some vandalism in that time but very minor for the time that it has set vacant.

We have set an opening bid price of $25,000.00. Of course we do reserve the right to reject any or all bids. Will close on Oct. 1st 12 noon or 1 hour after last bid. In case of telephone or computer failure will be extended as needed.

Here is a list of the buildings on this 40 acre parcel:

90 x 110 clear span all concrete building with one 20' opening on east side

32 x 80 motor pool has 4 garage doors on south side

24 x 144 metal barracks there are 2 of these metal buildings

24 x 96 metal barracks that has one side open where it was attached to another building

24 x 48 metal barracks

there are 5 flat roof buildings different sizes: hobby shop, water treament, communications, and misc.

approximately 17 buildings total.

There is an underground tunnel that we built to connect the house to the shop.

There is a large underground water storage system and a well that is very deep but not

useable due to someone dropping the pump in the well.

There is rural water in the area now. The water system on this property would need some work. There is no working heat system in any of the buildings. There is a lagoon for the waste system.

Most of these buildings have been used for something else since the goverment sold the property to us. We used alot of them for storage of parts. There is some cleanup that needs to be done to make this property useable.

We tried to send some pictures to everyone but so many came back. We will just send the letter this time. If you want the pictures please let me know. The taxes are about $800.00 per year and are current with no liens against the property.

For your consideration: Screeners on eBay

By BRIAN <http://www.variety.com/index.asp?layout=bio&peopleID=1695> LOWRY

Greetings, criminals.

"Intellectual property" might sound like a generous description of "The Matrix Reloaded," HBO's now-defunct "The Mind of the Married Man" or the latest Kelly Clarkson CD, but just because they weren't especially good doesn't give you the right to steal them.

Nevertheless, the U.S. is fast becoming a nation of casual thieves -- a fact underscored by the latest wrinkle in the war on piracy, with major studios reconsidering the practice of sending out Academy Award screeners for fear of abetting the freebooters.

In a luncheon address last year, News Corp. president Peter Chernin conceded he might bore everyone in the room, then proceeded to issue a warning that Hollywood could be "out of business" if it doesn't tackle protection of digital copyrights. He was right on both counts.

The irony is that the theft sweeping across the entertainment spectrum has been hastened not only by technology but also the image problems of companies like News Corp. -- reflecting an unintended side effect, I'd argue, of wholesale media consolidation. Because unfair as it is, employees and the public seem to feel fewer compunctions about stealing from the equivalent of a big supermarket chain than they would, say, their local liquor store.

Swell as it is to be big, then, that size makes the studio monoliths less sympathetic. It's also clear they're swinging wildly regarding how best to curb piracy, trying everything from ad campaigns that feature blue-collar workers (a bit of a stretch) to prosecuting teenage downloaders, which should be about as effective as putting the clamps on a few recreational drug users.

Even before the Motion Picture Assn. of America weighed in, the question of piracy has been staring me in the face --literally -- as I screen new TV series. In fact, I'm growing annoyed living in a world where law-breakers muck up my home viewing habits.

HBO, understandably persnickety about having people steal its service, has been especially aggressive about aping the bigscreen practice of stamping initials and numerical codes on tapes to discourage copying. As a result, said codes stare back at you the entire time you're watching.

So as I attempted to lose myself in the first three episodes of the macabre drama "Carnivale," my initials, "BL," were emblazoned in the corner. Then again, to paraphrase a favorite line from "The Odd Couple," I should be grateful my name isn't "Felix Unger."

Indeed, for all the focus on movies and music -- where money that should be changing hands doesn't -- one need only scan eBay to find hundreds of award-consideration tapes in the TV memorabilia category, from the aforementioned "Married Man" (go figure) to "24" and "ER."

Fox has affixed lengthy warnings to its press mailings that threaten everything but taking your first-born child, but that didn't prevent its Emmy mailer from landing on eBay prior to the awards. Notably, many of these offerings are billed as being unopened, meaning the seller didn't bother to watch the tapes enclosed -- which probably explains some recent award selections.

As explained on the site, "These videos are highly collectible because they are only sent out to members of the Hollywood community so they can vote on various award shows, such as the Emmys and Golden Globes." Potential buyers are assured the "24" tape is "in MINT CONDITION and STILL SEALED and was sent to Television Academy members ONLY 'for your consideration' for Emmy votes and is something that is nearly impossible for the general public to get their hands on!"

Unless, that is, some moron with an aversion to punctuation peddles it on eBay.

Establishing a tracking database for HBO's "security burn-ins" isn't terribly expensive, but it is time-consuming. Nevertheless, the channel is committed to having such codes on all its tapes and DVDs within the year, hoping it will serve as a deterrent.

Unlike film distributors, networks have virtually no choice but to send out tapes if they covet advance publicity, only to have them thrown into the giant hopper of "stuff being sold that shouldn't be" by profiteering journalists, studio employees and production house workers.

In the months and years ahead, there doubtless will be much talk about technological methods to block DVD reproduction. A company called VeriTouch, for example, is hawking a "personalized encrypted disk" (or PED) that, it claims, "provides the world's first biometrically secured content disk, which can only be played back by the authorized person for whom the disk was made." I guess that makes them a PED dispenser.

Gary Brant, the company's CEO, admits there are hurdles to overcome but insists encryption can work if it's sold to the public as "the next cool device."

Technology, however, can only go so far in tackling a problem where progress will rely in part on character as well as chyrons. Somehow, the industry has to figure out how to plead its case to consumers in clear, hysteria-free terms -- in the same way the "drug war" can never be won as long as casual users remain undaunted by limp threats or overheated moral appeals.

There are no easy answers, but that's at least a place to start -- a free tip from me, "BL 6986," to you.

Dear Joey

I have found the missing piece in the jigsaw

It is a simple legal fact that tax evasion and tax avoidance are not considered serious crimes in a very large number of the offshore jurisdictions

They can sometimes rank allong with parking tickets or drunk and disorderly offences

Thus they attract very little attention from the local authorities

Kind Regards
Yours Sincerely

Mike Poole

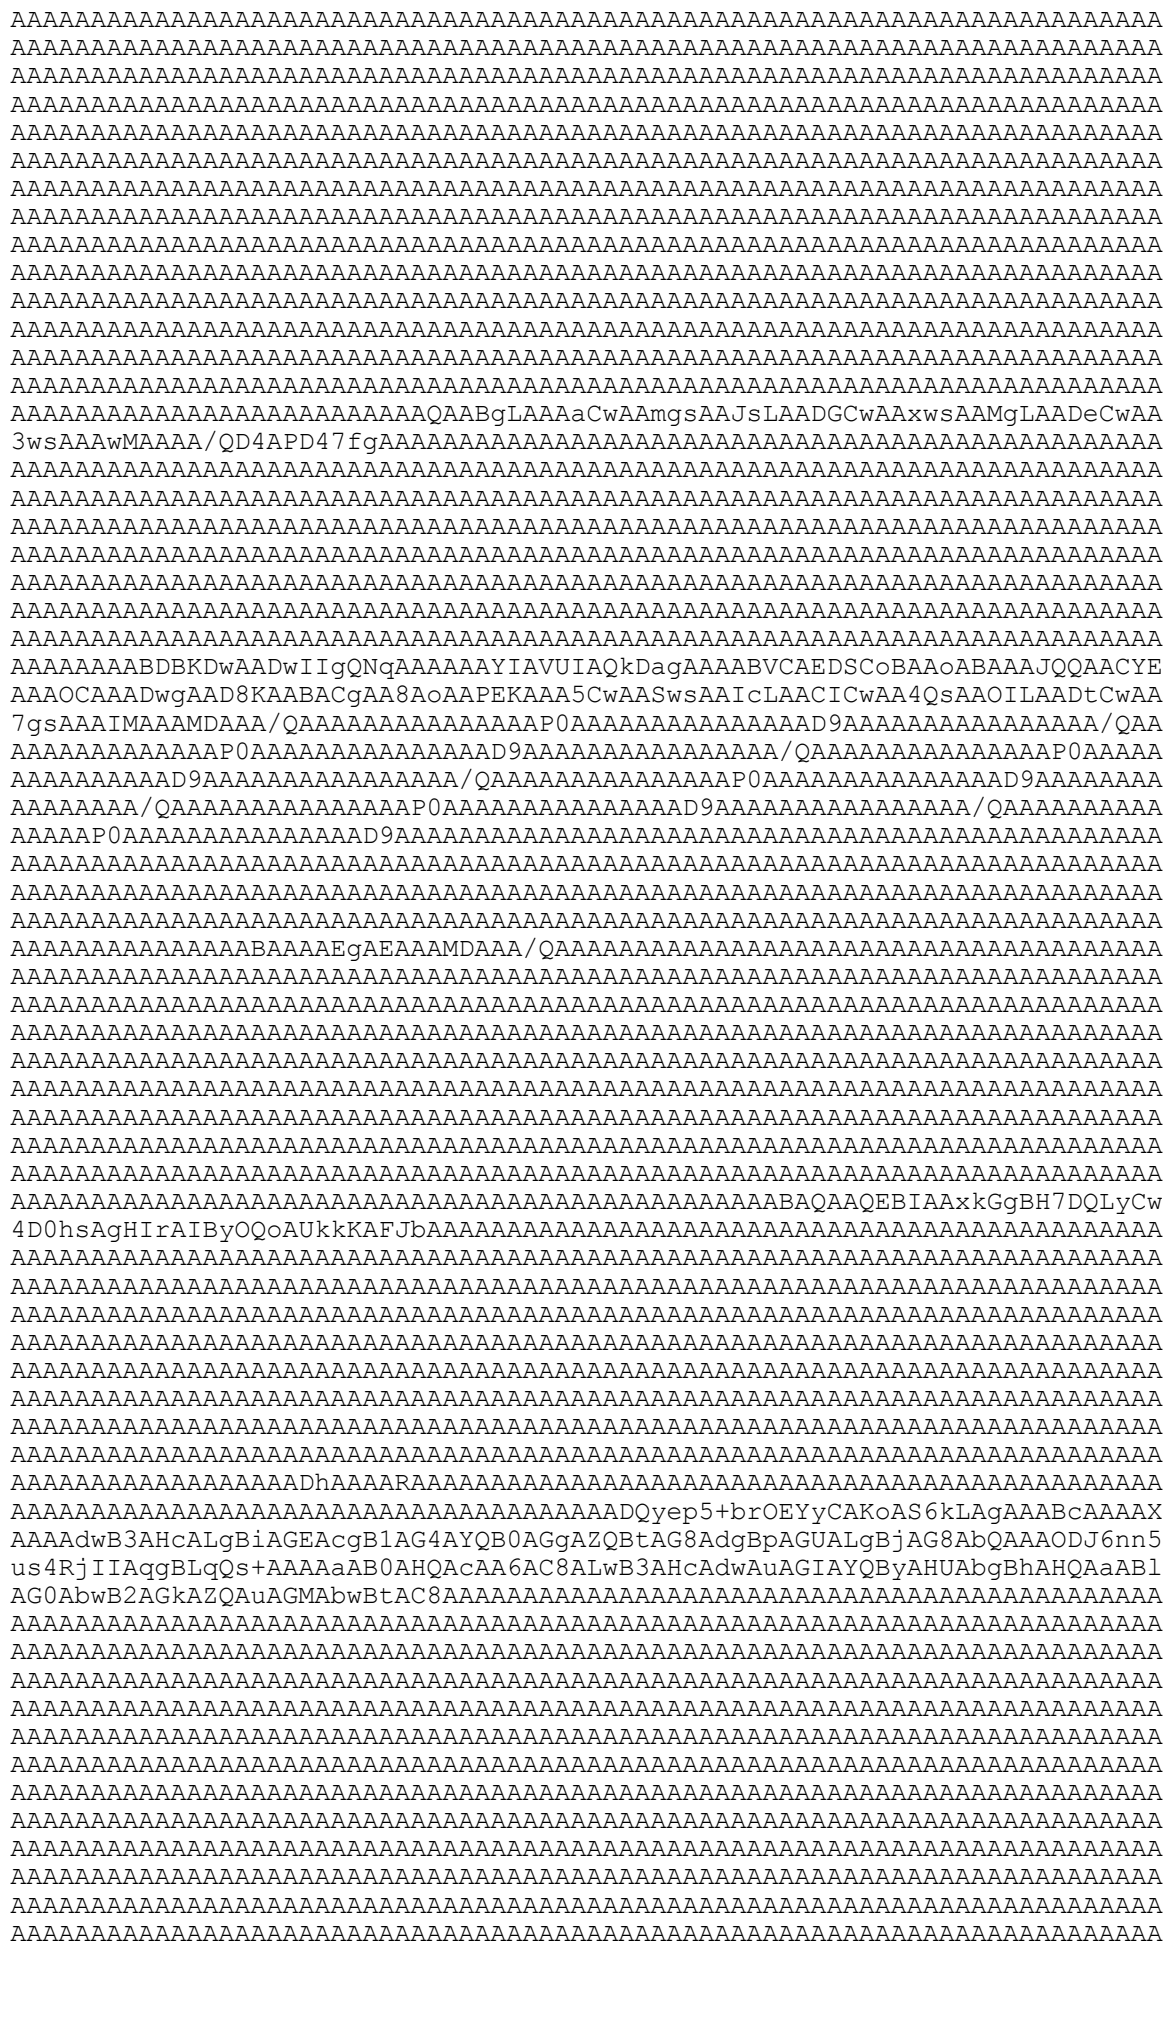
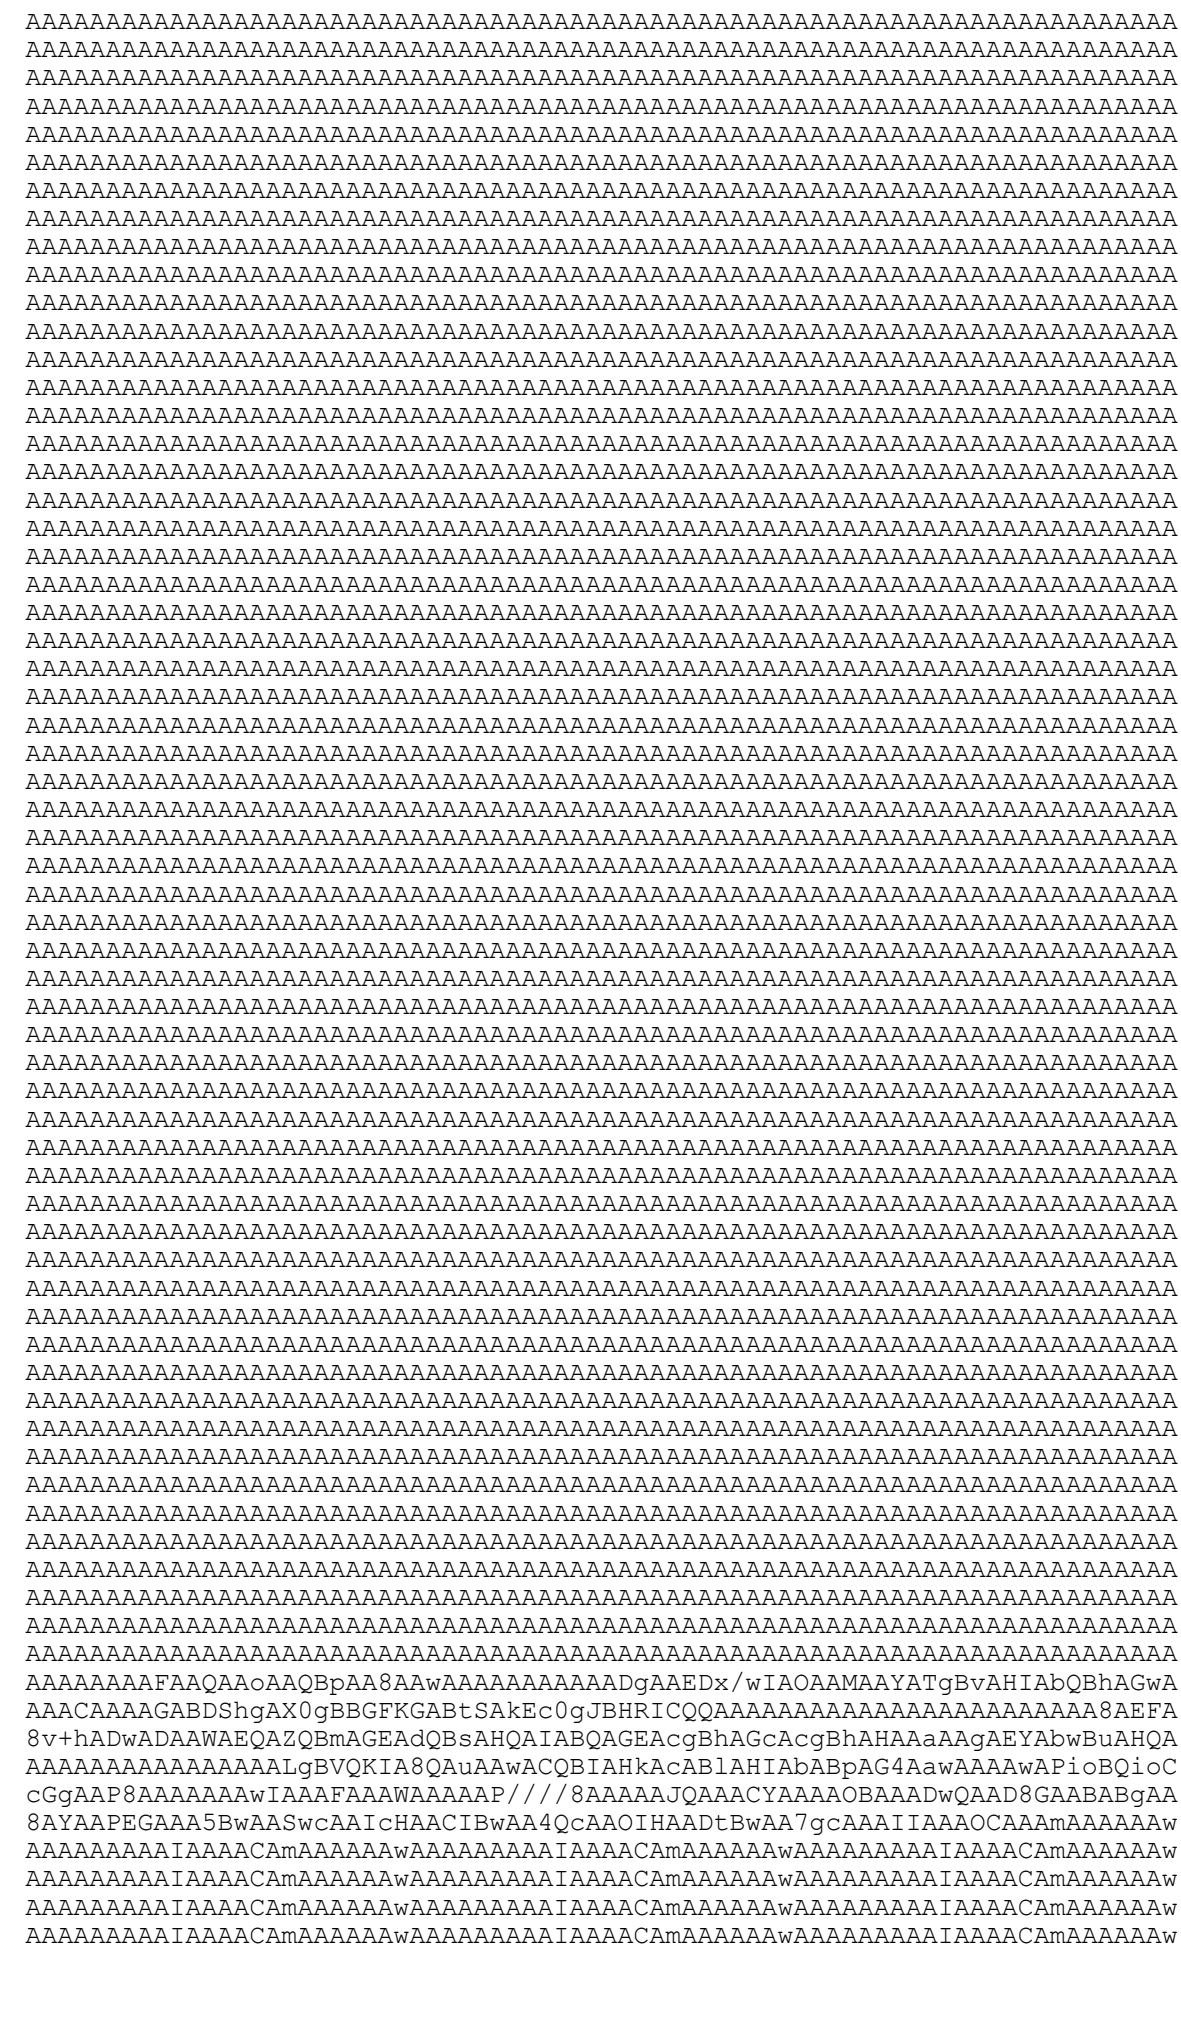
Hers the press release your requested. I also made some revisions on Jims bio, but I seem to have misplaced it in my computer! (Or better yet, erased it!)

Talk to you a bit later!



Blessings,



Tammi

Vietnam 08/05/64 to 05/07/75

Service after 09/07/80 (enlisted) or 10/16/81 (officer)

If you were separated from service which began after these dates, you must have:

(a) Completed 24 months of continuous active duty or the full period (at least 181 days) for which you were ordered or called to active duty and been discharged under conditions other than dishonorable, or

Service after 09/07/80 (enlisted) or 10/16/81 (officer)

If you were separated from service which began after these dates, you must have:

(a) Completed 24 months of continuous active duty or the full period (at least 181 days) for which you were ordered or called to active duty and been discharged under conditions other than dishonorable, or

(b) Completed at least 181 days of active duty and been discharged under the specific authority of 10 USC 1173 (Hardship), or 10 USC 1171 (Early out), or have been determined to have a compensable service-connected disability;

(c) Been discharged with less than 181 days of service for a service-connected disability. Individuals may also be eligible if they were released from active duty due to an involuntary reduction in force, certain medical conditions, or, in some instances for the convenience of the Government.

Gulf War - Service during period 08/02/90 to date yet to be determined

If you served on active duty during the Gulf War, you must have:

(c) been discharged with less than 90 days of service for a service-connected disability. Individuals may also be eligible if they were released from active duty due to an involuntary reduction in force, certain medical conditions, or, in some instances, for the convenience of the Government.

Active Duty Service Personnel

If you are now on regular active duty (not active duty for training), you are eligible after having served 181 days (90 days during the Gulf War) unless discharged or separated from a previous qualifying period of active duty service.

Selected Reserves or National Guard

If you are not otherwise eligible and you have completed a total of 6 years in the Selected Reserves or National Guard (member of an active unit, attended required weekend drills and 2-week active duty for training) and

(a) were discharged with an honorable discharge; or

(b) were placed on the retired list; or

(c) were transferred to the Standby Reserve or an element of the Ready Reserve other than the Selected Reserve after service characterized as honorable service; or

(d) continue to serve in the Selected Reserves.

Individuals who completed less than 6 years may be eligible if discharged for a service-connected disability. Eligibility for Selected Reservists expires 09/30/2009.

You may also be determined eligible if you:

(b) are a spouse of a serviceperson missing in action or a prisoner or war.

Eligibility may also be established for:

(a) certain United States citizens who served in the armed forces of a government allied with the United States in WWII.

Hi All,

Please respond "YES" or "NO" if you would or would not like to receive my new monthly newsletter.

As many of you know, I have had a lot of projects come in this year outside the scope of my real estate activities. Many different opportunities for private investors make up a good portion of these opportunities. I do not warrant that every single one of these opportunities is either suitable for each one of you, nor do I warrant that they will all be profitable or even positive situations. However, I have tried to eliminate most of the junk that comes in, and what is left in my portfolio of opportunities is some very interesting companies and investor opportunities, along with several business opportunities as well that could prove to be very profitable.

Some of these require large amounts of capital, some require small amounts, and some require very little if any at all. There will be items for sale that you can browse. Once a month I will be putting together a sort of "Classifieds" letter that will be available to all. I need your permission to send it to you though. Please feel free to pass it on to your list or anyone you think may have interest, but please ask them before you send it. No SPAM please. Please respond with your name and a "YES" or "NO THANK YOU" so I will know who would like to receive the "Classifieds" letter with all the interesting stuff you might find in the local classifieds section of either the local paper, or the Wall Street Journal (for larger, more sophisticated items), or other publications.

For private placement opportunities, you will be contacting the licensed broker who will send you more info. For other opportunities, I can send you all the details.

For parties and events in Los Angeles, there will be a section on upcoming events.

I will also be starting a drop-in tennis event so that instead of running around trying to find a partner, twice each month (probably on Saturday) we will have a round robin doubles tournament event. 8-12 players each week.

See you on the tennis court, the 19th hole, or stuck in traffic somewhere.....

Mortgage Interest Rates are low, low, low. Refi with cash out or not. Easy, 3-step process.

Hi All,

Please respond "YES" or "NO" if you would or would not like to receive my new monthly newsletter.

As many of you know, I have had a lot of projects come in this year outside the scope of my real estate activities. Many different opportunities for private investors make up a good portion of these opportunities. I do not warrant that every single one of these opportunities is either suitable for each one of you, nor do I warrant that they will all be profitable or even positive situations. However, I have tried to eliminate most of the junk that comes in, and what is left in my portfolio of opportunities is some very interesting companies and investor opportunities, along with several business opportunities as well that could prove to be very profitable.

Some of these require large amounts of capital, some require small amounts, and some require very little if any at all. There will be items for sale that you can browse. Once a month I will be putting together a sort of "Classifieds" letter that will be available to all. I need your permission to send it to you though. Please feel free to pass it on to your list or anyone you think may have interest, but please ask them before you send it. No SPAM please. Please respond with your name and a "YES" or "NO THANK YOU" so I will know who would like to receive the "Classifieds" letter with all the interesting stuff you might find in the local classifieds section of either the local paper, or the Wall Street Journal (for larger, more sophisticated items), or other publications.

For private placement opportunities, you will be contacting the licensed broker who will send you more info. For other opportunities, I can send you all the details.

For parties and events in Los Angeles, there will be a section on upcoming events.

I will also be starting a drop-in tennis event so that instead of running around trying to find a partner, twice each month (probably on Saturday) we will have a round robin doubles tournament event. 8-12 players each week.

See you on the tennis court, the 19th hole, or stuck in traffic somewhere.....

Mortgage Interest Rates are low, low, low. Refi with cash out or not. Easy, 3-step process.

Lives lost in California blazes

Firefighters are struggling to contain the blazes

Fires sweeping across southern California have killed several people and destroyed hundreds of homes.

About 50,000 people have been evacuated as wildfires, blamed on arsonists, rage to the east and north of Los Angeles.

At least 10 people have died in San Diego and two in San Bernardino - the two areas suffering the most serious blazes.

Outgoing Governor Gray Davis has declared a state of emergency as the warm, dry Santa Ana winds fuelling the fires show no sign of letting up.

"We are taking every possible step to support the firefighting effort," he said, adding that he had asked President George W Bush for federal help.

The Californian authorities are now battling six separate fires in the south of the state.

The BBC's Robert Nisbet in San Bernardino county said the flames were travelling up to four kilometres (2.4 miles) an hour and described the scene as "almost apocalyptic".

$6m damage

San Diego Sheriff Bill Kolender said new fires near the southern city of San Diego had claimed eight lives.

Earlier, highway patrol staff in the county said two people were found dead in their car, apparently trying to escape a fire.

Sheriff Kolender warned that the fire - which has so far burned 93,000 acres and destroyed 136 homes in the county - was very dangerous and urged residents not to hesitate to leave if flames come their way.

"This is a very serious situation," he said. "Pay attention to what you hear from law enforcement, pay attention to your television set."

San Bernardino County, about 30 miles (48 kilometres) east of Los Angeles, has also been hit hard - with around 100,000 acres (40,470 hectares) destroyed.

The county's fire department said on Sunday morning the blaze was only 23% contained and had already caused more than $6m in damage.

Entire towns have been evacuated.

Planes grounded

San Bernardino coroner said two people had died - a 70-year-old man while leaving his home and a 93-year-old man while watching his burn.

Hundreds of homes have been destroyed

Dozens of the 2,500 firefighters have suffered second degree burns, minor burns and smoke inhalation.

Air quality has been described as "horrific" and regional authorities have issued advisories urging people to limit or discontinue outdoor activities.

Major interstate highways have been closed and power lines are under threat, prompting state power grid operators to urge people to conserve energy.

Flights out of Los Angeles and San Diego airports are also affected.

Our correspondent says the high winds are expected to continue for another couple of days, making it difficult for firefighters to bring the blazes under control in the near future.

A Guide Legal Videography

A Guide To

Legal Videography

Some of the most common legal video services

Deposition Videotaping

Videotaping depositions is the most common service in legal videography. Consider the case which requires a particular person's test-imony. If that person cannot appear at trail, the next best alternative is a videotaped depo-sition. Voice inflections, mannerisms, and general deportment cannot be conveyed in the reading of a transcript. But such things can be presented through a properly video-taped deposition.

Day In The Life

Actually the phrase "day-in-the-life" is a misnomer. It is not practical to try to record an entire day in the life of an injured plaintiff. The purpose of this type of video is to show how the life of a person has changed as a result of the incident in question. It can also be called a "life change documentary" though the phrase "day in the life" is most popular.

A professional legal videographer is highly recommended when a day-in-the-life is needed. One of the dangers of amateur videography is in white balance problems which might cause a video to be kept out of court. Amateur videotaping is usually much inferior to professional camera work as well. Subjecting a jury to a video which was recorded poorly is likely to cause negative reactions at worst and slackening of attention at best. It's better to videotape a day-in-the-life using a qualified camera operator. A professional should not only have a steady hand technique (when hand-held work is appropriate) but should have a thorough understanding of issues such as composition and continuity of shots.

Settlement Documentary

A settlement documentary video is made to be viewed by opposition attorneys and insurance adjusters rather than a jury, as is the case with a day-in-the-life. This means it is not bound by admissibility issues. A music background can set the mood. Interviews with family, friends, and experts are often used. When this type of documentary is done well, it can have a dramatic impact on negotiations or on a settlement. To have a major impact on one's opposition, however, it requires a true video professional who is skillful not only in technical details, but in communicating through video.

Location Videotaping

Videotaping an accident scene or building site might not seem as challenging as other types of legal video services but there are pitfalls for the amateur videographer. Let's consider an example:

Two attorneys need to videotape a country road by driving by a location. This seems simple enough. One person drives while the other one holds the camcorder. The two of them try it. They check the video and find there is too much motion. It's not only hard to see anything clearly but it almost makes the attorneys car sick to watch it. No problem. They do it over but this time they put the camcorder on a tripod and the passenger holds it down firmly to the floor. Again they check the resulting video. This time the interior of the car is rock solid but the country road is almost a blur of motion. It's worthless. They've spent a good deal of time learning the hard way. Or have they? Do they now know how to do it? Did they forget to turn on the image stability button on the camcorder? What's going on?

If they had consulted an experienced professional videographer they would have saved themselves a lot time and frustration. The proper way to record this video is to have a skilled camera operator do "hand held" videotaping. The arms of a professional can act as a cushion from the bouncing of a car. Camera image stabilization is useful for short, quick motion irregularities, but the kind of long slow movements caused by driving a car over a country road are not caught by it. It's best left to a camera operator who has spent years holding cameras in many kinds of situations.

Animation

This may be the most underused type of legal video service at the beginning of the 21st Century. The cost of quality "3-D" animation is only a fraction of what it was 20 years ago. One of the most common examples of using animation in the courtroom is in supplementing the aural testimony of an expert witness. When there are complex motions needing to be understood by the jury, the three-dimensional visualization can be far better than only aural testimony. Including slow-motion can also be extremely effective and at very little additional cost. Most of the work involved with 3D animation is in constructing the virtual scene and any objects that might need to be constructed from scratch.

Another type of legal video service is videotaping a scene quickly before anything relevant is changed. A professional who can get to a location quickly is more likely to record the scene properly than is an amateur videographer who might make mistakes under the pressure of the moment.

Dear Matthew Earl Jones: Hello, came up with a Logo for Royal Treatment. A Royal Crest similar to Ferrari's swap one of The Horses for a Tiger Change The Flags to be Deep Purple with Gold Letters "Royal Treatment". Then in Photo Shop Software Make like Gold Jewelery with Diamonds and Precious Jewels. The Icon "Royal Treatment" You can wear this around Your neck. Very Impressive and very street Hip.
Enjoy,
Love & Blessings,

The U.S. government will pay over half a million dollars to Linda Tripp, a central figure in the Monica Lewinsky scandal, as part of a settlement of lawsuits that accused U.S. officials of violating her privacy, court documents showed on Monday.

Tripp's secretly taped conversations with Lewinsky fueled the sex scandal that almost brought down former President Bill Clinton. Tripp transferred to a job at the Pentagon from the White House after news of her tape recordings became public.

Tripp sued the Defense Department and the U.S. government for privacy violations, including a charge that officials leaked information that she was interviewing for a job at a lower rank and salary than her old job.

Tripp also accused U.S. officials of leaking information from her security clearance.

Under the settlement, Tripp will be paid a lump sum of $595,000 and she will receive a retroactive increase in her pay grade which will be used to re-calculate her retirement benefits.

In exchange, the lawsuits will be dismissed.

"This is a long awaited first step toward holding the government accountable under the Privacy Act," Tripp said in a statement. "The government should never be permitted to use Privacy Act protected information to discredit a political opponent."

Tripp was fired from her job at the Pentagon in January 2001 after she refused to follow tradition and resign with other political appointees at the end of the Clinton administration.

Dear Joey

Thanks for the information on the $500,000--00 privacy settlement in the US

The basic problem for me in sueing any of the people over here in the UK about the Stealth/MI5 thing is that it was the Authourities themselves over here in the UK who did me in

If I were to complain I would have to complain to the same people who the actual complaint is about

Like they said it is '' Catch 22 ''

At least the latest Stealth Fighter Arms deal went to the USA though

Let us hope more and more Defence Contracts are awarded to the USA at the cost of their UK competitors

Kind Regards
Yours Sincerely

Dear Joey

You should really try and forget about these '' Royal Treatment '' graphics you keep referring to

You must have mixed me up with someone else

Do you think I would be stupid enough to offend the Royals ?

Kind Regards
Yours Sincerely
Mike

Dear Michael: Yes it was the crest Of "The Laird Of Camster" Because I thought US being Loone's it was a Typo and it really was The Laird of Hamster. A small Rodent we keep for Pets in The USA.No One can steal Your Tittle. In fact it can be Willed for Generations. If there caught it's a serious offense. You can still proove Your Identity, That's why I wanted You to get a Passport. When Your a Laird Your entitled To a Scottish Diplomatic Passport. You have no idea how valuable a Diplomatic Passport is worth more than $250K Usd if it Lost or Stolen.
Which of these three places in Scotland do You like?
Nice Idea if they can pull it off. The Laird Retreat.

I have no recollection of this Royal Treatment Crest at all
All I have got on record is the domain name www.dotcomloone.com which I only registered a few days ago while you had disapeared during the fires

If all you want is a copyright free coat of arms or something you might be able to find one with some kind of Heraldry Society

Or you might be able to license one off a top aristocratic family

But as I said before I do not actually know how to create computer graphics

If indeed I did send you a Coat of Arms it was probably copyrighted by someone else

Unless you mean that '' Laird of Camster '' title in Scotland that I bought years and years ago when I had a good job with good money

But I had all the deeds to that stolen when I was in Hospital along with all my exam certificates and my suit

I will see what I can find about the '' Laird of Camster '' coat of arms on the web and send it on

I think the firm was taken over though and everything now costs an extra zero

Become a Scottish Laird of Glencairn, Camster or John O'Groats

Become a Laird in the Scottish Highlands

We are affiliated with a Scottish based company that offers the opportunity to purchase small plots of land located in the Historic Scottish Highland County of Caithness. Our unique offer gives you legal title to one square foot of land at Glencairn, Glenmore, or John O'Groats. Each plot of land gives the owner the legal right to bear the title "Laird". We currently have three titles available:

"Laird of Glencairn", "Laird of Glenmore", and "Laird of John O'Groats"

With each plot purchased the Laird (Owner of Scottish Land) receives a handsome Land Title Deed measuring 18" x 10" together with a map of Caithness, plan of the site, Personal Plot number and access instructions.

Suitably framed, the Land Title Deed (which under Scots law and custom allows the Owner usage of the Title "Laird") makes a most impressive wall display.

It makes a unique gift for anyone interested in Scotland and its history and is sure to find pride of place in their home or office.

The land and Title can be passed from generation to generation and be a constant reminder to the owner that they own a piece of the HISTORIC SCOTTISH HIGHLANDS. The package is available for $77 US Dollars (includes shipping and handling), which includes purchase of the plot of land, certificate of title, map and ID Card.

As an additional benefit, all Lairds have access and usage (for normal recreational purposes) to an area of beautiful land in Argyll to be known as "THE LAIRDS RETREAT".

SOUTH ANGUS SURVIVAL, an British nature protection organization, has acquired an approximately ten acre tract of land in the Scottish Highlands.

It is the intention of the South Angus Survival to acquire more land in this area which is in danger of being changed into a lot of identical pine-forests. Apart from the stupidly monotonous effect of this action, the effect on wild life could be catastrophic.

Don't you find it perplexing that people nowadays want to plant pine-forests that are completely different to nature forests? These are not the various types of tree that exist in a natural forest. These is no natural undergrowth to support animal life and the trees are planted in rows as tight as is economically possible. The pathways for the people is limited to a few meters inside these "tree factories" and often the paths are blocked by machinery or log barricades.

As "Laird of Glencairn". "Laird of Glenmore", or "Laird of John O'Groats" you will help the survival of the "Lairds Retreat". It's a small beginning - but it is a beginning.

This could be the last chance to preserve one of the most beautiful landscapes in Great Britain (perhaps even in the world) for future generation.

The Identity Card made for you personally is all that you need to enter the "Lairds Retreat". Lairds of Glencairn, Glenmore, and John O'Groats will receive access without restriction to this land as thanks for their help in this project.

No Sir
www.chezjoey.com is nothing to do with me at all and none of my responsibility

I was just surfing around the web earlier on today and was plugging names into a search engine to see what happened

I was checking to see if my latest name www.loone.biz showed up and was just trying out other names to sort of pass the time www.chezjoey.com is none of my responsibilty and has nothing to do with nor any interest with me or any of my interests or indeed The Poole Organisation as a whole

I just found www.chezjoey.com by chance while internet surfing and thought I should tell you because I thought as an Intellectual Property Professional that it was trading on your name and reputation principally and amongst other reasons because it specifically targets broadcasting as its purported business activity being the principal area of your profession

Dear Joey

I just got some feedback from the Association of Jewish Ex Servicemen in the UK but it looks like they only cater for WW1 and WW2 people

Never mind
I was only trying to get a pension

Why are you worried about www.loone.biz ?
Do you think it is cybersquatting ?
I only bought it because you used to call me loone

So we are holding fire on the www.chezjoey.com IP rights yes ?

Maybe you could '' merge '' with them

Anyway keep happy
Like you said it is all a bit like a mystery novel where you are not quite sure what will happen next

Same here

Dear Joey

Thank you
I like that
The www.loone.biz domain name was registered before the movie release date and before I even knew about the movie so how can it be cybersquatting ?
Remember we have also got www.dotcomloone.com as well

How about we split the proceeds 50%50% as usual between you and me ?

What is this new Loone movie all about anyway ?

Is it about Loone like me ?

Kind Regards
Yours Sincerely

Dear Michael : The Looney Toone Biz looks Bright Because of The New Movie Coming Out From WB Nov 14th 2003 > Hang tight that Official Loone Club could be The Ticket. I might be able to get a cheap Licensing Deal. We split some of the Profit to WB. We get a Step deal. OK, Love Chez Joey.
PS: If there Not Idiots The Merger maybe interesting.

Dear Joey

I just got some feedback from the Association of Jewish Ex Servicemen in the UK but it looks like they only cater for WW1 and WW2 people

Never mind
I was only trying to get a pension

Why are you worried about www.loone.biz ?
Do you think it is cybersquatting ?
I only bought it because you used to call me loone

So we are holding fire on the www.chezjoey.com IP rights yes ?

Maybe you could '' merge '' with them

Anyway keep happy
Like you said it is all a bit like a mystery novel where you are not quite sure what will happen next

Same here

Kind Regards
Yours Sincerely
Mike

Long live www.loone.biz and www.dotcomloone.com

They are both lodged with a US domain name site called www.godaddy.com

And they are both on recurring billing so in theory they are paid up for quite a long time

Good Luck with doing the deal with Warner Brothers

50%50% agreed between you and me

Long live www.loone.biz and www.dotcomloone.com

They are both lodged with a US domain name site called www.godaddy.com

And they are both on recurring billing so in theory they are paid up for quite a long time

Good Luck with doing the deal with Warner Brothers

But if you need 400 meals per day that could be US$500 a day

It should be worth at least trying www.grantsfirst.com
I know that I am going to

They might even be able to come up with the US$500 a day that you want Personally I am just holding back until I can dream up the right project

I was thinking of restoreing some old buildings
Or maybe building a private toll road motorway
Perhaps building a car factory in an old mining village
You know the sort of thing
Maybe even a toll bridge

Anyway maybe they do USA funding as well
No harm asking
They may allready be in the USA market

Just a thought but if all you want is 400 meals per day have you thought of useing the US$500 grocery coupon booklets ?

In theory I can ship quantaties of US$500 grocery coupon booklets by drop ship anywhere in the US

If you could use $1k a day in grocery coupons that could be arranged

But it would cost about 1% or maybe more if we wanted something for our time effort and risk etc

Anyway I never found out if the original US$500 grocery coupon booklet reached you

Do you think $1k a day in coupons would be enough ?

Anyway if the first coupon book got through to you just let me know

Kind Regards

At Grants First we endeavour to agree a fee structure which meets the needs our yours and our organisations. Examples of methods in which we can work are set out below.

Activity

Options

Examples

Initial Enquires

Free when carried out via email or telephone.

Fund Identification

This is free for clients who will agree to commission us to prepare any applications for funds we identify. Otherwise we charge a rate of £50 per hour for this service.

Bid Writing

“No Win No Fee”:

Exactly as it states, if we do not secure you funding you do not pay us anything. In some instances we may be able to incorporate our fee in the grant award.

We charge between 2-15% of any award depending on the fund and the chances of success.

Fixed Fee

We agree a set fee prior commencing work. This is payable regardless of success, but is generally speaking between 33-50% of the cost of a "no win no fee" arrangement

Day Rate

Our day rates are between £300 - £1200 per day depending on the level of expertise required

Project Management

This will normally be carried out at a day rate basis, depending on the level of expertise require, but we are equally happy to quote a fixed fee for this service.

Business Planning

We offer a project specific business planning service at the fixed rate of £2000. This service is free when it is part of our wider bid writing services.

Partner Search

Free when part of our wider bid writing service, otherwise £250 per introduction.

"All Services"

Retainer

We are willing to negotiate a set monthly fee, or a block purchase of time for organisations whom require a number of our services. These fees will be based upon our days rates less a discount pending the amount of time purchased

Ad-Hoc Activity.

We would normally look to agree a fixed fee or day rate.

Dr Sinda,
Other Grants to look for would be those that would also supply funding for out-patient programs such as; Anger Management classes, DUI classes, Vans for Maclay, any and all Grants that would enhance our existing program or provide us with the funds to create other programs. Again as you find them, let me know what they are and we can narrow the field. Dr Rubish

You should not need to pay these www.grantsfirst.com people anything unless they get you funding

It has a free initial email consultation plus a no win no fee arrangement right up to when they get you funding

You do not need to pay these people anything unless they get you funding

I do not understand why you think they are " not cheap "

What is the catch ?

First...HAPPY THANKSGIVING!!!

Second...Thnak you for being who you are in the world!

I THANK AMERICA AND AMERICANS FOR...

The opportunity to visit and play in=20
the most freedom loving country in the world.

The opportunity to have cross-border friendships.

The opportunity to have extended family in the USA.

The opportunity to do business in love and trust.

The opportunity to serve my friendly Americans by volunteering and helping special causes.

The opportunity to interact with people of integrity, like, Don Jenkins, Stan & Bev Jolley, Robert Bjorklund, Hugh and Elaine =
Smith, Ted Hartley, Dina=20
Merrill, Walter von Huene, Kim Dawson, Michael Eisner, Johannes von =

The opportunity to grieve with my friendly Americans=20 on that saddest of days... 9 / 11.

The opportunity to witness the undeniable strength of the American = Spirit
as I saw Mayor Rudy, President Bush and Governor Pataki stand strong in crisis and say...We're going to be okay!

The opportunity to feel sadness and exhilaration at the same time, as I saw in January of this year, the gaping hole, where the Twin Towers stood...and the people praying around it.

The opportunity, for ALL Americans to work at what they choose,
Worship where they choose, Play with whmo they choose...
The power to choose ....IS...Freedom.

Thank you America... for caring so much!
Thank you America... for taking a stand against terrorism!
Thank you America... for being a big brother to many!

It looks like I have busted my new bollock again so I will be going back to see the Surgeon on December 11th

Nothing to worry about though because I can still untwist it by hand in the meantime

The trouble is I find it very difficult to communicate with him partly because I think he knows I am loone but allso because it was something that should have been fixed 29 years ago which shows the kind of life I have led

Anyway at least I can still untwist it by hand

Still 29 years without any tender loving care was bad

That is until The Four Sisters came along

That's quite a Local Audience. Late Night Internet Radio Show. Time to take the flying Pig to The Next Level. Some British Chap Lost His Sight six Years Ago, He was regestered 100% blind. They told him about a Procedure where he could see again. He went and have a Bionic Eye with Minature color camera and micro computer chip in brain. He can see again. Cost $100,000. I think these are the 2 Chinese Eye Surgeons from Boston Mayo Clinic performed the surgery. AMA won't sanction it. The Man with the Bionic Eye say's there Nuts. Dear Joey

Over here in Europe the idea of " twin " towns took off a = few years ago

So each town in the UK would get a " twin " town in France = or Germany for instance

I think it worked very well for breaking down predjudice

So if your mental health community in Los Angeles could be " = twinned " with the mental health community here in Jersey =
Channel Islands I am sure that only good things will follow

Remember this mental health thing is very very big business to = some people because something like 1% of the entire population = of the USA and/or the UK are in mental hospital at any = moment and they all need food drugs money housing etc

So there are quite a few zeros involved here

Kind Regards
Yours Sincerely

Dear Michael: So, in essence I can keep the Mobilehome and my car which is paid for.
PS: Check Out an Herb: Rosieleandex Rosie It Has Green Pettles and Flowers on top.
I maybe spelling The Leandex part but the rest is correct. I don't know if it has a Popular name but it has Amazing Properties . It is more powerful as a Brain Stimulant than Kava Kava or St. John's Wart. It looks like a Loose Branched Christmas Tree. There are reports and Papers on this Herb. I think this Herb with turemic , Fo Ti Tang,CQ10, Cats Claw,Esther-C and St John's Wart & Kava Kava. I think these are great Brain Vitamins and something in Lobster.Green Tea Capsules Also a Mixture Of Japanese Seaweed in Miso Soup with Soy Cubes. I know that this formula with a balanced Diet, Exercise and Rest will reduce the chances of going Senile, With Alzhiemers or Lou Gerrig's desease. Now this could be a New Brain Formula.
PS: Some of this New Stem technology is The stuff Dreams are made of.

Dear Joey

Over here in Europe the idea of " twin " towns took off a few years ago

So each town in the UK would get a " twin " town in France or Germany for instance

I think it worked very well for breaking down predjudice

So if your mental health community in Los Angeles could be " twinned " with the mental health community here in Jersey Channel Islands I am sure that only good things will follow

Remember this mental health thing is very very big business to some people because something like 1% of the entire population of the USA and/or the UK are in mental hospital at any moment and they all need food drugs money housing etc

So there are quite a few zeros involved here

Your case is more about what the general common sense meaning of the law is

If it says you can live in just about anything the general common sence rule of thunb will apply

You own the actual mobile home and I think that is all that counts

Dear Joey

If you would be happy with $100 a day for the time being you might want to find out about a computer spin off industry called " sports arbitrage "

It involves taking advantage of a difference of opinion among bookmakers

You end up betting on all of the outcomes of an event with different bookmakers

On average you make about 3% per time but it takes hard work

Try a search on a search engine with the keywords " sports arbitrage "

Then spend a few minutes having a read

You can make regular money doing it

But you need to know the basics about betting and have a good head for figures

Kind Regards
Yours Sincerely
Mike Poole

Dear Joey

I do not actually do it myself (or not YET anyway) but I did sign up for a free email course in it on the web a few months ago
Then I thought no more about it
But then last night in the pub I found out a drinking partner of mine was allready doing it and was allready making money

The only downside is that you can only work with small bets in case the bookies find out
So there is an upper limit to what you can earn
But you can earn

It is probably best if you learn from the websites themselves
So I will send you a few websites to have a good read

The main thing to remember is that it is not really gambling in its true sense
You gamble on every possible outcome of an event so you know what you are going to make even before the begining of the sports event

I will send you a few sites and let you read up on it
It is best if you read for yourself on this

Kind Regards
Yours Sincerely

Welcome To Sports-Arbitrage.com

We offer a subscription based Alert Service for Sports Betting Arbitrage opportunties and an optional Rick Alert Service alerting subscribers to bookmakers offering odds way off the market price.

Our subscribers profit from the many lucrative market anomalies caused by bookmakers taking a different view on sports events throughout the world in the same way that arbitrage traders exploit the financial markets. The difference being - with our alert service - they can be sure that they, not the major trading houses, have the best information in the marketplace.

Our integrated database enables us to simultaneously deliver alerts to subscribers via email, web, SMS text messages and fax. Choosing the delivery method(s) to suit you ensures that you need never miss a single alert without being tied to your computer each day.

Subscribers can set filters to exclude arbs based on the following criteria: -

1. On certain days each week
2. During 'Sleep' periods each day
3. Involving bookmakers where they don't hold accounts
4. A 'Holiday' period of time

Sports Betting Arbitrage opportunites and Ricks occur in many sports. This month our subscribers can look forward to profitable opportunities in soccer, tennis, golf, motor racing, athletics, cricket, snooker, boxing, nfl and other US events without the need for any knowledge of any of these sports.

New to Sports Arbitrage? This manual will take you step-by-step from novice to pro. Click here for more details.

Sports Betting Arbitrage Service

Our Sports Betting Arbitrage subscribers are alerted to over 65 Arbitrage opportunities each month with an average risk-free return of 3.42% on each of these investments. An average stake of £300 () () each on just 50% of these Arbitrage opportunities yields a profit of more than £4,000 () () each year.

Sports Betting Arbitrage opportunities are not bets. It isn't gambling on a specific outcome in an event. Arbitrage subscribers win regardless of the outcome of the event. There is little excitement to be had from watching the event unfold - the outcome of the investment is known at the time it is placed.

View joining instructions and rates for our Subscription Service.

Rick Alert Service

You can now monitor live arbs as they occur 24 hours per day using our Arbitrage Monitoring Software. See Software for full details and ordering information.

Free Demo version available

If you prefer a little more interest in the outcome of event you may also be interested in our optional Rick Alert Service.

In the course of constantly scanning well over 100 bookmakers for Sports Betting Arbitrage opportunities we are also able to regularly identify bookmaker prices that are way off the market price. They are plain and simple bookmaker mistakes.

Arbitrage isn't always possible. For example it isn't practical to bet on every outcome in, say, the outright betting of a golf tournament with over 150 competitors or a tennis tournament but if you can bet on a player at, say, 66/1 (67.0) when other bookmakers price him at 25/1 (26.0) and he has a true chance of winning of, say, 4%, then the 66/1 on offer is a true 'value' bet - a rational investment that will reap dividends if repeated over a period of time.

Note. By using betting exchanges to 'lay' the bet or by placing spread bets it is possible to lock-in profits on these Ricks before the start of the event. These techniques are discussed in more detail on the Rick page.

Sports Arbitrage Trading - An Introduction

What is arbitrage?

A trading technique whereby exactly offsetting positions are taken in a market simultaneously but at different prices. The difference in price represents an immediate risk-free profit that is independent of the subsequent movement in price of the instruments traded. This technique has long been used in financial markets, which can be difficult for non-professionals to access.

What is sports-arbitrage?

Numerous arbitrage situations, also referred to as surebets, scalps and risk free bets, are created everyday in sports-betting markets amongst the growing number of worldwide bookmakers in existence. These anomalies show up regularly & repeatedly.

THE PURPOSE OF THIS SITE IS TO HELP YOU MAKE MONEY AS A SPORTS-ARBITRAGE TRADER

An example

A pre-season NFL match between Atlanta & Jacksonville gave us the following market-anomaly between William Hill & Gamebookers:

ATLANTA GAMEBOOKERS 1.85
JACKSONVILLE WILLIAM HILL 2.50

This arbitrage yields a profit of just over 6%, meaning that a correctly structured investment of £1000 would yield £63.22 of risk-free profit regardless of which team won the match

ArbScan - The Best Sports Arbitrage Software Available

Sports Arbitrage Software
ArbScan

Welcome to the profitable world of sports arbitrage.

Arbitrage has been around for hundreds of years in stock and other financial markets. It has created liquidity and has helped balance markets across the world. So what exactly is arbitrage ? Quite simply, it is the buying and selling of a product (or linked products) at the same time in different markets so no matter whether the price rises or falls a profit is made.

When there is a difference in the price of something on two different markets the arbitrageur simultaneously buys at the lower price and sells at the higher price thus locking in a profit no matter what.

When it comes to sports arbitrage most people will be used to what could be called 'book' arbitrage, or opportunities to bet every outcome of an event and still make a profit. For instance, in a football match there are three outcomes, a home win, a draw and an away win. Sometimes different bookmakers quote prices such that you can bet the home win with bookmaker 1, the draw with bookmaker 2, and the away win with bookmaker 3 so no matter what the outcome the 'book' will be less than 100% and you will make a profit.

With the introduction of bet exchanges, where you can both bet and lay (buy and sell), the availability of another type of arbitrage, previously only seen in stock and other financial markets, came about. This is arbitrage in probably its purest form where you Bet one outcome of one event with one exchange and Lay it with another at the same time so no matter what the outcome you will make a fixed profit. For instance if you Bet Wolves to win against Newcastle on exchange 1 at 2.82 and Lay the same outcome on exchange 2 at 2.46 you would make a profit of 5.5% (commissions excepted which ArbScan does take into account) irrespective of whether Wolves won or lost (assuming you Bet and Layed the correct amounts, which incidentaly ArbScan calculates for you).

There are about 30,000 separate event outcomes on Betfair each day. Keeping track of all these constantly moving situations is time consuming and tedious, hence ArbScan. Once you have set up the events that you wish to follow, ArbScan will do all the rest for you. If an arbitrage (arb) becomes available it will alert you with a sound and a pop-up window will show you where the arb is available, how much you need to Bet and Lay and show you exactly how much profit you will make. All you need to do is to make the trades. It really couldn't be simpler.

ArbScan can track any event on any of the main bet-exchanges in real time. So what you see is what you can get.

Unlike the arbs sent to you by subscription email, SMS or even web-based services and that are often out of date, the arbs ArbScan finds for you are available there and then. All you have to do is to make the trades.

There are over ten thousand different events available to trade on each day on the best exchanges and the number of exchanges is growing monthly. The number of arbitrage opportunities available in total is measured in the millions each week. That means that there are plenty of opportunities for everyone to make a profit but those with ArbScan will have a definite advantage.

One other great advantage of arbing on the exchanges is that you are only bound by the limit of the money you have in your account, not the bookmaker's limit.This can be a very important element. We know very well that arbs are available every day trading between different bookmakers but we also know for a fact that often you can get one side on but the other is refused by the bookmaker or you find out too late that they have a low limit on that particular event. With ArbScan, what you see is what you get and the exchange certainly won't limit your trading. Naturally, the quicker you can catch the arb the better - another reason why we recommend 'Slimbrowser' as the internet browser of choice for setting up multiple sites. See our Links page for further details - its completely free and leaves IE and Netscape standing.

Yet another advantage of using your own software such as ArbScan is that some of the most lucrative arbs only last a short while - sometimes minutes and even seconds - so by the time a web or email-based service have got the information to you, the arb may have disappeared. How often has that happened to you ? With ArbScan, the arb is there right in front of you 'real-time'. It may go before you can get the trade on but you certainly won't be minutes or hours behind the market like the other services. ArbScan gives you that leading edge !

You can download a working version of ArbScan right now (well as soon as its available - sometime in November 2003) and use it FREE for three days to see how it can transform your trading. After the week's trial you can subscribe for a month or up to a year from just £40 per month - the sort of money you can make from just a couple of trades.

You don't have to be an arbitrageur to enjoy ArbScan

ArbScan can be of great value even if you just want to track the prices on the main exchanges. In our Quote Window you'll be able to track the prices side by side on each of the exchanges and see who is offering the best value without having any browser open. This is a great facility to maximise your profits even if you never want to get involved in arbitrage.

If you sold them at Chrisites or Sothebies you might be lucky to get US$500--00 for all four

BOX OFFICE MOJO
BREAKING NEWS

HOLLYWOOD (Box Office Mojo) - As the journey ends, the record-breaking box office run begins.

The Lord of the Rings: The Return of the King raked in an estimated $34.1 million domestically on 7,205 screens at 3,703 theaters on its opening day, according to distributor New Line Cinema.

In the process, the finale of the Tolkien trilogy took home the all time Wednesday record that Star Wars: Episode I - The Phantom Menace had held since May 19, 1999, even when ticket price inflation is taken into account. The Phantom Menace attracted $28.5 million on 5,500 screens at 2,970 theaters on its first day, which would adjust to around $33.9 million today. Though Return had the advantage in theaters, that was countered by a disadvantage in showtimes thanks to its 200 minute running time compared to Phantom Menace's 133 minutes.

Among all opening days, Return of the King's $34.1 million ranks third behind Spider-Man's $39.4 million and The Matrix Reloaded's $37.5 million, but ahead of the first Harry Potter's $32.3 million.

The Two Towers rang up $26.2 million on 6,633 screens at 3,622 theaters for its Wednesday debut and The Fellowship of the Ring garnered $18.2 million on 5,700 screens at 3,359 theaters.

The special midnight launch at 2,100 theaters accounted for around $8 million of Return of the King's Wednesday haul. That was double the $4 million that The Two Towers and The Fellowship of the Ring each reaped from their midnight showings.

Return of the King is well poised to power past Two Towers's December opening weekend record of $62.0 million, just as Two Towers had eclipsed previous December champ Fellowship's $47.2 million.

Fellowship's opening day represented 24.2% of the $75.1 million it made in its first five days, while Two Towers' was 25.7% of its $102.0 million five-day start. Should Return follow a similar pattern, it's in store for a $74 million opening weekend and a $125 million total by Sunday.

Ultimately, Two Towers became the first sequel to an uber-blockbuster ($250 million plus) to out-gross its predecessor, $339.8 million to $313.4 million. Return of the King could become the second.

Raising the one-day worldwide tally to $57.6 million, Return of the King pulled in $23.5 million overseas from 19 countries, notching opening day records in 13 of them, including the United Kingdom, Germany, Spain and Scandinavia, New Line noted. The U.K. accounted for $5.2 million of that sum, Germany contributed $5 million and France $3 million. The Two Towers posted $15.58 million from 14 territories in its overseas debut, and Fellowship $11.3 million.

By the end of their overseas runs, Two Towers had amassed $580.7 million and Fellowship $552.9 million. All told, the two movies grossed nearly $1.8 billion in theaters worldwide. With the advent of Return of the King, New Line hopes to add another $1 billion to the franchise's coffers.

NOTE: Actual numbers for Return of the King's Wednesday and Thursday grosses will be posted here on Friday. It's a lot of money to count so we have to give New Line some time.

Wildfire Victim Assistance

1-877- LA-CARES

As our families struggle to cope with the devastating wildfires, the last thing we need to worry about is who to call in a time of crisis. If you or a loved one is a victim of the wildfires, please call 1-877-LA-CARES.

My staff of victim assistance experts can help Southern California residents navigate disaster-relief services, emergency shelters, insurance agencies, health care providers and crisis counseling.

If you are the victim of an arson-related wildfire, we can also help determine whether you are entitled to compensation for medical costs, wage losses and funeral expenses.

Again, if you or a loved one is a victim of the wildfires, please call 1-877-LA-CARES (1-877-522-2737).

Together, we'll make it through this crisis.

Dear Joey

It is the weekend now
I have not been at the computer since Wednesday
I just gave everyone some grocery coupons
It seemed easiest without rows/arguements etc

So you are now a Christmas Day Chapter 13 with a case

Have you thought of actually selling a share in your Film Studio for say $25,000 ?

You would not have to sell the whole thing but just a percentage

Kind Regards
Mike

Dear Michael: You can put some AD's UP. I still not sure what the 4 Sisters are worth Maybe $3,800 Usd . As far as Sinda Entertainment Group, Iam Open. If I have a Distribution Letter From A Major Studio, a Min-Major Or a credible Distributor. I think I can get funding through a Major Bank. Or Primary Bank Gaurantees they are convertible to cash. I can rap a Bond and insurance around them.Just finished a 2 1/2 Hour Bankrupcty Meeting Were good to Go with The Courts first thing Monday Morning Jan 5Th 2004. Please don't eat Red Meat Beef, Beans, Nuts, Coffee or Smoking Cigerettes or nothing stronger than a Beer. It messes up Your Antibiotic Medicine and could make You very sick.Get Plenty of Rest. Warm Baths with EpsinSalt and Bubble Bath, Candles and Good Music. Marvelous.Go see "BIG FISH" By Tim Burton & "Return of The King" Lord of The Rings and "Seabiscuit". Brilliant Films.

PS: Did You have new Surgery.Hope it all went well. Thanks for All Your Love, Help and Cooperation Your a True Friend and Confidant.

Do Your Homework, Presentation and Image go hand and hand..Whatever You send has to be Clear Ledgible, concise so your audience can read in 30 to 60 seconds. Distribution, How often are You going to send this out.Simple ASCII-text within the body of the e-mail is perhaps your best choice. Put Images so they don't overload an eMail box. Remember content is King.Think of information that your target market would be hungry for.Even a Petting Zoo has a charge.We have to feed , care and shelter these animals. So help US and adopt an animal. There are Lot's of People for one reason or another can't keep a Pet. It's so simple they can adopt. Try New Things Q & A and New Products, What do You think the consumer. You can sell Classified Advertising and even Syndicate the Newsletter.Think in terms of "Value Proposition" for the client.Check out Google.com for newsgroups that you can post your

Dear Michael: Great subject for a newsletter "Welcome to MARS". Gotta get The Flying Pig going again. I think there are Not enough Specialty Financial News with any kind of Humor. Bankers in General are Not invited On Any A List Christmas Party's. Next To Actuaries who are so important in the Pension and Insurance Business. Even Mortician's are usually more fun at Party's. Bingo the Dilema of the Banker. I sent You Great eMail with loads of new Websites and resources to Help US during this lull period before Jan 15th. Then it's back to work in Europe and USA. Take lot's of Water with Your Antibiotics and No Liquor.

Dear Rob Lemkin & Michael A. Poole: Hello, Well, I do have an inside track with The Two Major Award Shows Coming UP. The Golden Globes & The Academy Awards and the After Parties which usually some deals get started at. Other than that it's an Election Year Here and It Will Be Dean against George W. Bush. Dean doesn't stand a chance. The Democratic Party is floundering. They do Not have the Right person even if Hillary Clinton was to Run as His VP.Iam the original DocHollywood and can be a Corispondant for You. How's funding for Feature Films. If I can get Minimum Guarantees from Studios Banks will give loan,for Theatrical Film or TV Movie.
PS: Iam sorry to hear of Your Mother's Passing. My sympathy & Best Wishes to Your Family.Thanks Michael for bringing US together.
Many Blessings,

Dear Michael: Hello, this is Good. We need to get a Copy of The Flying Pig Off Again for the New Year. It could make Great Filler for TV Spots. A commentator With a Flying Pig that wears sun Glasses and Who onks and passes gas occasionally, snorkels for laughs.If You remember Kookla Fran and Ollie, when You were a Kid, big in the States. Puppets with a Message and an an Actress who gave Straight Lines to The Puppets.

                  Webcast Overview
                  As the variety and complexity of RF applications continues to grow, the frequency spectrum in which these devices operate is becoming more crowded requiring the use of sophisticated techniques such as digital modulation and time domain multiplexing. In order to meet the aggressive targets for performance, cost, and time to market that are commonplace in today's economic climate, engineers who design, manufacture, and deploy new RF systems need the ability to fully and efficiently understand the complex behavior of the dynamic, time-varying RF signals that their devices transmit and receive.
                  <P>
This webcast will provide an introduction to the concepts of Real-Time Spectrum Analysis with an overview of the measurements that can be made using this exciting new technology. We will also look at powerful new tools to address these emerging measurement challenges that span the frequency, time, and modulation domains including ways to trigger on and seamlessly capture dynamic RF signals allowing engineers to characterize transient and time-varying events that are difficult or impossible to see with a traditional swept spectrum

  When there is nothing left but God, that is when you find out that God is all you need. Take 60 seconds and give this a shot! All you dois simply say the following small prayer for the person who sent you this.

  Father, God bless all my friends in whatever it is that You know they may be needing this day! And may their life be full of your peace, prosperity and power as he/she seeks to have a closer relationship with you.

Amen.

Then send it on to five other people, including the one who sent it to you. Within hours five people have prayed for you, and you caused a multitude of people to pray for other people. Then sit back and watch the power of God work in your life.

P. S. Five is good, but more is better.

I had a look at that AV industry newsletter you sent but it just looks like yet another newsletter to me

No, we would not be able to scan them.
Our website is only a directory of OTHER website's, so that content-inclusion is NOT something we could do.

Also... the Geneva Bible was only printed from 1560 until 1644 , so your cannot be from 1700 AD as you say.

A friend of mine is looking after a Geneva Bible dating from about 1700

He is also looking after three La Sainte Bibles dating from the same period

Would you like to scan them on your website please ?

And whether you would or not please can you help us find out their appoximate financial value ?

All we know is that they are all about 300 years old

I found them in a second hand bookshop and they are at present in Los Angeles

I am copying this message to the Bibles Curator along with a reference to your website of www.bibles.net

I have a mental illness

Thank You

PRESENTED BY OFFSHORE PRESS CLUB

A dynamic Symposium catering to members of the Film Industry and joining them with professionals from the Offshore Finance Industry is set for January 23, 24, & 25, 2004 at the beautiful Ritz Carlton Hotel on Lake Las Vegas in Las Vegas, Nevada.

Speakers from the offshore finance industry, including offshore and international bankers, lawyers, accountants, corporate and trust administrators, institutional investors, insurance executives, and fund managers, will gather with offshore and foreign film commission and government representatives, tourist board relations directors, studio and production heads, economic development officers, and others.

Offshore industry participants: You will have an insider's chance to meet film industry decision-makers who seek your expertise for their film projects, whether in film funding, creative financing strategies, location, or offshore tax reduction strategies in your field and/or venue. Your unique knowledge and contacts have drawn these key individuals to this symposium and the chance to meet with you personally.

These venues offer enticing tax and financial incentives and beautiful and friendly places to do business. Many are tax havens, too, with sophisticated professionals in legal, accounting, finance, banking, insurance, trust, corporate management, estate planning, and other fields who can introduce film producers and executives to the merits of their individual countries.

Typically, many are free from corporate income tax, dividend tax, or taxes on profit disbursement or sales. Further, the offshore climate offers strict confidentiality in banking and financial transactions, re-invoicing and accumulation of funds, the easy transfer of shares of stock, and licensing, ownership, and transfer of intellectual property. You may accumulate royalties, dividends, and interest, initiate agreements offshore and reduce liability through multiple offshore structures. Regardless of headline news in recent years concerning tax havens and offshore business, there are still significant and legal benefits for film financing and reduction of production costs and taxes to warrant a close look at the benefits and professional services available offshore and in other foreign venues as well.

The shrewd film producer and executive will enjoy this exploration of dozens of fascinating locales, each offering scores of very real tax and financing incentives, and unique, exotic strategies, cultures and geographical settings.

Offshore Film Finance Symposium is a forum for film people and financial professionals…a compelling opportunity to exchange ideas and discover new ways to conduct business between these two exciting fields.

Free to all attendees: A bound copy of Hoyt Barber's OFFSHORE FILM FINANCE REPORT TM 2004. This useful publication will include editorials, advertisements and listings of all offshore financial speakers and non-speaker guests who wish to be included. The report will allow you to review the offshore and foreign professionals from the symposium, learn more about the various venues and keep contact information handy in the future.

PRESENTED BY OFFSHORE PRESS CLUB

A dynamic Symposium catering to members of the Film Industry and joining them with professionals from the Offshore Finance Industry is set for January 23, 24, & 25, 2004 at the beautiful Ritz Carlton Hotel on Lake Las Vegas in Las Vegas, Nevada.

Speakers from the offshore finance industry, including offshore and international bankers, lawyers, accountants, corporate and trust administrators, institutional investors, insurance executives, and fund managers, will gather with offshore and foreign film commission and government representatives, tourist board relations directors, studio and production heads, economic development officers, and others.

Guest attendees will include Hollywood and international film producers, directors, executives, financiers, entertainment lawyers and accountants, and members of the offshore finance industry.

Offshore industry participants: You will have an insider's chance to meet film industry decision-makers who seek your expertise for their film projects, whether in film funding, creative financing strategies, location, or offshore tax reduction strategies in your field and/or venue. Your unique knowledge and contacts have drawn these key individuals to this symposium and the chance to meet with you personally.

Film industry participants: You can discover the fascinating emerging opportunities in offshore film finance and production in exotic offshore venues which aggressively seek your business through highly desirable film legislation, friendly film commissions, tax incentive programs, and unexpected sources of film funding. These sparkling locales offer new film production tax benefits, creative film financing methods, the construction of new studio and production facilities, together with the inherent advantage of doing business offshore.

These venues offer enticing tax and financial incentives and beautiful and friendly places to do business. Many are tax havens, too, with sophisticated professionals in legal, accounting, finance, banking, insurance, trust, corporate management, estate planning, and other fields who can introduce film producers and executives to the merits of their individual countries.

Typically, many are free from corporate income tax, dividend tax, or taxes on profit disbursement or sales. Further, the offshore climate offers strict confidentiality in banking and financial transactions, re-invoicing and accumulation of funds, the easy transfer of shares of stock, and licensing, ownership, and transfer of intellectual property. You may accumulate royalties, dividends, and interest, initiate agreements offshore and reduce liability through multiple offshore structures. Regardless of headline news in recent years concerning tax havens and offshore business, there are still significant and legal benefits for film financing and reduction of production costs and taxes to warrant a close look at the benefits and professional services available offshore and in other foreign venues as well.

The shrewd film producer and executive will enjoy this exploration of dozens of fascinating locales, each offering scores of very real tax and financing incentives, and unique, exotic strategies, cultures and geographical settings.

Offshore Film Finance Symposium is a forum for film people and financial professionals.a compelling opportunity to exchange ideas and discover new ways to conduct business between these two exciting fields.

Free to all attendees: A bound copy of Hoyt Barber's OFFSHORE FILM FINANCE REPORT TM 2004. This useful publication will include editorials, advertisements and listings of all offshore financial speakers and non-speaker guests who wish to be included. The report will allow you to review the offshore and foreign professionals from the symposium, learn more about the various venues and keep contact information handy in the future.

Also produced by Malkovich and His Partner.There were 17 different Locations throughout europe everyone kicked in Money and they made the film. They traveled by Train. Who ever coordinated it was a genius. Yes This Off shore thing is coming off age. If You can get the Flights and Room & Board Minimal, You can make Money like " 28 Days After" Shot in London very early Morning. The Film did well Financially.If caught defacing Your Mail it's a Federal Fine and jail time.Look to the New Studio in the country of "Hungry" there film commission goes into EU Film Assocition this Year. They have Deals. Love Chez Joey

That roughly tallies with what I read in the library The Journal there kept going on about how it was the first Hollywood Offshore Finance Conference and all that

The reason I sent it to you was I was thinking that if what they said was true which we now know it is then if this Hollywood Offshore Film Financing is really the " new thing " then you and me could be in the right places at the right times

So it looks like Hollywood Offshore Film Financing could save the day with you being in Hollywood and me being Offshore

Good news about getting those letters all off to the creditors and people

At least they will not be able to threaten you and harass you any more

I got a letter today from the American Bar Association which had been defaced by someone with a big black mark on the envelope front and back

It is not the first time either

Quite a lot of my USA legal correspondence arrives with black marks all over it

It is a bit creepy really like something out of " the bodyguard " film because the only realistic people who can interfere with my mail are people working in the Post Office Security Department

You mean the " Chez Joey " seal of approval ?

Look I was thinking about dollars.com and I do not think they will want to buy

Firstly they could just say dollars.love was an intellectual property violation

And secondly if you have more than one domain name pointig at any given site you can get blacklisted for spamming by some of the search engines

Theresa's Prayer

(cannot be deleted)

REMEMBER to make a wish before you read the poem. That's all you have to do. There is nothing attached. This is a powerful novena. Just send this to four people and let me know what happens on the fourth day.

Do not break this, please. Prayer is one of the best free gifts we receive. There is no cost but a lot of reward.

(Did you make a wish?) If you don't make a wish, it won't come true.

Last Chance to Make a Wish.

May today there be peace within.
May you trust your highest power that you are exactly where you are meant to be....
May you not forget the infinite possibilities that are born of faith.
May you use those gifts that you have received, and pass on the love that has been given to you....
May you be content knowing you are a child of God....
Let this presence settle into our bones, and allow your soul the freedom to sing, dance, praise and love. It is there for each and every one of you....

Send This to 7 People within the next 5 minutes and your wish will come true.

Please send this back...you'll see why.

VERY URGENT AND CONFIDENTIAL BUSINESS TRANSACTION:

FROM: MR CHARLES WILLIAM.
PRIVATE LINE: 234-8033195564

Dear Joseph,
Good-day!

I can’t imagine how you will feel receiving a sudden business letter from a remote country in far away West Africa and probably from some one you have not closely related with. But all the same, I believe we do not need to be of blood relatives before we can establish cordial/business relationship. Having said this, I think it is very important at this juncture to introduce myself to you and also disclose to you, how I came in contact with your email address/profile. My name is Mr. Charles Michael William. I am the district(Foreign operations) manager of African Development Bank Group, Nigerian branch. I got your email address from the Internet. It is my pleasure to solicit your assistance in this business proposal. I am contacting you because I do not want to transact the business with anybody who is known to any staff of this bank or anybody around here to avoid any possible blackmail or leakage at the end of the transaction.

THE PROPOSAL:
There is an account in this bank, African Development Bank Group, which was opened in 1982 by one Mr. Carison Hogarth, an Australian National, who worked in a Scottish owned Petro-Chemical Company (Petro technical support services Nigeria Ltd) and since 1990 nobody has operated on this account. I had a very careful study of the account files through which I carried an extensive investigation about the holder of the said account and found out that Mr. Hogarth suddenly died in a plane crash in 1990 thereby abandoning the account, having been fictitious regards the information he submitted to this bank at the time of establishment of the account. The account at this moment has no inheritance since the name Mr. Hogarth filled, as his relations has no contact information in the form he submitted to the bank. I have secretly removed all the relevant files to the account from the dormant section so that bank auditors will not verify the abandoned money and refer it to Federal Treasury via CBN. Credit balance of the said account is US$45.25m.

My Dear Friend, the deal here is that the money in this account will be approved and remitted to any foreigner who shows up as relation to Mr. Hogarth provided such person has correct information to the account. I have such needed information and will hand it over to you as soon as we commence the transaction. I will source all necessary documents and forward them to you for direct submission to the bank. With my position as the foreign operations manager we will quietly remove this money from the bank without hitches. I don’t have any problem in regularizing all necessary documents and transferring the credit balance of the said account to your nominated bank account in overseas, but the problem is trust. I have spent months in trying to get an overseas reliable contact. It is worthy to note that people are unreliable these days and even derive joy in telling lies. On this ground I request your unreserved but sincere cooperation devoid of greed in carrying out this transaction so that no one amongst both of us shall defraud each other at the end. I am prepared to split at 60%---40% for you, provided that mine (60%) will be intact at the end. Please get back to me via email as a matter of urgency or call me on my private telephone line.

Awaits for your expected co-operation.

Best regards and Godbless you,
Charles William.

Dear Harris From Paris

Dr Joseph P Sinda and I have accidentally written a book that we are thinking of trying to publish

Over the last 5 years we have been exchanging emails every day

In 1999 I had a very severe nervous breakdown and posted some bibles off to him even though at the time he was a complete stranger

Without questioning and following the example of the Good Samaritan he gradually brought me back from the edge of the abyss

Our joint book is the story of one man laying down his business and career to save another man's life

I have catalogued most of the emails that we have exchanged every day for 5 years

They reside on 3 computers and about 6 hard disks one with a virus

But this is where my technical abilites fail me

We need help with the technical aspects and wondered if you could help us please ?

It is the story on one man sacrificing everything to save another and in the process both of us have shared in the joy of creating our best seller to be

I am copying this email to Dr Sinda

RE: 2004 Business Outlook

=20

This morning, we announced our 2003 financial results and our current outlook for 2004. I want to give you my thoughts on how we did in 2003 and why, with a good deal of hard work, I'm confident that we can achieve our challenging targets for 2004. =20

=20

=20

First of all, I'm pleased to report that we achieved all of our full-year financial objectives for 2003.=20

=20

We had revenues of $39.6 billion, a 6% increase over 2002. Even more significantly, we had adjusted Operating Income before Depreciation & Amortization (otherwise known as OIBDA, the metric we use to track profitability) of $8.8 billion, which was a 7% increase over the prior year. =20

=20

Free cash flow - which is the amount of cash generated by our business after paying expenses and making capital investments - totaled a very strong $3.3 billion, which was more than any of our peers or competitors. This free cash flow was very important in helping us reduce our company's net debt last year.

=20

For the fourth quarter, revenues grew a solid 6%, with impressive growth in the high teens at our Filmed Entertainment segment. Our adjusted OIBDA was down 2%, which we expected, as we took a number of one-time charges and made investments in the company's future growth. (For more details, please read our Earnings release on http://www.timewarner.com <http://www.timewarner.com/>).

=20

2004 Financial Outlook=20

=20

All in all, the company turned in a solid performance in 2003. With this foundation, we are well positioned to deliver even better financial results in 2004.

=20

For this year, we expect to achieve even greater profitability than in 2003, with the company's overall adjusted OIBDA expected to grow from the high-single to low-double digits on a percentage basis.=20

=20

In fact, we expect every Time Warner reporting segment to post higher earnings growth in 2004 than it did in 2003, except for Filmed Entertainment. Even though we're expecting strong growth at Warner Bros. this year, it would frankly be impossible for New Line to match the amazing year that it had in 2003, with the remarkable success of Lord of the Rings, Elf, and a string of other successful movies. =20

=20

At America Online, we expect to see earnings start to grow again. AOL has consistently been profitable, but last year, its adjusted OIBDA declined. In 2004, we expect AOL to deliver low double-digit adjusted OIBDA growth. (For more details, please read our Business Outlook release on http://www.timewarner.com <http://www.timewarner.com/>).

Our Strategy

=20

As we work towards our financial targets in the coming year, we will continue to pursue our core strategy (with which we've guided the company since last year): Operating our businesses better than ever; encouraging collaboration and innovation; investing to provide consistent, long-term growth; and supporting the people of this company.

=20

There are a number of specific areas on which we'll stay focused to help us keep making progress.

=20

First, we expect America Online to build on the early momentum behind its newest offerings: AOL for Broadband, its premium services and the new, low-cost Netscape ISP, which will be among the division's important drivers of growth.

=20

Second, Time Warner Cable will aggressively drive the growth of its new services - such as high-speed data (Road Runner), video on demand, digital video recorders and Voice over IP (a telephone service carried over cable lines).

=20

Third, we want our advertising-driven businesses - from our TV networks to our magazines - to maintain, or even expand, their audiences to help ensure that we get at least our fair share of the advertising dollars.

=20

Fourth, we are committed to keeping our balance sheet strong and enhancing our strategic capacity.

=20

Fifth, we once again aim to deliver strong free cash flow, while continuing to make prudent investments in our businesses to extend their growth and the competitive advantages they enjoy. And we'll be both patient and disciplined in evaluating outside growth opportunities that would fit well with our current businesses.

=20

Finally, we'll continue and extend our new employee programs that are designed to build your skills and make Time Warner an even better place to work.

=20

Taken altogether, there's no question that we have an ambitious program for 2004. As I've said, it will take a good deal of hard work to achieve another year of success, but I'm confident that we can accomplish these goals.

=20

Our Commitment

=20

Just this week, we had two reminders, one joyful and one tragic, of the commitment of our people to excellence and to the public they serve.

=20

On the joyful note, Time Warner won an impressive 14 Golden Globes - the most of any company - led by New Line's The Lord of the Rings: The Return of the King, HBO's Angels in America and Warner Bros.' Mystic River. In addition, our studios and HBO combined for a total of 28 Oscar nominations. The Lord of the Rings earned the most of any film with 11, including Best Picture and Best Director, and Warner Bros.' Mystic River earned six, including Best Picture, Best Director, Best Actor, Best Supporting Actress and Best Supporting Actor.=20

=20

On the tragic side, however, the deaths of two of our CNN employees with injuries to a third in Iraq yesterday, as well as last year's attack that left two Time correspondents wounded, underscore just how much bravery it sometimes takes to do the best journalism in the world. We're honored to call them our colleagues and our prayers are with their families.

=20

I want to extend my gratitude for all of your efforts and dedication to your company.

=20

As always,=20

=20

Dick Parsons

=20

P.S.: I appreciate everybody who has sent e-mails to my personal mailbox Richard.D.Parsons@timewarner.com <mailto:Richard.D.Parsons@timewarner.com> , and we're doing our best to answer them in a timely manner. Thanks again for sending the e-mails. It's been very helpful to hear what is on your minds.

Over the last week several different people have started throwing themselves off multi story car parks

We usually get one or two cases every now and again but I cannot remember it being this bad for a few years since some other people burgled a chemist and there was a chain reaction of overdoses

Only 80,000 people live here aswell so it has had quite a local impact

When there is nothing left but God, that is when you find out that God is all you need. Take 60 seconds and give this a shot! All you do is simply say the following small prayer for the person who sent you this:

Father, God bless _____ in whatever it is that You know he/she may be needing this day! And may _____'s life be full of your peace, prosperity and power as he/she seeks to have a closer relationship with

Amen.

Then send it on to five other people.. Within hours five people have prayed for you, and you caused a multitude of people to pray for other people. Then sit back and watch the power of God work in your life.

P. S. Five is good, but more is better.

National Doodle Day in the UK
Monday, February 9 2004

Neurofibromatosis Association UK has teamed up with the Epilepsy Action Association and the national pharmacy chain, Lloydspharmacy to launch a brand new fundraising event – February 27, 2004 is National Doodle Day!

Doodle Day is set to be the next big fundraising event and one that we hope will rival the likes of Red Nose Day and even Children in Need. The event has already been supported by nearly 300 celebrities from the worlds of TV, radio, theatre, sport and the arts and we are delighted to announce that the Doodle Day patron for 2004 is Terry Wogan.

The names already supporting Doodle Day include Sir Elton John. See www.eltonfan.net for his doodle and more information about this event.

Take care,
Stephan

We notice that you have registered with GrantsNet's Grant Alert.

We think that you might be interested in the press release below.

Press Release=20
GrantsNet (http://www.grantsnet.co.uk), the online information source = for grant support schemes, has announced the introduction of a new = service to give quicker and more direct access to grant schemes = available in the UK.
=20 GrantsNet's Affiliate Links service now gives organisations the = opportunity to offer their users direct access to grants information = from the GrantsNet databases. Organisations can request a search box = from GrantsNet that they can embed into their own websites.

The service is offered to organisations that provide information to UK = businesses and charities. =20

It is expected that educational organisations, development agencies and = local authorities will particularly benefit from this service:

Darren Moore, technical director said

"Organisations like local councils and development agencies perform a = broad range of services, and so their websites offer a wide range of = information to reflect the diversity of their users.

These websites are often the first places people look to for information = when developing a business idea or a charitable project. A facility = that quickly lists grant support schemes in that region would greatly = enhance the effectiveness of a council's economic development or = community development pages.

One bonus is that agencies and councils can use the Submit function. =
This ensures that their grants will be easily located by grant seekers."

GrantsNet can also customise the search box so that it fits neatly onto = your own website

Suitable organisations are encouraged to visit www.grantsnet.co.uk for = more information.

Notes to Webmasters
To include the GrantsNet search box on your site go to the Affiliate = Links section on the Resources page = http://www.grantsnet.co.uk/resources/ and fill out the form. GrantsNet = will then send you the HTML code which you can copy and paste into your = web page(s). We can also design you a custom search box so it fits in = better with your site design.=20

Notes to Editors
GrantsNet offers easy access to information about the many grant schemes = available to businesses and charities in the UK.=20

Their exceptionally user-friendly search facility allows organisations = to easily search for grant schemes by geographic area, by project type = or by keyword.

GrantsNet does not screen visitors, there is no membership required to = access information.

press release below.

<H2><B>Press Release </B></H2>GrantsNet (<A=20 href=3D"http://www.grantsnet.co.uk">http://www.grantsnet.co.uk</A>), the = online=20 information source for grant support schemes, has announced the = introduction of=20

a new service to give quicker and more direct access to grant schemes = available=20
in the UK.

GrantsNet's <B>Affiliate Links</B> service now = gives=20 organisations the opportunity to offer their users direct access to = grants=20 information from the GrantsNet databases. Organisations can = request a=20
<B>search box</B> from GrantsNet that they can embed into their own=20 websites.

The service is offered to organisations that provide=20 information to UK businesses and charities.

It is expected = that=20
educational organisations, development agencies and local authorities = will=20 particularly benefit from this service:

Darren Moore, technical = director=20
said

"<I>Organisations like local councils and development = agencies=20 perform a broad range of services, and so their websites offer a wide = range of=20
information to reflect the diversity of their users.

These = websites are=20 often the first places people look to for information when developing a = business=20 idea or a charitable project. A facility that quickly lists grant = support=20 schemes in that region would greatly enhance the effectiveness of a = council's=20
economic development or community development pages.

One bonus is =
that=20
agencies and councils can use the <B>Submit</B> function. =
This=20
ensures that their grants will be easily located by grant=20 seekers."

</I>GrantsNet can also customise the search box so that = it fits=20
neatly onto your own website

Suitable organisations are = encouraged to=20 visit <A href=3D"http://www.grantsnet.co.uk/">www.grantsnet.co.uk</A> = for more=20 information.

<H1><B>Notes to Webmasters</B></H1>To include the GrantsNet search box =

</B>page <A=20 and fill out the form. GrantsNet will then send you the HTML code = which=20

you can copy and paste into your web page(s). We can also design = you a=20

GrantsNet does not screen visitors, there is no =

==========
Tektronix - Wireless Design
==========
January/February 2004
Issue No. 08

Dear Joseph Sinda,

You work in a pressured design environment - effective use of time and money are key drivers for your decisions. As wireless technologies continue their rapid evolution, the nature of the problems you're working with are evolving too…but how do you keep up?

In Wireless Design Newsletter, Tektronix provides you with the means to keep yourself abreast of new and existing solutions to your wireless challenges and additionally provides opportunities to access free technology papers and educational events.

IN THIS ISSUE:

#1. Ensure Conformance with 3GPP RF Tx Specifications

#2. Recharge Your Aging and Obsolete ATE Applications

#3. NEW: Announcing New Tektronix Real-Time Spectrum Analyzer

#4. FREE Application Guide to Help Optimize 2.5G/3G Designs and Reduce Development Cycles

#5. NEW: Announcing addition of Vector Signal Generator to the Tektronix Wireless Portfolio

#6. NEW: 2004 Tektronix Catalog

#1: Ensure Conformance with 3GPP RF Tx Specifications

Analyzing user equipment (UE) performance for compliance with applicable 3rd Generation Partnership Project (3GPP) technical specifications can be a demanding task. Take this opportunity to register for a free webcast. And for your convenience, the webcast is archived so that you can watch it when you have the available time.

A new approach is needed to capture uplink signal information faithfully and display it in formats that are easy to interpret and analyze. This seminar describes the 3GPP specifications' test requirements for uplink signals on the radio interface and illustrates how Tektronix Wireless Communication Analyzers provide clear and comprehensive insight into these complex systems.

#2. Recharge Your Aging and Obsolete ATE Applications
~~~~~~

Do you need to replace aging and obsolete spectrum analyzers, but don't want to change your existing test software?

Check out the R&S FSP and R&S FSU series Spectrum Analyzers which offer an interesting alternative.

Included as standard on both, is code compatibility to HP 8566/68.

The FSP/FSU Solutions:
-- Replace HP 8566/68 A legacy code
-- Include 180 compatible codes of the HP 8566B/8594E command set
-- Emulate PRESET settings (HP 8568A, 8568B, 8566A, 8566B, 8594E, SCPI)
-- Support a user definable ID string

~~~~~~

Tektronix' New Analyzers Trigger, Capture and Analyze RF Signals, Enabling In-Depth Analysis of Today's Cutting-Edge RF Applications

The new Tektronix RSA2200A and RSA3300A Series models are optimized for general-purpose RF applications, ranging from spectrum monitoring to component evaluation. The RSA3300A Series' Frequency Mask Trigger makes it possible to trigger on interfering signals and seamlessly capture a record that contains events before, during and after the trigger and further analyze the signal behavior over time.

To discuss the advantages of Real-Time Spectrum Analysis and the Tektronix RSA Series, call (800) 426-2200 (Press 1 and Request Code 6006) or click here for detailed technical specifications:
http://enews.tektronix.com/Key=4109.Dh8.M.K.MVm267

#4. FREE Application Guide to Help Optimize 2.5G/3G Designs and Reduce Development Cycles
~~~~~~
Whether you are in the R&D phase or already manufacturing components or devices based on today's wireless standards, traditional spectrum analysis no longer meets the challenge.

High transmission rates, new sources of distortion and interference, and the need to view subtle characteristics simultaneously in different domains are beyond the capability of conventional "swept" spectrum analyzers. High performance, flexible modulation analysis, and troubleshooting capabilities are now required.

Tektronix is offering a complimentary application guide that discusses today's 2.5G & 3G wireless design challenges - and ways in which to optimize designs and reduce development cycles. The guide offers useful information for characterizing, troubleshooting, and validating today's wireless devices - and ensuring the compatibility of those devices with the network infrastructure.

#5. NEW: Announcing addition of Vector Signal Generator to the Tektronix Wireless Portfolio
~~~~~~
The SMU200A from Rohde & Schwarz is a new generation of vector signal generators. Based on a new instrument platform that incorporates two independent RF and baseband channels, it enables the design and manufacture of the best performing wireless base station amplifiers, multi-carrier amplifiers and future broadband systems on the market. Key benefits include the following:

-- Dual path configuration enabling interference and multi-standard testing, saving space in test rack
-- Support for all key mobile radio standards - W-CDMA, EGSM, EGPRS, cdma2000
-- Intuitive, fast, graphical operation via signal flow block diagram
-- Simulates complex code power scenarios
-- I/Q signal generation in real-time enables BER and BLER testing without wrap-around problems components or devices based on today's wireless standards, traditional High transmission rates, new sources of distortion and interference, and the need to view subtle characteristics simultaneously in different validating today's wireless devices - and ensuring the compatibility of those devices with the network infrastructure.

I am thinking about going to live in Israel now

I have got the general feeling that Europe is going all antsemitic again and sooner or later especially for a mental patient things are going to get unbearable

What kind of evidence do you need to move there ?

A few years ago I was told that you need a certificate from your mother to say that you are entitled

But as you know things with my family are not really very comfortable

Can you just fly over there and rent an apartment ?

And what about the mental health system ?

Do you still need to do military service ?

PS: Regarding the Book. There are software Programs that can Organize the email data entry's by date, etc.The other thing you suggested is someone who Specializes in Polishing and marketing a book like this. Great Idea, I think it goes under "Devotion & Helping those in need." Kind of like a Mental and Spiritual Mentor/ Life Guard. That's an interesting Title."My Life Guard".
PSS: The Mel Gibson Film :"The Passion Of The Christ" Is doing Record Breaking Business. I saw it. Oh it is Fantastic but Graphically to Violent and Brutally

Raw. No child under Age 13 should be allowed to see the Film. It will give You Nightmares. In this film it is Not The Roman's but The Jews that crucify Jesus Christ.

Dear Michael : hello, in Confidance I share this info. As it affects several productions. Iam looking how to shore up Funding from the colapse of This UK Inland Funding because of The IRS. This is very interesting. I think an Insurance Re Insurer could do well. If i had an Investor that could do $10 Mil Usd to $100 Mil Usd Leave it in there Bank. I could put it in a Structure That would make good Money. Use a Percent of The Interest For Funding these Slates of Films and Your Principal would be intact. Then they would get there Tax write Off and could easily earn more Money.Take a Look. FROM: Dick Parsons

DATE: March 1, 2004

RE: Academy Awards

=20

It was a banner night for Time Warner at the Academy Awards yesterday, as the creative excellence of our film studios was recognized by the motion picture industry with its highest honors.

=20

New Line's The Lord of the Rings: The Return of the King ruled the evening, winning all 11 Oscars for which it had been nominated, including Best Picture and Best Director (Peter Jackson), as well as Best Adapted Screenplay, Film Editing, Original Score, Original Song, Sound, Art Direction, Costume Design, Makeup, and Visual Effects. New Line's total of 11 Oscar victories tied the all-time record shared by Titanic and Ben Hur.

=20

Warner Bros.' critically acclaimed Mystic River was recognized for the extraordinary performances of its cast, taking home the Oscars for Best Actor (Sean Penn) and Best Supporting Actor (Tim Robbins).

=20

The HBO Documentary Films production Chernobyl Heart won the Academy Award for Documentary Short Subject -- the 13th Oscar that HBO has won in its relatively brief history.

=20

Not incidentally, The Lord of the Rings: The Return of the King last Monday became the second movie ever to break the $1 billion mark in worldwide box office. (The only movie with a higher box office total is Titanic, and it took 11 weeks to reach the $1 billion mark, which The Return of the King surpassed in 10 weeks.) The three Lord of the Rings films have together now brought in $2.8 billion in worldwide ticket sales - and there is more to come, as The Return of the King returns to 2,000 theater screens across the U.S. on Friday.

=20

Please join me in congratulating Michael Lynne, Robert Shaye and New Line; Barry Meyer, Alan Horn and their Warner Bros. crew; and Chris Albrecht, Sheila Nevins and the team at HBO on their stellar performances.

You did not tell me the bank address so I just put First Entertainment Credit Union Los Angeles California

Hopefully the Account and Routing Numbers should be sufficient

I do hope the Routing Number is what they mean by the Branch Code Number otherwise we are completely buggered

I had to do the whole thing myself on the web because the bank itself is shut until 11 hours from now

Still if the Account and Routing Numbers are correct it should get to you

Kind Regards
Yours Sincerely

'Biblical' locust plague threatens Mideast
---------- ---------- Posted: March 2, 2004 1:00 a.m. Eastern With the Passover celebration just weeks away, a locust plague of biblical proportions could threaten parts of the Middle East and Africa, according to a United Nations agency. An outbreak that potentially could darken the sky and consume everything in its path is "in progress on the Red Sea coast in Saudi Arabia where swarms are forming," the Rome-based U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization said. Despite intensive control operations, swarms are expected to move into the country's interior where a further generation of breeding could occur in the spring. Some could reach areas in Jordan, southern Iraq and Western Iran later in the spring, the agency said, according to the JTA news service . The U.N. agency is appealing for $9 million to stave off outbreaks in desert parts of northern and western Africa, including Mali, Chad and Mauritania. "If control operations have to slow down or be interrupted, more locusts added to those already there could contribute to eventually transforming the current situation into a plague," the organization warned. According to the book of Exodus, a locust outbreak was one of the 10 plagues inflicted on the Egyptians prior to Israel's flight from captivity, commemorated by Jews and many Christians in the Passover celebration. "The Bible and talmudic literature describe the plague of locusts as one of the worst visitations to come upon the country," the Encyclopedia Judaica says. "Its gravity and extent varies from time to time." Another plague of locusts in the Bible was recounted by the prophet Joel, who said they made the fig tree "clean bare; the branches thereof are made white," JTA notes. The U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization says the desert locust, a form of grasshopper, can quickly multiply into massive swarms capable of moving hundreds or even thousands of miles. "When the locusts find ideal conditions in a sequence of seasonal breeding areas, upsurges can develop and lead to rapid multiplication and increasingly large swarms," said the U.N. organization, which has a special Locust Group to coordinate operations against any threat. "If an upsurge is not controlled, a plague can occur in which swarms invade countries outside the traditional breeding areas," the agency said, according to JTA. "Crop damage by swarms can be devastating." Related story: Leprosy makes comeback © 2004

Kiss the Groom(s)
Wednesday, March 3 2004

Elton says he's on track to wed longtime partner David Furnish. When Parliament makes it possible, Elton John says, he and and David Furnish will be getting married in England.

Like Rosie O'Donnell and Kelli Carpenter and hundreds of other gay couples in recent weeks, Sir Elton told the Daily News exclusively that he and his beloved are going to wed.

"I was on the fence about it for a while," he said. "I've been married before. I thought, why would I want to get married again?"

That more traditional marriage ended when the pop legend divorced Renate Blauel in 1988.

Elton added that it was President Bush's proposed constitutional amendment outlawing gay marriage that was the final push down the aisle he needed.

Dear Elton fan,

Elton John has announced today that he is to play Aberdeen's Pittodrie Stadium on June 18, 2004. Please see www.eltonfan.net/tournews.shtml for more tour dates.

A reporter with the Aberdeen Evening Express in Scotland is writing an article about Elton and is trying to track down local fans (from Aberdeen or the North-east area).

If you are such fan, please contact Karen Grant at k.grant@ajl.co.uk.

Take care,

A+ Mailing Solutions was founded in 2001 by Julie A. Wilson. With over 20 years experience in administration, customer service, marketing and sales, she has developed a broad understanding of various business functions and Industries. Spending 15 years in office automation sales and the last 7 years within the mailing industry, she has developed a thorough understanding of the USPS regulations and the many benefits of mailing campaigns. Throughout her career in the mailing industry she has worked with numerous government agencies, colleges, associations and businesses throughout Central PA. As a response to her customers' needs, she developed and instructed numerous educational seminars focused on the benefits of Automation Compatible Mailings. As a member of the Harrisburg Capital Area Postal Customer Council (HCAPCC) for the past 7 years, she has had additional opportunities to network with business mailers and share their goals and concerns. She has served on the Executive

After years of seeing business mailers lose out on the many benefits of well planned mailing campaigns and postal discounts, it was apparent that a mailing service dedicated to meeting the needs of the business mailer was greatly needed. Our Beginnings and Background

A+ Mailing Solutions was founded in 2001 by Julie A. Wilson. With over 20 years experience in administration, customer service, marketing and sales, she has developed a broad understanding of various business functions and Industries. Spending 15 years in office automation sales and the last 7 years within the mailing industry, she has developed a thorough understanding of the USPS regulations and the many benefits of mailing campaigns. Throughout her career in the mailing industry she has worked with numerous government agencies, colleges, associations and businesses throughout Central PA. As a response to her customers' needs, she developed and instructed numerous educational seminars focused on the benefits of Automation Compatible Mailings. As a member of the Harrisburg Capital Area Postal Customer Council (HCAPCC) for the past 7 years, she has had additional opportunities to network with business mailers and share their goals and concerns. She has served on the Executive Board of the HCAPCC for over 6 years and as Industry Co-Chair for the past four. During this time she has been instrumental in planning and hosting numerous events focused on the needs of the business mailer.

After years of seeing business mailers lose out on the many benefits of well planned mailing campaigns and postal discounts, it was apparent that a mailing service dedicated to meeting the needs of the business mailer was greatly needed. A service willing to work directly with the customer through every process of the planning, not just step in when it's time to address the mail piece.

A+ Mailing Solutions…let us help you achieve your greatest potential through successful mail marketing campaigns.

Our Resources

We opened our doors right from the start with state-of-the-art equipment for processing your mailings. For those services we choose not to do in-house, we have partnered with graphic designers, printers, marketing analysis providers, and envelope/paper vendors that can meet all of your mailing needs.
